

COUNCIL MET MONDAY NIGHT

Lengthy Session Held With New Well
the Chief Item Discussed

A lengthy session of the Village Council was held on Monday night when the members met in their regular monthly meeting with Reeve Thos. Cranston presiding.

Following the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting Clerk G. H. Luery read communications from H. P. Ellis, who complained of offensive odors coming from the catch basins on North Street; Workmen's Compensation Board regarding settlement of a claim by Mr. W. J. Fitchett; Bell Telephone Co., proposing that a blanket by-law be passed by Council authorizing the said Company to make alterations to their system from time to time upon approval by the representative of the Council.

On motion of Councillors Burkit and Whitehead, these communications, with the exception of the one from H. P. Ellis, which was ordered turned over to the local Board of Health, were received and filed.

The following accounts were ordered paid after being passed by the various committees:

Fred McCutcheon	9.40
A. McGee, work	5.00
A. H. Hadley, coal for theatre	99.60
Municipal World, supplies	10.52
Orval Ashley	15.33
F. Gibson, labour	13.50
J. W. Gibson, labour	6.50
Walter Wright, relief	9.10
A. H. Wannamaker, relief	14.21
Stirling Hydro-Electric Sys.	200.74
Stirling Waterworks	124.20
W. J. Fitchett, for lot	90.00
Wm. Chambers, gravel	.90
George Belshaw, gravel	2.20
J. McNabb, tile	99.00
Elmer Murray	13.29
Geo. A. Bailey, cedar posts etc.	37.00
T. Cranston, expenses to Toronto	5.50
C. R. Bastodo, legal advice and drawing up by-law	22.85
Arthur Keegan, labour	6.13
D. A. Burkit, car trip to Toronto	10.00

Bandmaster M. Bell then addressed Council relative to getting some financial assistance for the Band. Since it was impossible for Council to make a grant to the Band without first submitting the matter to a vote of the people and then levying on the assessment for the same, it was suggested the Band be given the use of the theatre some time during the remainder of the current year in payment of services rendered. On motion Council agreed.

A representative of the R. A. Lister Co. submitted a tender on the purchase and installation of a pump at the new well, which was read to the Council by the Clerk. Representatives were also present from Beatty Bros., and sought permission to submit a tender, which was granted. Reeve Cranston announced that a special meeting would be held at a later date for the consideration of the tenders.

Constable S. Eggleton placed a request before the Council for a new overcoat, and the Property Committee was instructed to secure prices and order the same, on motion of Councillors Rollins and Burkit.

A complaint regarding the branches of a tree scraping the roof of Mrs. Henry Kerr's residence was referred to the Streets Committee for action.

Councillor C. B. Rollins gave notice that at the next Council meeting he would introduce a by-law to permit the Bell Telephone Company to make repairs and alterations to their lines within the Village upon receiving the approval of the representative of the Council. In the past a by-law was passed for each job done by the company, but once this by-law is passed it will only be necessary for the Com-

Don, through being a native of this district and his position on the Bank staff here has become well and favourably known. His many friends will be pleased to hear of his advancement and join in wishing him every success in his new field of labour.

ST. PAUL'S MISSION BAND

The Stirling United Church Mission Band was held on Monday last. The meeting was opened by singing "What a Friend we have in Jesus", followed by the Lord's Prayer. The Theme of the topic was "The Church in my life, all lives, and all lands." The first three scripture lessons were read by June Woodbeck, Joan Munro and Neita Keegan. Winona Beckel read the story entitled "Play out the Game", followed by two other scripture lessons given by Mary Tulloch and Marion Tulloch. The second hymn was "I love to tell the story." Business was then discussed. The next meeting will be held on the twenty-third of this month. It will be the open meeting and will be held at the Church. The Woman's Missionary Society will be invited. It was also decided to hold a cooking sale on December 4. The meeting was closed by singing "Jesus bids us Shine," followed by the Benediction.

ST. JOHN'S S. SCHOOL HELD ENTERTAINMENT

On Friday evening, Oct. 29th, the Rector and staff of St. John's S. S. entertained the pupils and friends at a masquerade party. A number of Halloween games were played and enjoyed by all. Following the Grand March the winners of the prizes were announced: Little Helpers' Group, an elf, John Smith; special recognition was made of the three little gypsies dressed alike — Beverly, Sheila and Valerie Ingram; girls' original, Jeanne Villorotte, Christmas Tree; girls' fancy, Dorothy Ellis, pirate; boys' comic, Harry Conley, clown; boys' best, Jimmy Wright, Pirate; pairs, Mary-Louise Lannigan, Dorothy West, Siamese Twins; adults, Mrs. Claude Belshaw, Mrs. Carl Conley, humorous costumes.

An enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments by the teachers of the S. S. assisted by some ladies of the congregation.

pany to get the approval of the representative appointed by Council.

A letter of resignation from the position of Superintendent of Waterworks was tabled from Mr. Frank Sprentall. Council decided to not accept the resignation and planned to interview Mr. Sprentall in a body on Tuesday morning to ask him to reconsider his resignation. (As a result of Tuesday morning's interview Mr. Sprentall has agreed to carry on for a time.)

Councillor F. Stapley presented a written request for permission to withdraw his tender submitted for the completion of the well. On motion of Councillors Rollins and Whitehead the request was granted.

Then followed a lengthy discussion of the construction of the well, and although it was long past the midnight hour when adjournment took place, nothing definite was done.

W. I. HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Ghosts, goblins, witches and all sorts of gaily costumed and weird-looking individuals were stalking about the Stirling Community Hall last Thursday night when the local branch of the Women's Institute staged a very successful Halloween entertainment.

From early evening costumed folk wended their way to the centre of activities and when the time arrived for the opening of the entertainment the large hall was taxed to capacity.

Mr. Arthur Duncan acted as chairman for the following programme: opening chorus by a group of public school girls under the direction of Miss Turner, teacher of music, with Miss Grace Pitman, A.T.C.M., at the piano; impersonations of radio artists by Chas. Dracup; piano solo, Miss Margaret Wilson; guitar and harmonica selection by Jimmy Armstrong; tap dance, Hick Sisters; solo, Mary Agnes Fox; solo, Jack Coggins, accompanied by Mrs. Andrews on the guitar; group of western songs, Jack McCaughen.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of a one-act comedy, "To meet Mr. Thompson," by a group of older girls under the direction of Miss Thelma Fenwick.

Community singing, under the leadership of Mr. Arthur Duncan was also enjoyed with Mrs. B. W. Bishop at the piano.

Judges for the costume parade were Mrs. C. F. Walt, Mrs. H. Rollins, Mrs. J. E. O'Donnell and Reeve Thos. Cranston.

PRIZE MONEY PAID IN FULL

Meeting of Agricultural Society Held Tuesday Night

In spite of the fact that the proceeds from this year's Stirling Fair were considerably lower than other years, the prizes awarded will be paid in full. So decided the directors of the local Agricultural Society at a meeting held in the Agricultural Rooms on Tuesday night.

J. B. Thompson, president, occupied the chair and the following directors were present: Ben Blecker, C. McGee, F. R. Mallory, H. P. Ellis, Wm. Patterson, William Wickett, Gilbert Thompson, Thos. W. Solmes, H. R. Tompkins and C. F. Linn.

Secretary Mallory read a financial statement of the Society, showing the amount of prize money to be paid as in the neighborhood of seven hundred dollars. This amount, along with other expenses, would show a deficit on the year's operations. A full discussion followed and it was the general opinion of those present that the curtailment of the School Fairs and the paralysis epidemic were directly responsible for the decreased proceeds. On motion it was decided to pay prize money in full and the finance committee was authorized to make arrangements for taking care of any overdraft which might result.

The attention of the meeting was also drawn to the fact that the dates of the Kingston exhibition, which is a Class "B" Fair, interfered with the dates of the local Fair, and Secretary Mallory was authorized to draft a resolution of protest which will be forwarded to J. A. Carroll, Secretary of the Provincial Fairs Association. If the larger fairs were permitted to take any dates they wished, without regard for the smaller fairs of the district, it would not be long before the latter would be squeezed out entirely, stated Secretary Mallory.

A short discussion took place on improvements that might be made in the programme of the Fair to provide more entertainment for the patrons. The suggestion was advanced that the trials of speed might be eliminated and the money used to provide more novelty contests and entertainment. This met with the approval of the majority of those present, but nothing definite was done and the matter will likely be thoroughly discussed at the annual meeting to be held early in the new year.

ARMISTICE DAY

One week from today, Thursday, November 11th, is Armistice Day and in the thousands of towns and villages throughout Canada services of remembrance will be fittingly observed in honour of those who fought and died for their King and Country during the Great War which came to an end nineteen years ago.

Here in Stirling the members of the Canadian Legion, the Boy Scout Cubs, the Girl Guides and members of the Village Council are expected to take part in the usual parade to the Cenotaph, where a fitting service is being planned to be conducted by the clergy. The Stirling Citizens' Band will lead the parade and furnish appropriate music throughout. The citizens of the Village and surrounding district are invited to be present and pay their tribute to those who gave their all in the great conflict.

As we gather around the Cenotaph we will again think of the unforgettable dead. These men thought they were laying down their prospects of happy home influences with the sweet hearts of their youth that democracy might live.

We will also think of the thousands for whom the war is not over and are still battling for existence in our hospitals.

For the former we can do nothing. For the latter we can co-operate with endeavour that will add to their comfort. But the appreciation of a grateful nation should not end with thoughts of the dead and maimed.

In hamlet, village and city are the living thousands who went forth to meet the foe. Some volunteered their services. Others were told to go. But the fact is that they put their bodies between their homeland and the horrors of war. They faced and felt those horrors.

On Armistice Day a nation pauses and without personally embarrassing them makes recognition of the fact that the living veterans of foreign wars stood ready to give their all to keep the scourge of war from blighting their land and our land.

BUY A POPPY!

This is the week of the annual Poppy Fund Campaign and the members of the Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion once more are appealing to the citizens of Stirling and district for their most generous support. Poppy Day is the one day of the year on which the Canadian Legion appeals to the public for funds, which are used entirely in providing relief for the families of needy returned war veterans of the district. Every poppy sold means help to those who helped their country when their country called them. The local Legion has appointed a Poppy Committee which is making arrangements to have the homes and business places of the Village canvassed on Saturday next, and it is hoped that a generous response will be made. Poppies will also be on sale on Armistice Day.

Last year, Canada remembered her war dead in so inspiring a fashion at Vimy—the memorial itself, the Pilgrimage of veterans and mothers and wives, the participation of the King, the President of the French Republic, the Prime Minister—that every Canadian must feel pride in a duty so wholly and beautifully done.

Some expression of that feeling is very likely to be made by Canadians on November 11th this year when, with the appeal of the Poppy Fund, the opportunity is given to render some measure of gratitude to those who, one might say, fell in the war but did not die.

For that, in effect, is what happened to many thousands of Canadian young men. Wounded, damaged in body and spirit, these multitudes of our fellow men have survived twenty years of pain and handicap, of distress, frustration and disappointment in the daily race of life, regardless of all the help government and municipalities can devise for them. On the base of the indescribably beautiful memorial on Vimy Ridge, there are carved in the solid stone, the names of the 11,283 Canadian soldiers whose bodies have never been found, whose names do not appear on a headstone in any of the numerous Canadian cemeteries scattered over France and Flanders. Thus no man is forgotten. The Poppy Fund, insofar as the funds it can raise permit, has attempted to see that no man of those living be forgotten. The things government cannot undertake to supply, clothing, furniture, the simple amenities of comfort in a home are the routine provisions of the Poppy Fund. It also meets certain kinds of emergencies, medical and domestic. Its work is practically all voluntary. It tries to be, on behalf of its countless contributors on Poppy Day, the good Samaritan to the forgotten fringes of the veteran problem.

The Canadian Legion which conducts the campaign in Canada is only one unit of the British Empire Service League which on November 11th, in its world-wide associations in the British Empire, is selling poppies to fellow-Britishers in every corner of the globe. The British peoples have their various national holidays and red letter days, but in the gift you make on Poppy Day, you are sharing in a duty universally British.

Canada has adopted the poppy as a symbol because of the 60,000 graves in France and Belgium in which lie the dead of the preceding generation, and because of the 170,000 Canadians to whom the conflict brought disablement of one kind or another. All Canadians of every age and degree should wear a symbol on Poppy Day. Citizens of Stirling have given a ready response to the appeal of the veterans in other years and it is hoped that this year's proceeds will far exceed any similar appeal.

A WORD ABOUT HABITS

The word habit is very resistant to decapitation. Leave off the first letter and "a bit" remains. Behead again and the same "bit" is left. Drop the b and "it" still remains.

The thing which the word defines is equally resistant. A fixed habit becomes so much a part of a person's life that it is followed unconsciously and to rid one's self of it becomes increasingly difficult with its continued indulgence.

Of course not all habits are vicious. Many are good and should not be abandoned. But since all grow more persistent as they are longer followed and since each habit is likely to have some influence upon the forming or continued practice of others, it is wise to exercise caution against the contraction of those which are bad.

Habits are as insidious as they are persistent. They often become dominating before one is aware of it. Fortunately this is as true of good ones as it is of bad ones. The suggestion is obvious.

CURRENT COMMENT

Let everyone wear a poppy on Poppy Day.

When driving through the rural sections of Central and Eastern Ontario one cannot help but notice the comparatively small amount of fall plowing done by the farmers in comparison with other years. The fore part of the fall season was so dry that plowing was difficult, while now it rains too frequently to give the farmers a chance to get much done. With colder weather being promised by the weather man it is beginning to look as though next spring will find the farmers doing a great deal of plowing which otherwise would have been done this fall.

Those citizens who are interested in hockey are to have an opportunity to discuss the local situation at a meeting to be held in the Agricultural Rooms next Monday night. For the past two years Stirling has been represented in the Trent Valley League and while some of the older players have departed or retired there are a number of the younger players ready to step in and fill the vacancies. A good hockey team is a splendid advertisement for any village and it is hoped that there will be a large representation of the business men and others at Monday's meeting to ensure a strong organization. Don't forget the date—Monday next—in the Agricultural Rooms, at eight o'clock.

lack of newspaper support, a real honest-to-goodness Liberal campaign of advertising and a premier and his government that had done much good for the province during the past three years and four months. Some day the Conservative party will be back in power in Ontario, but that time is not for a while yet. So we don't think Hon. Earl Rowe made such an awful bad job this time and he may do better five years from now when there will be more to talk about, whether it be good or bad.

Canada is blessed with vast natural resources. Her people are very industrious—1,200,000 are unemployed; some of them are said to work for the Government. HOW ITS DONE

(Alliston Herald)

The election campaign in the province of Ontario when the Conservative forces under J. P. Whitney savagely attacked the administration of G. W. Ross had as a paramount issue the secret ballot. The conservatives charged that the ballot was not secret. They pointed out that the ballot and the stub were numbered and as the names were entered in the poll book and the number of the ballot on which they voted was also recorded. It was an easy matter to take the ballots after the election and with the notations in the poll book learn how every voter marked his ballot. Mr. Whitney (afterwards Sir James) utterly abolished the numbered ballot and made it impossible to learn how any voter marked his ballot. This condition has been supposed to prevail ever since the numbered ballot and stub was abolished, but we noticed at the election on the 6th of October that it is quite possible to learn how any voter marked his ballot. There is no number on the stub of the ballot as there was under Mowat and Ross, but the ballots bear serial numbers. And here is the way the vote of an elector may be indicated. The ballots at a given polling place are numbered serially, say from 5,100 to 5,399 at the west end polling booth in this town where we voted. On entering the booth we found it was cluttered up with a lot of needless scrutineers. All had their lists and were checking off every voter who entered. This may be necessary and again it may not. If there was a possibility of impersonation it was wise to have the check by the scrutineers, but if the list is properly prepared—which it was not—there can be no possibility of impersonation. The way it is now possible to learn how a voter marked his ballot is this. The first man in the booth gets ballot number 5,100 and his name is written in the poll book by the poll clerk. The second voter gets ballot number 5,101 and the third, 5,102. So it goes till all the voters have cast their ballots. At the close of the polls the clerk has a complete list of the voters in conservative order. All that is necessary to learn how a voter marked his ballot is to count the ballots that have been cast previous to the one wanted and with the series of numbers available run down the list and pick out the ballot wanted. We personally have evidence of one man who was told to vote as he was bade and also was told that the ward heelers would know how he voted. We have this evidence complete and will willingly take the witness box at an investigation and give the details. Any time an investigation is instituted we are ready.

NEW HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION FOR PROVINCE

Ontario's Hydro-Electric Power Commission—administering body of the province's multi-million-dollar public power enterprise—was made over completely on Monday when a cabinet meeting ratified appointment of Dr. Thomas H. Hogg, chief engineer, to succeed T. Stewart Lyon as chairman. Mr. Lyon, former editor of the Toronto Globe, who came out of retirement to head the commission after Premier Hepburn's Liberal Government came to power after the 1934 election, resigned on Saturday. He was the last of the three-man commission to set up after the election. Following the return of his government to power last October 6, the Premier appointed Hon. W. L. Hogg, of Niagara Falls and Major J. A. Smith, of Kitchener to the commission in place of A. W. Roebuck and Highways Minister McQuesten.

"I wish to take this opportunity of paying a deserved tribute to the work of Mr. Lyon," the Premier said. "He has held the chairmanship of Hydro during a very crucial period in its history and I have nothing else but praise for his efforts. He accepted the post at a time when most men would have been content to retire and he devoted the same energy to the new task as he gave in his many years of service as a newspaper editor."

Dr. Hogg, who will retain his office of chief engineer has had a long career in hydro engineering. Joining the Ontario Power Company in 1909, he resigned in 1912 to accept an editorial position with the Canadian Engineer.

The new chairman became associated with the Hydro Commission in 1913 as assistant hydraulic engineer and in 1925 was appointed chief hydraulic engineer.

Mr. Hogg, Cabinet Minister without portfolio, will be vice-chairman of the Commission.

Hydro has figured actively in legislative discussions since the Liberals took office in 1934. Legislation cancelling power purchase contracts with privately-owned Quebec power companies provoked a long and sustained debate in the 1935 session of the Legislature.

THE ART OF MAKING TEA

To get the utmost in flavour and quality from tea is an art, but it is an art in which anyone can produce a masterpiece by following these simple directions:

Run the 'cold' tap a few seconds before filling your kettle (never use stale water or water from the 'hot' tap). See that the water is boiling furiously and not just steaming. Scald out a crockery tea pot, measure in to it a teaspoonful of good quality tea for each person and one for the pot, add the boiling water and steep for five minutes before serving.

Nothing else soothes our tired bodies or gives us the same comfort and pleasure that we get from a good cup of tea. Surely it is worth our while to make it carefully.

MOTHER OF FIVE WHO WAS ALWAYS TIRED

NOW AWAKES AS FRESH AS A DAISY

A mother of five has a lot to do. Especially a country mother. And this one was "always tired". But Kruschen ended all that — now she gets up feeling fresh at five o'clock in the morning! She writes:

"I find Kruschen Salts the best thing money can buy for my health. I am the mother of five children, and before taking Kruschen, I was always feeling tired and run down. Now, I am glad to say that I get up at five o'clock in the morning. I do my housework, look after my children, and leave the house at 6.30 to start my daily work." — (Mrs.) B.

Tiredness and that run-down feeling can be traced to one root cause. That cause is internal sluggishness; failure to keep the inside free from poisonous waste matter.

Kruschen Salts is an excellent recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The numerous salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clear of those impurities which, when allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

After all had unmasked the following program was given: Solo, Mr. B. Barnum (Miss Evelyn Barnum accompanist); Scotch Dance (in costume), Miss Dorothy Spencer (Mr. Wilfred Spencer, violin); solo, Mr. J. F. Baker (Mrs. W. G. Swayne accompanying); piano duet, Misses Phyllis and Margaret Barlow; Group Games, etc. in charge of Mrs. Geo. Williams; Community singing and word contest, led by Mr. J. F. Baker. Mrs. Geo. A. Bailey, president of the Springbrook Branch, acted as chairman in a capable manner. After the programme all betook themselves to the banqueting hall where they were served with a splendid supper.

The annual meeting and banquet of the Laymen's Association of Hastings and Prince Edward Deaneities of the Church of England was held at Wellington, Ont., on Thursday evening last, commencing at 7 p.m. Nearly two hundred sat down to tables liberally groaning under the weight of tempting viands provided by Guilds of St. Andrew's, Wellington, and Christ Church, Hillier. The President of the Association, Dr. C. S. Slack, acted as Toastmaster. The toast "The King" was followed by the National Anthem and one verse of "Onward Christian Soldiers". Rev. John M. Brownlee and Mr. D. S. Ainsworth of Wellington extended the heartiest of greetings to the visitors in addresses of welcome. The toast "The Church and the Clergy", proposed by His Honour Judge E. M. McLean, of Picton, was responded to by The Lord Bishop of Ontario, Right Rev. John Lyons who paid tribute to the splendid work and loyalty of the clergy and laity of the diocese. "The Laymen's Association" was proposed by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell of Marmora and responded to by Col. E. C. Hodgins and Mr. Percy Lowe, M.A., Ph.D., both of Kingston. The Colonel stressed the importance of church attendance and more interest in the work of the church by the men. Dr. Lowe is the recently appointed chairman of The Diocesan Laymen's Council. usual array of Jack-o'-lanterns, black cats, witches and orange and black trimmings. So elaborate were the masqueraders' costumes that the judges had a difficult job indeed to make awards. Cartiches' children do not wear glasses

You cannot avoid or cure your children's eyestrain by refusing to face the facts.

Your children are going back to school. Their eyes may or may not be equal to the tasks imposed upon them. If they are, well and good. It is a comfort to know it. If they are not, you should do something about it.

An examination will tell you. Remember that small errors of refraction, if properly corrected now, may prevent serious eye-trouble later on.

School years are the formative years and eyestrain in school years is never corrected by hiding your head in the sand.

Up in the clouds

by Beulah Earle

Monty Wallace has just arrived in California, having broken the East-West cross country airplane record. Natalie Wade, mistaken by him for a newspaper reporter, writes the exclusive account of Monty's arrival, and succeeds in securing a trial job with a paper in exchange for the story. Natalie becomes attached to Monty.

Although she discovers Monty's love for her is not sincere, Natalie admits that she loves him. She is assigned by her paper to report Monty's activities for publication. Jimmy Hale, the newspaper's photographer, becomes Natalie's co-worker.

Natalie interviews Jabe Marion, a wealthy airplane builder, who decides to build a record-breaking 'round the world plane for Monty. Marion's daughter, Sunny, exquisitely beautiful, is attracted to Monty. She invites Natalie to dine with her, when they meet the aviator unexpectedly.

Natalie thrilled at the sight. Her wild notion had brought success. The missing fliers were beneath them, apparently unhurt. Mont Wallace tested the ground-currents cautiously and then put the ship into a steep dive.

Withered sandwiches and tepid pop disappeared like magic before the onslaught of the two lost pilots. Bar chocolate and candy bars helped restore their morale and their sense of humor.

They chatted of their adventure, told of the clogged oil line that had caused them to try a landing and of the treacherous air current that had whipped the plane into the ground and crippled it beyond immediate repair.

Natalie drank in the details. Mont Wallace studied his maps and marked upon them the nearest seacoast town that might have a telegraph line. Arrangements were made for the two youths to remain where they were until help had been sent and then Mont and Natalie took off for the coast in high triumph.

At the small Mexican town, Mont wired the lost fliers' home airport and Natalie began writing sheet after sheet of their story. Getting the news out was a prodigious task for the small, black-haired, black-eyed operator had little understanding of English and was forced to send the words almost letter by letter.

Before the task had been completed, radio had sent two planes to land beside Mont's ship on the beach before the town. Mont led the rescue flight and then came back for the girl.

As they winged their way north along the coast line of California Bay, Natalie was happier than she had ever been before and Mont's mood matched hers in glee.

To their chagrin they found they had nothing to eat or drink aboard but they were determined to make port at the earliest possible moment and decided to forget the inconvenience of going without lunch.

"We'll have the biggest dinner there is on the Pacific coast," Mont declared and they planned for the evening together.

At the airport, they were received like heroes with Mack Hamlin himself, minus his eye-shade and with his suspenders hidden under a black searucker coat, all but hugging the girl in his enthusiasm.

Jimmy Hale alone greeted her scornfully.

"After all I've tried to tell you," he reprimanded her, "going off without even a kodak. Won't you ever learn?" But she knew that he was more pleased than he dared admit.

"I forgot everything but getting started," she told him. "It never occurred to me to try for pictures."

"Well," the boy chuckled, "I'm going to see that you never go anywhere again without taking something along that will bring back a picture."

Jabe Marion bore the pair off then for dinner at his house, and there it was that Sunny congratulated them with cold reserve entirely foreign to her usual volubility.

"I hope you had a nice time," she said cuttlingly when Natalie and she were alone together before dinner.

Natalie took her firmly by the arms.

"Look at me," she commanded. "Do I look as though I'd done anything I might be ashamed of? Just because we're both in love with Mont Wallace is no reason why we can't be decent to each other. I like you and, when you aren't thinking of me as the devil who is taking your man from you, you like me."

The girl closed her eyes stubbornly. "I like you," she said, "when you don't consider it necessary to go on overnight trips into the desert with him."

Natalie's head went up then and she turned to the business of freshening herself after the dishevelment of the journey. For a long moment she did not speak. When she did it was with cold fury.

"When I stoop to the sort of tactics you mean, I will have lost not only my principles but any vestiges of good sense that may be left to me. I don't propose to be anybody's pet cat and if I find I have to degrade myself to make Mont Wallace love me, I'll choose rather to be worthy of his love than to have it."

Sunny laughed unpleasantly.

"That," she sneered, "is a good line for one of your stories. But you know and I know that you'd take him on any terms."

"Don't be silly," Natalie rejoined. "What you know and I know is that either of us could have had him on his own terms long before this."

Sunny broke then. The tears came and she held out her arms to Natalie. "I'm sorry," she sobbed, "but I am so jealous of you sometimes I don't know what I'm doing. Even then I don't know why I have to try to hurt you for I can't help being crazy about you."

Natalie comforted the girl as best she could. "And do you think I'm not jealous of you? I'd give my eyes sometimes if you weren't so good-looking."

"Oh, Nat, I never thought of that. You hang onto yourself so. I didn't think you were ever silly. It's because you're such a sweet person that I can't imagine anybody not loving you."

"Well, now that we've got all that out of our systems, I suppose we ought to do down to dinner. I wish I could send home for something I haven't slept in." She considered her rumpled costume ruefully.

"I'll probably die if you look well in it, but won't you wear something of mine?" Sunny offered and presently Natalie surveyed herself in a long glass wearing one of Sunny's stunning gowns.

"I knew I oughtn't to have done that," Sunny laughed. "Now I'll never get Mont to look at me again."

"It's just too bad about you," Natalie bantered.

And together the two went down the broad stairway in search of the man they loved.

But when they reached the library door they found that he and Jabe Marion were too deep in conversation to pay any attention to feminine company.

The four moved into the spacious dining room without pairing and there Jabe Marion stood in his place to propose a toast.

"Let us drink," he said, "to the success of the greatest flight ever proposed. To the plane 'Sunny Marion' to her non-stop refueling flight around the world, and to her pilot, Mont Wallace."

Natalie gasped. Sunny squealed with delight. Mont lifted his glass.

"Success to the flight and to the man who conceived the plan," he amended.

"Success," cried Natalie, and the glasses drained.

"Breaks, kid!" exclaimed Jimmy Hale. "You sure get 'em. And may you never miss."

Natalie's story of the proposed flight was rolling on the great presses of the "Express". The first ink copies lay before the two as they stood in Jimmy's cluttered office.

Coming on the heels of her rescue story out of Lower California, it was world news, and Mont Wallace was again a hero, not only for what he had done, but for what he was about to attempt.

In a dozen world capitals, betting odds were to be posted that same night on the chances of success.

The plan was simplicity itself, with Mont Wallace's flying accuracy as the key.

Ten refueling stations were to be established. Ten pilots were to stand ready, linked by short wave radio with the control station at Mineola, Long Island, where the start was to be made.

Wallace was to fly with the newest automatic control equipment.

Everything depended on the plane and on Wallace's ability to keep to the course. Proven methods of refueling in the air would be used and the plane would be altered at once to make refueling easy for the lone flier.

Natalie was already assigned to cover preparations at the home port.

Plans were under way for the christening of the ship by Sunny Marion and Jimmy had sold pictures of the girl to half a dozen national picture agencies.

Sunny's glee was not hard to fathom for the christening of the plane would link her name with that of Mont Wallace. The world would see romance there. There was at least a chance that Mont had suggested the naming of the ship though Natalie held to the hope that her father had been responsible for the suggestion.

Inspired by the magnitude of the project, Natalie was nevertheless not without her misgivings. She knew that a thousand dangers lurked along the path of the plane and that Mont would crowd his luck for the last chance of success.

More than this, she found that Mont had suddenly become almost a stranger to her. So engrossed was he in the preparations for the flight that he would not leave the field except for sleep and, though her assignment threw the girl with his constantly, there were few moments when they regained any of the easy intimacy they had known.

Natalie's only consolation was that Sunny suffered from the same neglect and yet there were occasional conferences at the Marion home when Sunny must be present while Natalie was busy with her copy or otherwise left out.

As time for the flight drew near, the girl reporter found she had fewer and fewer moments to think of the dangers of the plan or try for the favour of the man she loved.

She knew at last that she was jealous of the flight as well as of Sunny Marion and when Jimmy found her hiding in his dark room one evening in tears he guessed what the trouble was.

"You're just naturally bound to love that guy, aren't you?" he chided. "Well don't break your heart and we'll see what can be done."

The girl poured out her troubles into his willing ear. He took her in his arms as though she were his sister instead of the girl he adored and promised her that he would do "his best damndest" to fix things up for her.

He took her home and made her promise to get into bed and forget all about it.

Sleep came to her rescue then but she woke in the middle of the night apparently awakened by some noise at the door.

For an instant she was terrified but she knew that help was within call and so she went to the door and opened it. A man lay there, sprawled on the hall carpet and when she bent above him, she found it was Jimmy Hale, unconscious and clearly very drunk.

Her heart went out to him as it had never done before. She bent to lift him and got him into the room. With the door swiftly closed so that he was safe from arrest for his condition and his midnight visit, she helped him to her own bed, stilled his mutterings and watched over him the rest of the night.

She fell asleep in the big chair where she sat and the sun was high when she waked the next morning to find the boy still slumbering heavily.

In the very small cabinet kitchen where she prepared her breakfasts, she brewed for him some very strong coffee and broke out a can of tomatoes, remembering that he had spoken often of their efficacy after much drinking.

TWEED RESIDENT DIES FROM INJURIES

Mrs. Alice Byrne MacAvoy, 70-year-old resident of Tweed died in the Belleville General Hospital early on Monday evening.

Mrs. MacAvoy was a life-long resident of Tweed and the widow of the late Michael MacAvoy. Surviving her is one brother, Sylvester Byrne, of Tweed, and one sister, who at present is residing in Toronto.

Mrs. MacAvoy was walking across a bridge on Tweed on Saturday morning when she was struck by a bicycle ridden by Vincent Prout, 17-year-old Tweed delivery boy, it is said. The elderly lady was knocked down and when picked up she was in an unconscious condition. She never regained consciousness, authorities revealed.

Upon orders from the office of County Crown Attorney B.C. Donnan, K.C., young Prout was placed under arrest by Chief Clare Hayes of Tweed on a charge of criminal negligence. Prout was subsequently brought to Belleville and lodged in Hastings County jail awaiting preliminary.

HAS HOPE STILL FOR LOST FLIER

R. H. K. Smith, San Francisco steamship company executive, is Australia-bound to aid the search for his brother, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, who vanished nearly two years ago on a flight from London to the Dominion "down under."

Smith never has given up hope that his brother landed safely and that he and his co-pilot, Tom Pethybridge, still are alive somewhere in the Malay jungle. "I know that jungle well," he said, "and I know my brother. If he panicked his ship, there is every chance he is still alive. And it is not to be wondered at that he is still in there. I've spent as much as 24 hours myself, hacking through undergrowth with a keen-edged hatchet and progressing only a half mile."

Sir Charles last was heard from Nov. 8, 1935, while flying over Akyab on the coast of Burma. The Andaman Sea, shark-infested Bay of Bengal and Malay peninsula jungles were searched for weeks but no trace of the fliers was found. An Indian Ocean monsoon was believed to have forced them down.

West Huntingdon School Log

Shortly after 1816 when Hastings County was being surveyed by Mr. Wilnot, provision was made for the erection of a school on lot 2, concession 4, of Huntingdon Township. The land referred to was at this time in the possession of Col. Nesbitt Reid. Other pioneers of early education were: Phillip Luke, James Archibald, Simeon Ashley, J. Haggerty and Walter Schryver.

A school Board was formed with Mr. Nesbitt Reid as chairman. On the land donated by Mr. Reid, a sturdy built, but not too well lighted log school house was erected. The first teacher was Mr. Robert McCallum, an elderly Irishman who had received his education in the Old Country and was a firm believer in the "Three R's" and the unrestricted use of the birch rod.

For this history of the first log school the writer is indebted to the kindness of one of the oldest residents in the community, Mr. Howard Ashley, who recalled these descriptions from the stories of his father, Mr. Simeon Ashley. He told of its dull interior with its wooden blackboards and small windows. The scholars sat on movable benches placed around the walls of the school and used their knees or the back of the scholar in front of them for support for their slates.

The school was maintained by the voluntary contributions from the families interested in it. The teacher boarded at the homes of the ratepayers and received a salary in keeping with the times. At this time there were no churches and the school-house served as a community centre. Church services, socials and community gathering were held there.

Some of the outstanding graduates of this first log school were: Mr. Jas. Haggerty, who later entered the teaching profession, leaving this to represent this riding in Provincial Government; Mr. John Ashley, Mr. Marmon Haggerty, Mr. Adam Haggerty, Mr. John Luke, Mr. George Caldwell, Mr. William Phillips and Mr. Charles Thompson.

After about half a century of service, it was found that this log school was too primitive in its design to serve the demands of a later period. As a result the Board consisting of Mr. James Gay, Mr. John Ashley and Mr. Peter Fargy were faced with the problem of erecting a new school. After some discussion as to the site, the school was finally built in 1862 about 160 rods east of the old site. This was a large stone school, equipped with double seats and a better heating and ventilation system. The first teacher was Mr. James Haggerty, graduate of the old log school.

The teachers who succeeded Mr. Haggerty are as follows: Mr. Samuel Gardiner, Mr. Semsmith, Mr. Wiggins, Mr. (afterwards Dr.) Bissonnette, Mr. A. Embury and Mr. J. B. Morton. Mr. Morton served the longest of any teacher in the history of the school, having taught for over twenty-two years. During this time the attendance reached as high as ninety. He was succeeded by Mr. Robert McCaffrey who was followed in turn by Mr. Robert Elliott.

On July 1, 1902, the school Board, consisting of Mr. James Donnan, chairman; Mr. James Gay, Secretary; trustee, Mr. Robert Roy and Mr. Wm. Hawkins, trustees, called a general ratepayers' meeting to decide about enlarging the school by the addition of another room. At this meeting it was arranged that the partition be moved to the south, and the door changed from the front to the side. Messrs. John Wright and T. Tummson were awarded the contract for the work at $310.

Miss Agnes Fargy was the teacher for the new senior room, with Miss Ida McCaw, junior teacher, and continued in this capacity while Mr. F. Drewry became senior teacher, Miss Brown, Miss Robinson, Miss Mitchell and Miss Corbett were the next succeeding teachers.

During this time the attendance had been decreasing, and on August 6, 1907, the Board met with the purpose of discussing improvements to the school and grounds. At this meeting it was decided to erect a new fence, and to level and drain the grounds. The Board also advertised for a male teacher to take charge of the school. Mr. L. Sharpe was hired at a salary of $350. Later teachers were Miss Hughes, Miss Hawkins, Mr. Smith, (now doctor at Madoc); Mr. Madden, Mr. A. W. McGuire (now Inspector of Public Schools for Centre Hastings).

In 1918 the School Board was again forced to engage two teachers. Miss Dorothy Moore was hired as senior teacher with Miss Katy Kennedy as junior teacher. Miss Kennedy later became senior teacher and Miss Marjorie Fargy was hired as junior teacher. Miss M. Payne and Miss L. Sprague were the next successive senior teachers, with Miss Florence Marshall as junior teacher.

Again the attendance dropped and in 1922 M. Reynolds was hired to teach all the grades. Mr. Reynolds only remained a short time. He was followed by Miss Violet Kerr, Mr. L. Fraser, Miss M. Merriam and Mr. C. Moran.

Mr. W. Mackintosh was Inspector of Public Schools throughout the early history of the school. He was succeeded by Mr. A. W. McGuire, B.A., of Tweed.

In 1917 the curriculum was enlarged to include Rural School Fairs. They were held around at the various schools until later when Ivanhoe was selected as headquarters for the School Fairs of Huntingdon Township. Agriculture as a formal subject on the curriculum was not introduced until 1920.

In September of 1930, Miss Ramsay was engaged by the School Board as special music teacher. She was succeeded in 1931 by Mrs. (Dr.) Alexander who is the present music teacher.

No school log would be complete without a list of the scholars who have gone out to make a name for themselves in the various walks of life. At this point the writer wishes to confess that he has searched all records, and made many inquiries. If any omissions have occurred, he would appreciate receiving the information:

IMPERIAL OIL IS TO BROADCAST HOCKEY

"Hello Canada — and hockey fans in Newfoundland and the United States.". Once more, on Saturday, November 6th, Foster Hewitt's familiar greeting will sweep over a chain of stations from coast to coast. Fans in Canada — the United States — and even in more distant countries — will rally round their radios to hear the opening Imperial Oil Hockey Broadcast of the game between Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans, at Maple Leaf Gardens.

That this program is the world's biggest and most popular weekly sports broadcast, is borne out by a letter received from an enthusiastic woman hockey fan, formerly of Nova Scotia, but who writes to say she is going to "listen in" from her far-away new home in Cristobal, Canal Zone, where, she claims, reception is crystal clear.

The Imperial Oil Hockey Broadcasts will expand this coming winter, practically "blanketing" every province in Canada with the broadcasts of games played either in Toronto or in Montreal.

Last winter broadcasting of Montreal games was not permitted during the regular season schedule, leaving province of Quebec listeners without hockey until the play-offs. This winter, however, Imperial Oil Limited has secured a franchise for all Saturday night games in Montreal.

With the province of Quebec thus provided for, the hockey network will now cover the entire Dominion with games played either in Toronto or in Montreal, and Saturday night will very definitely become Hockey night in Canada.

Imperial Oil's Montreal staff of English announcers is already familiar to listeners throughout Canada, due to the Montreal play-off games last winter. But, in addition to the English broadcasts of games at the Forum, there will be a companion broadcast, entirely in French, and featuring Roland Beaudry as the play announcer. This will go out over a Quebec provincial network of five stations — believed to be the largest French-language network ever used on a weekly sports feature.

Thus, the Imperial Oil Hockey Broadcasts during the coming winter will actually consist of three separate and distinct broadcasts every Saturday night. One of these will be the regular broadcast of the Maple Leaf home games from the Maple Leaf Gardens, in Toronto. A second will be the English broadcast of either the Maroons or Canadiens home games at The Forum in Montreal — which may occasionally be heard over the national network, particularly during play-offs. The third will be the all-French broadcast of the Montreal games, sort out over a Quebec provincial network.

It is believed that this dual broadcast from Montreal is the only weekly two-language feature of its sort in the world.

THE OLD ELM TREE

I've stood by the roadside for many years,
I've watched the world go by,
I've seen the children going to school,
I've heard them laugh and cry.

I've seen the peddler with his pack,
I've seen the ox and cart—
I've watched the man with his old Ford car,
The kind that was hard to start.

I've seen the young in colours gay,
And others bent with years;
I've seen the soldier board the rail
While his mother stood in tears.

I've watched the hearse at it passed by,
I've seen the loved ones cry,
I've heard the sob of the broken heart
As the crowd moved slowly by.

I've seen the voters come and go
As Election Day drew near,
I've watched them gather at the polls
The last results to hear.

I've heard of rulers over the sea;
I've seen the plane in the sky,
I've seen the rich in their limousines,
And I've heard the screech owl cry.

I've seen the robbers come at night
And break the glass in the door—
From Bell & Barlow's store.

When you stand in a place like I have stood,
And watched the world and its load,
Just think of me, an old elm tree,
All alone by the side of the road.

So I stand here alone by the side of the road,
As the years pass swiftly by;
Yes, I stand all alone by the side of the road,
And I neither laugh or cry.

The foregoing verses were written by Mrs. Dave Wellman, Bonarlaw, and written about the old elm tree which stands across the road from the general store operated by Bell & Barlow.

RALPH CONNOR, NOTED AUTHOR, IS DEAD

Internationally known churchman and author beloved to millions as Ralph Connor, Dr. Charles W. Gordon, 77, died on Sunday in the hospital, 15 hours after the death of his only brother, Dr. H. F. Gordon, M.D.

As Ralph Connor, the famous author gave more than a score of novels to the world, several of them, notably "The Sky Pilot," were best sellers; as Dr. Gordon he became moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, highest honour of the General Assembly.

Retired since 1924 from the active ministry of St. Stephen's Church, Winnipeg, where he was pastor 30 years, Dr. Gordon continued writing. His last novel "The Gay Crusaders," was published in 1936. He completed the manuscript of his reminiscences shortly before he was taken ill.

Stricken at his summer home on Lake of the Woods, Dr. Gordon entered the hospital at Winnipeg on October 1 for an operation from which he failed to rally.

Charles and Henry Gordon, the latter 71, were the last surviving members of the family of Rev. Daniel Gordon, missionary sent to Ontario by the Free Church of Scotland. Henry died on Saturday at his Winnipeg home, a retired physician whose life was marked by distinguished Great War service overseas as medical officer.

LIBERAL ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION IN FRONTENAC

Angus McCallum, of Sunbury, Liberal candidate in the federal by-election in Frontenac-Addington, was elected to the House of Commons by acclamation at the nomination meeting held at Sydenham on Monday afternoon. No other candidate was nominated, and no election will be necessary Nov. 15.

Mr. McCallum received the official endorsement of the Liberal Party at a convention held a week ago, getting a clear majority on the first ballot over two other nominees. The Conservative Party decided not to enter a candidate in the by-election after a stormy session at their party convention in Enterprise last Wednesday.

The by-election was necessitated when Hon. Colin Campbell resigned his federal seat to enter the Hepburn Cabinet as Minister of Public Works in the last provincial election.

Liberal representation in the House of Commons was raised to 175 with the election by acclamation of Angus McCallum in Frontenac-Addington. The standing: Liberal 178, Conservative 38, Social Credit 17, C.C.F. 7, Independent 1, Reconstruction 1, U.F.O. 1, vacant 2; total 245.

"CANADA 1937"

It was announced recently that the radio series "Canada 1937" which scored such success last season is to be renewed starting November 5th. This season, this most spectacular of Canadian broadcasts will be heard Friday evenings at 10.00 p.m., E.S.T. Outstanding commentators under the guidance of Vernon Bartlett will again speak from Europe — an interviewer in Canada probing for answers to the questions of "the man in the street."

Lionel Shapiro, Canadian correspondent in New York, will speak from N. B.C. Studios, relaying such latest happenings of the Gay White Way as are of interest to Canadian listeners.

A new technique will be introduced in the talks on Canada to make the very pulse of the nation audible to listeners throughout the country. Mr. Walter Bowles will broadcast from a different locality each week, telling of that district's contribution to Canada's progress and interviewing "nation builders" who make that progress possible.

Yet another outstanding feature of the program will be the music — every selection will be specially arranged for the large orchestra and choir that is now in rehearsal.

In sponsoring these broadcasts — to be again produced by Victor George — Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Limited, is bringing a new experience to Canadian listeners. These Friday evening programs are live demonstrations of the fact that the Canadian broadcasting is equal to the challenge for something new and spectacular.

COUPLE SHOWERED BY RIVER VALLEY FRIENDS

On Tuesday evening a large number of friends and neighbours gathered at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morrow to honour their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morrow. Mr. Percy Utman very capably acted as chairman for the occasion and presided over the following program. A humorous reading "The usual way", was well given by Mrs. C. Chard. Rosebush's orchestra furnished several musical numbers which were greatly appreciated; also community singing was enjoyed at different intervals. Short speeches were given by Messrs S. J. Elliott and Edgar Morrow and others.

Mrs. W. Hanna then read the following address:

Stirling, Ontario,
November 2nd, 1937

Dear Mildred and Harry—

We have seized upon this opportunity to celebrate your birthday, Harry, with a party in honour of your marriage and in welcoming you, Mildred, to the Valley. We are all of the same spirit as those of us who formed the Charivari party a few nights ago, and we will endeavour to show it in another way.

We have watched you, Harry, develop from a lovable baby, through the varying degrees of mischief and tumbliness which marked your boyhood. Your love of harmless teasing, whether pets, school children or friends, has remained one of your chief characteristics. You have been willing to help us with sports, programmes or plays when you felt you were needed. We rejoice to see how you have become a man, quiet, dependable and ambitious and with a very active sense of humour. "Give us the man who sings at his work, be his occupation what it may."

Now that you feel prepared to establish a home of your own we congratulate you on the choice of so clever, charming and gifted a bride. Although a stranger to some of us as yet, Mildred, we know Harry has found a mate who will be a real comrade in every sense of the word. We feel he had bided his time and chosen well. Harry has been a model son and guarantees to make you a model husband.

These gifts, we hope, will be a pleasant reminder of our good wishes for you. As you began your married life honeymooning eastward, toward the sunrise, may you always continue, faces glowing, with only brightness before you.

On behalf of the Community, Charivari Boys and Institute.

The young couple were presented with two beautiful chairs, table, centre and book ends.

Both Mildred and Harry very fittingly replied, thanking their friends for the honour they had shown them and for their lovely gifts.

All joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows," after which a sumptuous lunch was served and a social time enjoyed together.

ST. PAUL'S Y. P. U.

The regular meeting of St. Paul's Young People's Union was held on Monday evening in the church parlours with the President, Miss Mary Hulin, in charge of the meeting. The meeting opened with a song service of old familiar hymns. Responsive Scripture Lesson, Nineteenth Psalm, was read, followed with prayer by Rev. W. J. Scott. Misses Marion and Helen Hick offered a pleasing duet, entitled "Happy Little Workers", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Murney Hick. The speaker of the evening was Mr.

Don Williams, who chose for his subject "Worldliness and Trust". The real test comes when we must choose between right and wrong, between riches and character, between honest poverty and selfish wealth. It is not a question of the amount of riches, but of the way it is obtained, and of the use of what we have honestly gained.

The more Christian a nation is the greater becomes the national wealth. The one who seeks first God's Kingdom derives more good from his worldly possessions. They give him larger power of doing good, and by his faith in God he is enabled to avoid the anxiety which destroys life, health comfort and changes into gall the very blessings God showers upon him. This topic was well given and held the interest of the young people with his many helpful suggestions for the solutions of problems facing Christianity today.

Mrs. Nora Wescott staged the contests of the evening. The singing of a hymn and the repeating of the Mizpah Benediction closed this very helpful meeting.

HEART STRONGER AFTER 25

The heart and circulation do not attain their greatest efficiency until about the 25th year. Dr. Crighton Bramwell, London, England, who has made a close study of the physical state of Olympic Games champions and other athletes, declares.

In searching for the reason why young men are less capable than their seniors of enduring severe and prolonged physical exertion and why their pulse rate is higher, Dr. Bramwell made a series of observations on the pulse rate at different ages, the results of which he has just published.

The pulses were counted in 2,521 normal subjects, and it was found that the slowest rates are reached at about 25 years of age. Before this time the more rapid rates, he claims, mean that the heart has less reserve when some prolonged exertion is required.

PETHERICKS

The anniversary services held in Zion Church on Sunday last was well attended. The Church was filled at both services. The guest speaker for the day was Rev. D. M. Smith of Baltimore. LETTERS RECEIVED FROM DROUGHT AREA

Description Given of How Carload of Vegetables Distributed

The following is the copy of a letter of appreciation and thanks received by Rev. James E. Beckel, of Stirling, from D. B. Annis, Chairman of the United Church Distribution Committee, at Riverhurst, Sask., to which point the first car of vegetables and fruit gathered from this district were sent. The letter gives a complete description of how the vegetables and fruit were distributed and we feel sure our readers will be glad to know how this was accomplished. Comments from the Riverside papers expressing the appreciation and thanks of the citizens of that district to their eastern friends are also reproduced for the benefit of our readers:

Riverhurst, Sask.,
Oct. 29, 1937

Rev. James E. Beckel,
Stirling, Ont.

Dear Sir:—
Your letter of the 25th inst. to hand enquiring about the car of fruit and vegetables your people so kindly donated. It arrived in the best of shape and such a wonderful variety. Probably it would be of interest to you to know just how we handled the car here. As soon as we found out it was coming our minister, the Rev. C. H. Morrison, appointed a committee of three from the country and three from the village. This committee was called together and submitted a list in alphabetical order of the number of families, number in each, in their respective areas who were to receive allotments from the car. A chairman and secretary were appointed from the committee. All details and plans of action were decided upon. The car arrived at 3.15 p.m. on October 20th, and was placed at a large shed alongside the track. Fortunately the weather was fine and mild. The committee immediately unloaded the contents into the shed placing each variety in separate pile. Then an allotment was recorded after the name of each family on the lists as near as we could estimate according to the contents of the car. We were not very far out at the end. Just ran out of a few potatoes. The participants were advised to call at one o'clock the next day. As fast as they arrived a card was made out with his name and allotment. This he took to the distributors and was made happy through your kind generosity. In cases where neighbours delivered for several families the card accompanied the allotment. By this method every one receives his share whether he is present or not and much confusion is avoided. We served something over 200 families about 700 people in about four hours. The fact that you listed the contents on the shipping bill and that the railway weighed the car enroute helped a lot in preparing for distribution.

The gardens and potato crop were over 95 per cent. a failure in this district this season so you can judge how those large golden pumpkins and other vegetables were appreciated. We distributed them to the best of our ability and feel sure not one of them will be wasted. We appreciate the kind sentiments expressed in your letter. Many of the letters in the various bags will no doubt be answered individually. Am enclosing clippings from our local paper touching on this car also.

Kindly express to the donors our heartfelt appreciation and gratitude. Yours very truly,
D. B. ANNIS,
Chairman United Church Distribution Committee

P.S.—The car weighed 61600 lbs.

Following are two letters received by Mr. W. E. Palmer of Stirling from residents in the drought area of Western Canada:

Riverhurst, Sask.,

Dear Mr. Palmer,—
The person who received a bag of potatoes with your letter in it, and were very glad to get potatoes out in the West. Things are really terrible this year. Nothing but dust, and if things don't change soon next year will be the same. Maybe you don't know what it's like to go without things you need, and (Continued on Page Eight)

St. Paul's W. A.

Mrs. E. G. Bailey was hostess to the members of St. Paul's Woman's Association on Tuesday, thirty-eight members and visitors attending. Mrs. Macklin, presiding, opened the meeting with the usual introduction, following with the Lord's Prayer in unison. Twenty-nine members answered roll call. Mrs. Bronson, the Secretary, gave the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved as read. Communications consisted of two letters of thanks from Mrs. Connor for flowers she received and Coolidge Ashley, for fruit and candy.

Visiting Committee reported fourteen calls made. November Visiting Committee: Mrs. E. G. Bailey and Mrs. N. Wescott.

Mrs. Jackson, the treasurer, gave the financial report.

The President requested the dimity cards be handed in at the December meeting, which will be held at the parsonage, this being the end of the year. Method of electing new officers was brought up. It was moved by Mrs. E. G. Bailey and seconded by Miss E. Donnan that the officers be elected by nomination and the vote by ballot. Carried.

Mrs. W. J. Scott, the convenor of the program, occupied the chair for the worship period. Hymn "Breathe on me Breath of God," was sung. Mrs. J. L. Good took charge of the Devotional period, after which Mrs. R. Christie led in prayer. Mrs. H. Moore favoured her listeners with a pleasing piano number. The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. H. C. Martin. She gave a colourful description of her trip to Los Angeles. Hymn 445 was sung. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah Benediction. At the close of the social hour Mrs. E. Munro moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

Sunday, November 7th was an ideal autumn day and worshippers gathered at Mount Pleasant United Church from Eldorado, Belleville, Stirling, Carmel, Aikins, St. Mark's, West Hunt, Ingdon, Holloway, Hoards, Rylestone, Zion, Salem, Bethel, Wellmans, English Line, Burnbrae, Roslin and other points.

Potted Plants and white 'Mums' made a pretty setting for this special occasion.

The guest minister was Rev. W. J. Scott, of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, and he chose as his morning theme "Our Religion". He gave a thought-provoking message, warning Christians that True Religion is not an easy task, rather it demands one's all.

The choir of eighteen voices, with Miss Frances McKeown as accompanist, and assisted by Mr. Ed. Pyear, of Carmel, rendered two anthems, "If you serve in the name of Jesus", with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver taking the soprano solo and "Jesus Lover of My Soul". Miss Very McAdam and Mr. John Coggins sang "In the Garden with Jesus".

In the evening Rev. Mr. Scott addressed another capacity audience on the subject "New Creation, whenever a man comes to be in Christ the old is gone and the new is come." The choir rendered two anthems "A Song of Faith", with Mr. John Coggins taking the solo part; "The Sheltering Fold", with Miss Vera McAdam taking the soprano solo. A mixed quartette, Mrs. John Reid, Mrs. Edgar McKeown, and Messrs E. Pyear and E. White rendered "Drifting Tonight".

During the day nearly two hundred dollars was received, showing the united effort of those faithful members of Mt. Pleasant Church.

The services were both instructive and inspirational and were based on the thought "Will your anchor hold in the storms of life, or will it drift during the coming year." In the evening Rev. MacMillan, of Burnbrae, assisted with the services.

Thursday being Armistice Day and a public holiday in Stirling the public wicket at the local post office will only be open from 8 to 12 noon. COMPETE AT OTTAWA

Hastings County's Junior Farmer Judging teams are in Ottawa this week competing in the live stock and seed judging at the Ottawa Winter Fair. They left early on Monday and spent the day at the Kemptville Agricultural School where they were given final instructions in judging prior to entering the big competition on Tuesday and Wednesday. The teams are composed of Messrs William Geen, Thomasburg; Arthur McDonnell, Stirling; Wallace Pidgeon, Madoc; James Welsh, Shannonville, and Edward Jarrell, Corbyville. Mr. Jos. Wilson, Agricultural Representative, accompanied them to supervise.

ST. PAUL'S Y. P. U.

St. Paul's Young People's Union met on Monday evening in the church parlours. The President, Miss Mary Hullin, was in charge. The meeting opened with a sacred song service, followed with the call to worship and prayer, led by Mrs. G. W. Hockey. Miss Thelma Fenwick read the Scripture lesson, taken from Micah, fourth chapter and St. Luke 26: 27-36. An Armistice pageant was directed by Mr. Albert Well, Principal of the Public School, showing the evil influence of War, and how war affects the various types of people in our civilization. The stage was set with a memorial cross in the centre, which during the service was decorated with a wreath and roll of honour—those who served overseas from this district. The pageant opened with the entire cast singing "God Bless our Native Land." Those taking part, Rheta Tucker, Marion Hicks, Evelyn West, Helen Morgan, Shirley Ormiston, Doris Jandrew, Jean Salisbury, Margaret McGrath, Marybelle Rogers, Douglas Patterson, Norman Murray, James Bailey, Bert Bastedo, Donald Tucker, Carman Beckell, Cameron Foster, Charles Padley and Delbert Ashley. This pageant was brought to a climax by a vocal solo "O God, our help in Ages past." Moved by Rev. W. J. Scott, seconded by Mrs. Nora Wescott, that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to Mr. Wells, the director, and the entire cast for their very fine performance. The meeting closed with the singing of "O Canada" and the repeating of the Mizpah Benediction.

Wins Band Trophy

Mr. Chas. Mitchell, veteran member of Stirling Citizens' Band, was the recipient of a beautiful silver cup at the Military Tattoo, held recently in Belleville, for being the oldest bandman participating. This is the second year for "Charlie" to win this award and he has been busy receiving the congratulations of his many friends.

ACCEPTS POSITION

Miss Florence Turner, who has been employed at Miss D. Caldwell's store for the past two years, left on Thursday last for Toronto, where she has accepted a position as stenographer in a Real Estate office. During her stay in Stirling, Miss Turner has made many friends who will join in wishing her success in her new position.

VISITED THOMASBURG

District Deputy Grand Master H. E. Hullin and his suite of officers paid an official visit to Thomasburg Lodge on Friday night last, and installed the officers for the ensuing term. Members of the installing team, besides the District Deputy, were Messrs J. B. Thompson, Earl Fox, W. L. Anderson, Alex Park, Wm. Patterson, E. Carlisle and J. M. McGee. Other members of Stirling Lodge who attended were E. T. Ward, R. H. Williams and Roy Finkle.

COLLIDED WITH BRIDGE

Residents living in the vicinity of the bridge on Front St. were awakened early on Saturday morning by a loud crash when a Chevrolet sedan driven by J. Smith, of Campbellford, collided with the eastern end of the bridge. The car, which went out of control when the driver is alleged to have fallen asleep, mounted the southern railing of the bridge and turned completely over on its top in the centre of the roadway. Fortunately the driver was uninjured, but the car suffered considerable damage. The accident was investigated by Constable Eggleton.

HUNTERS AWAY

A number of the residents of Stirling have gone to the northern parts of the province to enjoy their annual hunt for the elusive deer. Mr. J. S. Morton, of the Rock Lake Hunt Club, left on Sunday for Catchacoma Lake, about forty miles north of Peterboro, where he will be joined on Monday next by Mr. T. W. Solmes. Mr. Walter Wright and Rev. A. S. McConnell left on Monday for Plevna, in the northern part of Frontenac County, and Mr. E. G. Bailey is with a party of hunters at Balderson, about forty miles north of Perth.

HOCKEY CLUB HELD RE-ORGANIZATION

Celebrate Birthday

On Tuesday evening the officers and members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211 celebrated the seventeenth anniversary of the institution of the lodge by holding a birthday party, to which each member had invited a friend.

The guests were welcomed by Sister M. Bailey, N.G., followed by community singing, with Sis. Mildred Morrow at the piano. The following program was then presented: vocal duet, "That Daddy of Mine", by Ralph Utman and D. McIntosh; reading "The Old Man goes to Town", Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh; piano duet, Mrs. Harold Elliott and Miss Maurietta McKee; vocal duet, Mrs. Walter Warren and Mrs. Harry Morrow; readings by Alex Park and J. B. Thompson.

A feature of the programme was a debate "Resolved that an ill-natured tidy housewife is better than a good-natured untidy housewife." The affirmative was taken by Mrs. F. N. McKee and Mr. H. E. Hullin, while Miss Evelyn Bailey and Mr. J. B. Thompson supported the negative side. The participants presented their arguments in a very clear and efficient manner and much merriment was provoked among the audience. Mesdames J. S. Whitehead and H. R. Tompkins and Mr. F. Sigle acted as judges, and declared the result a draw.

At the conclusion of the programme lunch was served, while a large birthday cake, bearing seventeen lighted candles occupied a prominent place in the hall. The honour of cutting the cake was given to Bro. H. E. Hullin, D.D.G.M., while Sis. Mabel Megginson, P.D.P., blew out the candles.

The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing which were greatly enjoyed by the large gathering.

LIBERALS ARE RE-ORGANIZED

R. W. Meiklejohn, of Stirling, Elected to Office

A re-organization meeting in the West Hastings Liberal Association was held in Marmora on Monday afternoon and was attended by delegates from practically every section of the riding. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, former Minister of Health, was present and tendered his resignation to the association, owing to the fact that he is now a civil servant.

Reports of the various municipal associations throughout the riding were as follows: Belleville, F. Temple; Trenton, H. Corby; Sidney Township, Mr. Sine; Stirling, Roger Meiklejohn; Rawdon, H. Heath; Marmora District, Mr. Maloney; Wollaston Twp., Mr. Bullard; Faraday, Melville Baker; Bancroft, Mr. Frank Thompson.

Addressing the gathering Dr. J. A. Faulkner thanked all those who had worked so vigorously for him in the recent election campaign. He had tried to render good service to the people of West Hastings during his term of office. He thanked the members of the retiring executive for their splendid work and the loyalty they had displayed toward Liberalism. Though West Hastings voted against the Hepburn administration, Ontario at large appreciated and endorsed his services to the citizens of the province. But in spite of the fact that this section voted as they did, progress in constructive projects will continue. Road work, Hydro construction and promotion of activity in the northern part of the riding as well as agricultural benefits in the south will be carried forward to the advantage of every citizen.

Owing to the fact that I now serve the people in a regular civil service position it will be impossible for me to continue political activity. My position calls for service to all the citizens of the province and politics will not enter into any transaction with applicants. In fact I would rather the names be left from application so that each case may be dealt with on an equal basis.

The following were chosen officers

Will Hold Dance in Aid of Club on Monday Evening, Nov. 22nd

About twenty-five of the players and fans gathered in the Agricultural Rooms on Monday night to talk over the hockey prospects in Stirling for the coming winter. Mr. C. A. Wells, President, occupied the chair and Dr. W. H. Pedley acted as Secretary in the absence of Thos. W. Solmes.

A report of the financial standing of the Club showed all of last year's accounts paid in full, but no funds with which to open the present season. The meeting was thrown open for discussion of ways and means of raising funds, and after a somewhat lengthy discussion, it was decided to hold a dance on Monday, Nov. 22nd, in the local Community Hall. In the event of this meeting with the desired success it is expected that a series of dances will be held throughout the winter. As a committee to make arrangements for the dance, Messrs Earl Fox, Jimmie Ward, Bill Jones, Guy Bradshaw and Frank Butler were named, with power to add to their numbers.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President — C. A. Wells.
Vice-President — Dr. W. H. Pedley.

Secty-Treas. — Thos W. Solmes.
Executive Committee — Frank Butler, H. R. Tompkins, Bill Jones, Guy Bradshaw and the Manager.

Manager and Coach — Harry Ingram.

The remainder of the meeting was a discussion of league matters with a number of suggestions being offered for consideration at the annual league meeting. Messrs Earl Fox, H. Ingram and H. Conley were appointed as a committee to investigate the hockey situation in the district and were authorized to attend any meetings held in connection with the league. A survey of the available material for a team showed practically all of last year's players on hand, while one or two newcomers to the district were said to be good performers. With the organization completed, both players and fans will anxiously await the opening date of the local arena. In the meantime, don't forget the hockey club dance on Monday, November 22, and plan to attend to give the boys a good start.

BREAKS COLLARBONE

Frank Woods, an employee of Alton Hadley, local coal and wood merchant, suffered a broken right collarbone on Tuesday morning when he was crushed between a trailer and a truck. RELIEF A PROBLEM

The stopping of the provincial road work in this section has thrown a number of the Stirling labourers out of employment and there is little likelihood of most of them securing permanent employment during the coming winter. It may be that some of them will be compelled to ask for relief to carry them through and it would be well if some scheme could be worked out by the Village fathers to provide them with employment. The taxpayers are beginning to believe, and not without some justification, that there are men around town who make little effort to find themselves work and are content to take relief provided by their fellow citizens as a matter of course. This type of citizen is what sickens everyone of the whole relief business, and until work is provided for every man who is physically able to do it, there will always be dissatisfaction. While Stirling has not been hit nearly as hard as some places for relief, the taxpayers are getting fed up with men who complain they cannot get work and then walk right past work which is offered them.

THE ART OF GETTING ALONG

Sooner or later, a man, if he is wise, discovers that business is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take.

He learns that it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul — that he should let some things go over his head.

He learns that he who loses his temper usually loses.

He learns that all men have burnt toast for breakfast now and then and that he shouldn't take the other fellow's grouch too seriously.

He learns that carrying a chip on his shoulder is the easiest way to get into a fight.

He learns that the quickest way to become unpopular is to carry tales and gossip about others.

He learns that most of the other fellows are as ambitious as he is, that they have brains that are as good or better, and that hard work and not cleverness is the secret of success.

He learns that it doesn't matter so much who gets the credit so long as the business shows a profit.

He learns to sympathize with the youngsters coming into business, because he remembers how bewildered he was when he first started out.

He learns that no man ever got to first base alone and that it is only through co-operative effort that we move on to better things.

He learns that folks are not any more difficult to get along with in one place than another and that "getting along" depends about ninety-eight per cent. on his own behaviour.

PATRONIZE THE LIBRARY

The fall months are with us again and the longer evenings remind us that winter is not far distant. And with winter comes the thought of how best to spend the hours of leisure in a beneficial manner.

There are many ways in which one may spend his time to advantage, but the one way we have in mind when writing this article, is reading, one of the primary forms of recreation. Stirling Public Library offers every facility for the enjoyment of those who like this form of recreation. Here you will find a large assortment of books, many of them of the latest vintage, from which the average reader should have no trouble in selecting one to his liking, whether it be in fiction or among the classics. Only recently Inspector Mowat paid a visit to the local library and gave it as his opinion that it contained one of the finest collections of fiction and non-fiction one could find in the smaller libraries of the province.

The Library Board has given much time and thought to the selection of the books and the citizens of the Village should avail themselves of the opportunity to increase their knowledge by patronizing this fine institution. Reading is one of the finest forms of education and for those of us who have never had, nor probably never will have, an opportunity to travel through the various countries of the world in which we are more or less interested, it affords an excellent way to familiarize ourselves with customs and conditions in distant lands. And all at only a nominal cost.

If you are not already a patron of the local library, plan to become a member. By doing so you will not only enrich your knowledge but you will also show some little appreciation of the work of the librarian and others who have laboured in the interests of the local institution. Why not share in the good things of life?

CURRENT COMMENT

Only six weeks until Christmas and the business men have made no plans for their annual Santa Claus parade and entertainment for the kiddies. It's about time that a meeting was held to organize this annual event.

Some weather prophets are predicting a very cold and severe winter. It may be that their prediction will come true, and it is well to be prepared for such as far as possible. At the same time we have noticed that when a severe winter has been prophesied it has often turned out to be rather mild and open. However, as we have said, it is well to be prepared for the worst.

The fact that the last Dominion Government Conversion Loan was oversubscribed in only a short time from its opening should be sufficient to convince even the most pessimistic that those who are fortunate enough to possess more money than they have immediate need for, are not afraid to invest in Canadian bonds in preference to others drawing a higher rate of interest.

Work on the Stirling-Marmora highway has been completed for the present season. The stretch from Stirling to Harold has been given a permanent surface and a great deal of work has been done in different places on the remaining portion in preparation for completing the road at a later date. Although the road is quite rough in places, the contractor has left it in a passable condition. It is expected that it will be completed early next spring.

A number of the cheese factories in Stirling district have started to operate only every second day and it will not be long before operations will be suspended altogether. Cheese production has stood up remarkably well and the number of cheese offered for sale each Saturday on the Belleville Cheese Board is still much higher than on corresponding dates of a year ago. The price has also remained steady throughout the season and the producers have enjoyed one of their best years for some time.

Sport fans of Stirling and district are assured of having a team to cheer for in the coming hockey wars. At an enthusiastic meeting held on Monday night the Stirling Hockey Club was reorganized and definite plans made for placing a team in the league, comprising the villages of the district. Practically all of last year's team will be available and it is reported that there are one or two newcomers to the district who are capable performers. In order to provide the necessary finances for operating a team the Club intends putting on a number of dances in the coming months, and it is hoped and expected that the lovers of good, clean sport in the community will give them their support.

The Stirling Community Welfare Club will resume its meetings next Tuesday. This enthusiastic Club has contributed much to the welfare of this community since its inception, and it is hoped that it will become a greater force in the community this coming year. The programme committee is working hard to provide the members with a good programme for each of the fall and winter meetings and a splendid time is promised those who attend. The officers are sending out an appeal for support and it is hoped this year will be one of the finest in the history of the Club. The Club is worthy of the support of every man in Stirling and district, and it is expected that all the members will put their shoulder to the wheel and work for the further advancement of this organization.

According to reports in the daily press, the provincial police are making a determined drive against motorists who persist in the operation of their motor vehicles after sundown with defective lights. Many motorists fail to realize that faulty headlights constitute one of the greatest motor vehicle traffic hazards and are responsible for many night-driving accidents. In this district there appears to be an increasing number who drive with only one headlight. One night within the past week we counted four cars in this category being driven along Front Street in the space of about five minutes. This is a state of affairs that demands stern measures being taken by the authorities to overcome it. If motorists would only stop and think that in driving with faulty lights they are not only a menace to the safety of others, but also to themselves, there would be little need for extreme measures being taken.

Ice poet aptly observes: "Oh, women in your hours of ease, uncertain, coy and hard to please; with your silk hose above your knees, how is it that your legs don't freeze?"

TIMES BETTER

(Tweed News)

One of the best barometers of improving business may be found in the results of auction sales. Locally, several farmers have decided to retire and the proceeds from their sales have been surprising. Excellent prices for farm equipment and livestock have been realized, all of which will tempt other farmers to hold sales and retire to an easier life. At least two district farmers have taken up residence in this village within the past week, after disposing of their equipment and property.

BUILDING UP A DISTRICT

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

Anything that goes towards building up this part of Ontario helps every man, woman and child living here.

Whether that be the coming of an arms factory to Brighton, an aeroplane factory to Deseronto, a box factory to Stirling, a nut and boiler works to Belleville or a new canning factory to Picton, it all adds to the whole, and it all helps this district. Trenton this year has added a couple of new industries with the possibilities that more will come. And every industry that Trenton and Picton and Belleville and Deseronto and Stirling can secure will give more employment, will add to the amount of taxes to be collected, will make this district that much greater.

So every time we pick up a paper and read that one of the nearby centres has landed another industry we feel like cheering about it. The Bay of Quinte District is ideal for factories of every sort. Rail and water connections to the outside world cannot be bettered.

SHOULD BE BONDED

(Ottawa Journal)

The Law Society of Upper Canada is commended by the Peterborough Examiner because the Benchers have removed from the roll of barristers a member who was held "guilty of professional misconduct and conduct unbecoming a barrister and solicitor in connection with an estate in his hands." The Examiner thinks this proves that the legal profession "keeps its own house clean," which is the contention of the Law Society.

Actually the power of the Society to remove a barrister from the practice of his profession is a perfect illustration of that celebrated futility, locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen.

The simple provision that lawyers handling trust funds put up securities or a bond to the full extent of such funds would save the necessity of such punishment as the Law Society occasionally inflicts. Lawyers would be protected against the temptation to "borrow" from other people's money — a temptation that is not, of course, peculiar to their profession. And, even more important, their clients, the owners of the trust funds, would be assured against loss.

The law is a profession with many privileges, and it is right that professional misconduct should be punished severely. But we encourage that misconduct, or at least make it easy, by permitting lawyers to act as private bankers, with no security for clients but their good faith. Banks and trust companies are not given nearly so much latitude.

TIME FOR CANADA TO BREAK HER RULE BY DEAD MEN

(Prescott Journal)

An ironical paradox if there ever was one — Canada is being ruled by a group of men who have been in their graves for years. And these men, the Fathers of Confederation, who struggled and fought to make the country great are now the great stumbling block towards its recovery and progress.

These men ruled wisely in 1867 and they have the B.N.A. Act to show for it. But in an Act that fitted conditions in a young country like Canada in 1867 couldn't possibly be suited for 1937. That's logical, isn't it?

Most people do not understand the British North America Act. They think it has something to do with home rule or income tax returns. They never stop to realize that it is stifling Canada's progress and affects every Canadian personally. It paralyzes reform and cripples legislation. It is the big, bad wolf on the road to a higher standard of living in Canada.

It divides Canada into nine separate states each with its own laws that overlap and tangle with the laws of the neighbouring provinces. It's the biggest thorn in the side of Canadian unification.

It strangles all attempts to get national legislation relating to unemployment insurance, contributory pensions, national housing, financial relief to provinces, labour laws, marketing acts, traffic control, jurisdiction over insurance and company charters.

National unemployment insurance is out because the Dominion can't make houses and employees pay contributions. There is a provincial duty. Only a few provinces could afford it. Labour would flock there. Unemployment insurance is working out well in the Old Country, and it is needed here but the B.N.A. Act says, No!

Contributory pension schemes in force in the Old Country and the United States should be introduced here by the Dominion under the B.N.A. Act lacks power to exact contributions. In these schemes all persons, who are able to to, pay so much out of their wages towards a pension in their old years.

People say why not a national housing scheme — a grand coast to coast building program to give the unemployed work instead of relief. But that can't be done — not under the B.N.A. Act. The Dominion can lend the provinces money to do their own building but no national co-operation or central pressure can be brought to bear to ensure the venture of success.

In labour legislation, financial relief to the provinces, marketing, etc., no central and National authority which is vital to the success of such large-scale undertakings can be secured. The B.N.A. Act says so. It is time the Act was changed to suit present conditions.

The country needs it.

NEARLY 100,000 PENSIONS

According to the Canada Year Book there were 97,299 pensions in force last year, involving a federal government treasury cost of $65,984,095. Ex-soldiers received more than 79,000 pensions, and ex-soldiers' dependents received over 18,000 pensions. During the year 25,708 medical examinations were conducted for pension purposes. More than a quarter of a million people are in receipt of benefits from pensions. These include 57,000 wives and 95,000 children of disability pensioners.

And this is the result of the Great War. Do we want more war?

Set Right

A tourist stopped his car on the road and asked a little country boy how far it was to Smithville.

The little boy replied: "It's 24,999 miles the way you're goin', but if you turn around it ain't but four."

More's the Pity

Auntie: "I do hope you will like my present. I couldn't decide whether you would like a large check or a small one."

Impecunious nephew: "Any cheque would be ripping, auntie."

Auntie: "Ah, what a pity I bought you a striped tie, after all."

Sharing

"Pardon me for walking on your feet," said the polite passer-by.

"Oh, don't mention it," returned the equally polite victim. "I often walk on them myself."

Saving the Utensils

The family and their guest had just seated themselves at the table.

"Susie," said the mother, "why didn't you put a knife and fork at Mr. McKlunk's place?"

"He don't need any, mother," replied Susie. "You said he eats like a horse."

Hey! That Man's in Again!

"Why did he take up brick-laying?" "He wanted to make his living the hard way!"

In Addition

Captain: "Have you cleaned the deck and polished the brasses?" Sailor: "Yes, sir, and I've swept the horizon with my telescope."

Costly

Office Boy: "Your wife came in to see you a while ago, sir; but I knew you were busy, so I managed to get her out of the office."

Boss: "Hm-m! Where did you get that much money?"

A Bother to Himself

A little hillbilly watched a man at a tourist camp making use of a comb and brush, a tooth brush, a nail file, and a whisk broom.

"Say, mister," he finally queried "Are you always that much trouble to

Polite

"Mary, I hope you were polite at Aunt Molly's."

"Oh, I was, Mother. Every time she said 'Haven't you eaten enough yet, Mary?' I said 'No thank you, Aunt Molly.'"

The orderly officer received a complaint about the issue of bread.

"Soldiers should not make a fuss about trivialities, may man," he said. "If Napoleon had had that bread when he was crossing the Alps, he'd have eaten it with delight."

"Yes, sir," said the lance-corporal, "but it was fresh then."

SEYMOUR WILL PAY PRIZE LIST IN FULL

The report of the chairman of the Finance committee of the Seymour Agricultural Society given at a recent meeting indicated that the total receipts for the Fall Fair amounted to $881.70, of which $692.55 were gate receipts and the balance was from concession rents and miscellaneous items. After the financial report of the Fair Board was given by the secretary, it was moved by W. J. Duncan and John Locke that the prize list be paid in full.

A motion was also put on the books requesting that the secretary write A. H. Martin, agricultural representative for Northumberland, expressing their appreciation for the help he gave during the past year, especially to the Foal and Calf Clubs and at the Fair. It was indicated that Morley Bennett would receive the Coronation Ribbon given by the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies for the best foal shown at the Foal Club in the Fair.

HAVE RIGHT-SIZED RUG

A rug that is too small lessens the spaciousness of your room and throws your entire decorating scheme off balance. Generally speaking, the margin of polished floor about the edges of the rug should be about twelve inches or a little less. The margin need not be exactly the same all around the rug, but the distances at each end and at the sides should correspond. A rug cushion will greatly lengthen the life of your rug, as well as give it a more luxurious tread.

THE BELLEVILLE MARKET

Featuring a high-class display of chickens, ducks, butter, and other products of farm and dairy was the sudden skyrocketing of the price of eggs on the Belleville market on Saturday. Due, it was said, to the decrease of production because of the moulting season, prices soared to 45c and 47c in some cases for "A" selects. Offsetting this however, ungraded eggs were offered at from 40c to 45c per dozen with Mediums and pullets selling at 40c and 37c respectively. Farmers' butter prices remained steady, showing no fluctuation from those of the past two months and two-pound rolls offered at 65c.

Lovers of chicken found little difficulty in obtaining birds to their liking as one of the best poultry displays seen on the market in months was offered to a briskly buying public. Birds of all weights were offered with some exceptionally fine quality hens displayed at fairly good prices. From 50c upwards to $1.50 the birds were offered in a splendid variety. A few ducks were in evidence with a fairly good quality bird being offered at from $1.10 to as high as $1.50.

In the inside mart, where a large crowd availed themselves of the fine produce and prices available, home-cooking booths did a fine business with the delectable edibles, products of city and farm kitchens being rapidly taken up at the attractive prices quoted. Honey was offered at 10c the pound in various quantities with the "comb" variety selling at 15c.

Large Vegetable Display

Outside a plentiful display of fall and winter vegetables and fruit was offered, with staple vegetables being offered generally in bushel lots. Parsnips at 70c per bushel, carrots at 50c and 60c, according to quality; beets at 60c; onions at $1.50 and $1.75; turnips at 55c and 60c rounded out an attractive display of these vegetables. Fresh radishes at 5c per bunch and celery hearts at 10c and Brussels Sprouts at 15c per box were also in evidence. Potatoes remained firm at 90c per 90-lb. bag.

Mushrooms grown in the district made their initial fall appearance and a good quality sold at 35c lb.

Macintosh Reds, Tolman Sweet and Snow Apples head a good variety of Fall and early Winter apples. Prices showed a slight decline from those of a week ago with tree-picked fruit selling generally at $1.75 per hamper lot. Ground apples were sold at from $1.00 per bushel upwards.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

The apple crop in Ontario is now estimated at 735,000 barrels, representing a slight increase over the 703,500 barrels harvested in 1936. In Eastern Ontario production is down 23 per cent from last year, and in Western Ontario up 28 per cent. In Eastern Ontario, Spys and Starks are extremely light, while McIntosh, Snow, Wealthy and Blenheim have an average yield. In Western Ontario Spys show a 38 per cent decline from last year; Starks 7 per cent increase; Greenings 22 per cent increase, Baldwins and McIntosh a 35 per cent increase and other late varieties a gain of 12 per cent.

Size and colour of apples are considerably better this season than last, but, the percentage of "domestics" is much higher in Eastern Ontario due to the prevalence of scab and side-worm injury in a large number of orchards. In commercial orchards in Western Ontario insect pests and fungus diseases were fairly well controlled. Movement to storages has been heavy as harvesting has been rushed and prices are not quite as firm as a month ago.

Estimated production of peaches, plums and pears has been raised somewhat since the September report. The peach crop is now estimated at 523,000 bushels, or 30 per cent greater than in 1936, and plums at 56,900 bushels which is 38 per cent higher. Pears are now estimated at 157,400 bushels as a month ago and 196,800 bushels in 1936. Later varieties of plums, peaches and pears were generally of better size and quality than the earlier varieties. The grape crop is reported at 31,378,000 pounds, which is 45 per cent greater than the exceptionally small crop of 21,640,000 pounds harvested last year. Grapes were generally of good size with the bunches compact. While there was some poorly coloured fruit, the average was fairly good.

Present prices of fruits are generally below last year, particularly for pears, apples and plums, although pears exported to Britain brought satisfactory returns. Prices for basket grapes have been usually variable and following the frost damage, grapes in bulk tumbled from $45.00 per ton to as low as $20.00.

Growers in Hastings, Northumberland and Prince Edward Counties will receive large cash returns from the canning factories for their crop of tomatoes which was the largest on record. The yield in this district was double that of last season, approximately 375 bushels to the acre. The factories in Eastern Ontario were not able to handle all the supplies and large quantities were shipped to plants in Western Ontario where the average yield, on a greatly increased acreage, was only 175 bushels per acre.

Increase of Corn Borers

General observation during the cutting and harvesting of the corn crops of Kent and Essex Counties has shown that an alarming increase in the number of corn borers has occurred, according to Dr. G. M. Stirrett, in charge of the dominion entomological laboratory at Chatham.

"It is apparent that the infestation is as severe as in the years 1927 and 1928," said Dr. Stirrett. "Greater application of clean-up methods will be required of farmers to insure success to next year's crop."

Weather conditions were favourable to increase of borers this year. Abundance of moisture during planting was a feature noted during the heavy infestations of ten years ago, and similar conditions were prevalent this year. Essex, it is said, was particularly hard hit, both by the borer and poor weather for growing.

How Best to Finish Poultry for Market

In crate or pen fattening poultry for market the greatest gains in weight are made on the thinner, underdeveloped birds that ordinarily grade "C" for fleshing and fat if sold straight off the range. Such birds should make steady gains up to three weeks feeding. If the birds are in good shape and reasonably fat when placed in the crates a shorter finishing period may be used.

Tea for every Taste "SALADA" TEA

The average increase in weight in normal crate feeding should more than pay for the feed. The increased returns from improvement in grade is additional profit. Some ground grains such as corn and wheat are better than others, but any grains the farmer may have are suitable. Small and unmarketable potatoes, cooked and mashed, are economical and add palatability to any ration. They also help to produce white fat. Milk in any form is desirable; whey may be used if milk is not available. The addition of mutton tallow or any animal fat to the ration will increase the proportion of fat on the finished carcass.

In experiments at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, the addition of 5 per cent ground oyster shells increased both feed consumption and gain by ten per cent. Crate feedings of capons was also found to be definitely superior to pen fattening.

Storing Potatoes

For best results with stored potatoes, keep the bin temperature between 35 and 40 degrees. During the first eight or ten days of storage, however, allow a fairly high temperature, from 65 to 70 degrees, to hasten the formation of wound cork, which is important in healing bruised and cut potatoes and preventing rot. To reduce shrinkage, keep the bin fairly moist. Store only fully matured and sound potatoes. Be sure there is adequate ventilation. A slatted floor is useful for this purpose.

Handling of Poultry

The pre-cooling and proper handling of poultry killed on the farm or at a packing plant is particularly important because the bloom will be quickly lost if the birds are not pre-cooled without delay and also handled properly.

Poultry killed on the farm and sold dressed through local buyers or poultry pools, where no pre-cooling facilities are available frequently lose their bloom, with the consequent depreciation in the sales appearance of the birds and the failure to get the best price on the market.

Poultry meat is a perishable product which will deteriorate rapidly unless properly handled. The market demand is for properly packed poultry with good bloom and bright appearance. Good bloom is first secured by proper finishing but is held after killing by proper handling and holding in correct temperature.

Some of the chief essentials in handling dressed poultry are:

1. See that all birds are bled and plucked properly and that the feet and the mouth are washed clean.

2. Birds should be hung up by both feet and allowed to pre-cool for twenty-four hours. The temperature for pre-cooling should be as close to 32 degrees as possible.

3. The temperatures should be checked frequently with a thermometer.

4. In transporting poultry to assembling or selling points it should be held at the same temperature at which it was pre-cooled.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Now that the harvest is completed the farmers are turning their attention to getting that last furrow turned before Jack Frost makes his permanent visit.

Messrs Goldie McIntyre and Nelson Stapley completed their fall threshing this week in this community. This year has been favourable to the growing of alfalfa and a large acreage was harvested for seed which has yielded exceptionally well. Mr. Melville Reid threshed 16 bushels from four loads of the second crop and Mr. Gardner Welsh also threshed 21 bushels from a small acreage.

The President and directors of the West Huntingdon cheese manufacturing factory held a meeting at Mr. Geo. Cooke's home on Tuesday evening for the purpose of selecting a cheesemaker for 1938.

Previous to this meeting tenders were advertised for and Mr. Chester Silles, secretary of the company, received seven applications. Mr. Thos. Heath, of Campbellford, was selected from among the seven for the manufacturing of cheese for 1938. Mr. Heath comes highly recommended, having made cheese in a factory near Campbellford for the past five years. Mr. Harry Juby, who has been engaged for the past 24 years in this factory is retiring from the cheese manufacturing business on account of ill health.

The cheese industry is losing an outstanding maker in the person of Mr. Juby. Harry, as he is popularly known, started very early in life to associate himself with the cheese industry and for two years was helper to the factory under the name of Juby. He was then employed by the factory as a maker for four years, and from there he secured a better factory near Bancroft where he made for five years.

Mr. Juby owns a farm near Madoc Junction, and will continue to operate this with the hope that his health may return.

During his stay here in the factory many young men learning of his ability to make good cheese under all circumstances, availed themselves of the opportunity of learning the trade, some of whom have made a name for themselves in the cheese industry. Among these are: Mr. Nelson Saries, a successful maker in the Springcreek factory north of Madoc village; Mr. William Honkinson, maker at the Holloway factory; Mr. Thomas Saries, manager of the Stirling Cheese Manufacturing Co. Harry's many friends here wish him a speedy recovery to health.

Mrs. Morley Haggerty and Malzie were, week-end guests of friends at Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Emerson have moved in the house vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Cayton Tummon, which is situated on Church street.

Cottage prayer meeting was held at Mr. Clifford Elliott's home on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Frost, of Frankford, spent Thursday as guests of Mrs. Effie Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Burrell, Kathleen and Eugene of Ridge Road were Friday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan.

A very pleasant evening was spent on Tuesday when friends and neighbours gathered to celebrate with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mitts their fifth wedding anniversary. Mr. John Geen was chairman for the evening and Mr. Clayton Rutter read an appropriate address. They were presented with a handsome radio stand and an oak magazine rack. Mr. and Mrs. Mitts are a very popular young couple in the community and always willing to help with every organization. They appreciated very much the kindness shown them by their associates.

The many friends of Mrs. Volney

Richardson will be pleased to know that she was able to leave the General Hospital at Belleville on Tuesday.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Angus Farrell, which was held on Thursday forenoon was largely attended. The service was held in St. James' Church, Stirling, where mass was celebrated by Rev. Father H. J. Farrell. Interment was made in St. James cemetery. The bearers were Messrs Henry Wallace, Peter McIntyre, David Lamb, William Cain, Fred Gibson and Thomas McIntyre.

The Ladies' Aid of the Springbrook United Church met at the home of Mrs. L. F. Cassidy, with a good attendance of twenty-eight members and three visitors. Bateman led in prayer and the "Lord's Prayer" in unison, after which all joined in singing the "Theme Song." Mrs. T. McKeown led in prayer. Psalm 96 was read responsively, led by Mrs. M. Neal. Secretary Mrs. George Bailey called the roll, which was well responded to. Minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. In the business part of the meeting plans were completed for the fowl supper. The programme consisted of a splendid paper by Mrs. Percy Bateman, titled "Our Friendships." Mrs. L. F. Cassidy then gave a short reading "Just a Kind Word." (Rev.) Mrs. Harding gave a reading "Sink your Cares," which had a good result. The meeting closed with the Benediction. Lunch was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Percy Bateman and Mrs. Percy Harding. The meeting lasted half hour.

THE NEW CURRICULUM

The public is interested in educational matters. This fact has been more forcibly shown since the curriculum in both primary and secondary schools has been revised. This change is not sudden, it has been in the offing for a number of years and Ontario has been slower and more deliberate in bringing about the changes than many of the other provinces of the Dominion. The course of studies is in an experimental stage and it is not to be wondered at, that there is uneasiness in the minds of many, as to what the outcome will be. Examinations, as a means of promotion, will be lessened, though the teacher will have to determine whether his or her individual pupils are acquiring the necessary skill and knowledge in the various subjects. The school is providing more opportunities for activities and experiences than in the past. Arithmetic will not hold the prominent place on the time-table as heretofore but the child's actual experiences will help provide problems for him to solve. There will be a closer relationship between the subjects.

It is to be hoped that the new course of studies will find favour with all, teachers, pupils and parents, but let us not get impatient until we can see results for time must be given for all things.

MADOC TALC MINE CHANGES HANDS

Negotiations which have been under way for some time were brought to a close on Saturday, October 30, when the Canada Talc Company took over the George H. Gillespie Company Talc mine and mill. For the past thirty-one years the name of George H. Gillespie has been well known to the mining world, during which time he mined, milled and shipped talc from Madoc and his decision to retire from business will be a loss to this village. Mr. Gillespie has stated that he is out of the talc business for good. In the deal, which was a cash one, Mr. Gillespie refused an offer for his home as he stated if one was going to live in Canada, there was no better place than Madoc. Mr. Gillespie has no definite plans for the future but intends spending the winter months in California and to do considerable travelling in Europe. For the present the Canada Talc Company will operate both mines and nearly all those employed by the both companies will be kept on by the Canada Talc Company which will continue the business practically the same as in the past.

'INJURIES FATAL TO COE HILL MAN

Thomas Monaghan, 22-year-old Coe Hill laborer, sustained fatal injuries when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into the ditch north of his native village on Saturday, Monaghan being thrown out of the vehicle and sustaining a fractured skull when his head struck a large boulder along the side of the road. The injured man was attended by Dr. S. S. Lumb, of Bancroft, but died soon after. An inquest will be held on Friday, Coroner Dr. Lumb stated to Provincial Police. Monaghan was riding in a car driven by Edward Drumm, of Matheson, Ont. Besides Monaghan and Drumm, the latter's sister, Miss Aileen Drumm, and two small children by the name of McAuley, were in the car. Monaghan had solicited a ride with the Drums as they were proceeding northerly out of Coe Hill towards his home.

The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable Palmatier, Coe Hill, who reported that while endeavouring to negotiate a sharp left hand turn the car left the road on the right side, turning completely over into the ditch. Mr. Monaghan was sitting in the front seat and was thrown clear of the wreckage, his head striking a large boulder and resulting in a basic fracture of the skull. He failed to regain consciousness before succumbing.

Constable Palmatier detained Drumm for questioning, later permitting the driver his liberty to appear at the inquest set for Friday of this week, at which time any evidence pertaining to the fatal accident will be adduced. A preliminary inquest was held Saturday night at which time identification was established following which the body of the deceased was released for burial.

Up in the Clouds

by Beulah Earle

Monty Wallace has just arrived in California, having broken the East-West cross country airplane record. Natalie Wade, mistaken by him for a newspaper reporter, writes the exclusive account of Monty's arrival, and succeeds in securing a trial job with a paper in exchange for the story. Natalie becomes attached to Monty.

Although she discovers Monty's love for her is not sincere, Natalie admits that she loves him. She is assigned by her paper to report Monty's activities for publication. Jimmy Hale, the newspaper's photographer, becomes Natalie's co-worker.

Natalie interviews Jabe Marion, a wealthy airplane builder, who decides to build a record-breaking round the world plane for Monty. Marion's daughter, Sunny, exquisitely beautiful, is attracted to Monty. She invites Natalie to dine with her, when they meet the aviator unexpectedly.

Then she waked him and laughed at his consternation.

"Great Scot, Nat," he cried in his husky voice. "I didn't know I was as bad as that. Let me get out of here before I wreck your whole rep."

She gave him coffee and insisted that he get into a cold bath, promising him breakfast when he had swept some of the cobwebs out of his brain.

Over the dainty slices of toast and the crisp bacon he was presently a complete picture of chagrin. His chin was rough and his clothes were rumpled. He protested that he was not fit to associate with her.

"Weren't you trying to forget something last night, Jimmy? Isn't that why you drank so much?"

He grinned sheepishly. "Yeah," he said, "and it took a lot."

"It's not a nice way to do, Jimmy. But I sometimes think it's better than remembering too much. Let's let it go at that."

"But how am I going to get out of here without making it look bad for you?" he pleaded.

The girl laughed. "Can you run, Jimmy?" she asked.

"Sure, why?"

"Well, I'm going out after a while and when I come back, I'm going to find a prowler in my room. I'm going to make a terrible fuss and you'll have to beat it fast."

"Kid," he chuckled. "You're a genius. But you'd better wash up these dishes before you let anybody in here."

They laughed together and began clearing away the breakfast things.

Jimmy was very busy after that with mysterious affairs that seemed to involve his being much with Sunny Marion. He said nothing about all this to Natalie even when they were working together on some angle of the story of the great flight.

Natalie herself was busy. She had access to the company files and each day there was some difficulty that had to be ironed out and that usually proved the basis for her story of that day.

The refueling stations were already set up. Each had a plane at hand and an auxiliary plane available. Each had a pilot in charge and an assistant pilot ready in case of emergency.

It had not proved necessary to forward pilots or planes. American pilots in each of the countries designated for refueling stations proved available for the work at hand. It was vital only that they have experience in the type of work attempted and that they have uniform equipment.

It was not intended that all the stations would be used but that they should be ready if needed.

Each of the auxiliary pilots was a radio operator and the short-wave chain was in operation. It was from the log of conversations that Natalie culled most of the information she used for publication.

Mont Wallace, in active charge of most of these arrangements as well as the readying of the plane, had grown less and less preoccupied as the plans took shape. He was now thoroughly convinced that they would go through and that nothing but bad luck could stop the flight.

"In a thing like this," he told Natalie when she visited the hangar of a week before the flight, "you've got to count on luck. You do everything you can to keep luck out, but it creeps in spite of all. It's only the bad luck I'll have to fight. Everything else has been accounted for."

"You'll have to fight sleep, won't you Mont?" she questioned.

"That will be easy. I wouldn't be able to sleep a dime's worth if I were staying home and somebody else were making the flight after all this preparation. It will be easier now to stay awake when I know I've got the whole thing on my hands. Besides, it won't matter if I doze off now and then, for the automatic controls will take care of the ship and there is an alarm system if anything goes wrong."

The thought of Mont Wallace sleeping at the controls of the valiant little ship as it hurtled through space sent a creepy thrill of fear into the girl's heart but she made a note of the plan and used it for her lead that night.

Two days later Natalie Wade drove to the airport with sinking heart. This was the day that Mont was to take off for the East. He was to refuel at Denver on the cross-continent flight in order to see that everything had been remembered. The last leg of the Eastern flight was to be under cover of darkness.

"I'll be meeting the days pretty fast on this trip and I've got to get used to it," he told her when she asked about that feature of the preliminary start. That gave her another lead. "Days to be short for Wallace", the public would read that night.

In the midst of their conversation, Jimmy Hale drove up. He had pleaded delay and Natalie had taken a taxi-cab to the field. He drew her aside and slipped something into her hand. "Pretend this is your birthday, kid," he said. "I fixed this up for you so you can shoot pictures yourself when you get in a spot."

She saw then that he had given her a small and very fast camera of a type he had often described to her. She thanked him earnestly and then he jerked a thumb toward the night office.

"Old Jabe Marion wants to see you," he told her.

He did not follow after as she crossed to the opposite side of the hangar and sought out the gray-haired MAC president.

"Hello, Natalie," he said, smiling up at her from his desk. "Do you know why I sent for you?"

"I haven't an idea in the world," the girl replied honestly.

"I've arranged," he said proudly, "to have you make the New York trip with Wallace. It's all fixed with the paper. There's nothing for you to do but pack a bag and go."

Natalie seized Jabe Marion's hand and wrung it excitedly.

"I've been dying to suggest it," she concluded her thanks, "but I didn't have the nerve."

Jimmy Hale had known about it. He had brought her the little camera because he knew. Mont Wallace grinned when he saw her coming toward him. Then he knew about it, too, she realized, and he was happy. Sunny Marion was nowhere to be seen. Perhaps she knew about the plan, and was not happy.

Jimmy carried her off to fetch her belongings.

He was as gleeful as though he had been going along on that first leg of the flight himself.

"It's a great chance for you, kid," he said. "And when you take pix, see that they mean something; don't just stand 'em up and shoot 'em."

He showed her how to operate the simple shutter of the camera.

"Take a lot of shots," he advised her. "Some of them are bound to be no good but there's a hundred pictures in one load of that thing and some of them will turn out all right."

Natalie threw things into her bag. Jimmy watched.

"You didn't ever find that prowler that was in here, did you?" he grinned.

Natalie laughed.

"Listen, kid," Jimmy said, "I've got more news for you."

She looked up, snapping the lock of her grip.

"Sunny is sore as a goat. She wanted to make that trip herself. Now she is going by another plane and I'm going with her. We'll be there a little while after you land."

"Jimmy!" the girl cried. "That's grand!"

"It's a tri-motor and you're coming back with us after the big hop-off."

They rushed back to the field then. Mont Wallace was waiting for her. Sunny stood beside him, putting a little. But Mont's eyes were for the plane, for the final preparations.

In a little while the trim little ship was surrounded. The while field staff came to cheer and wish success to the flight.

Then Sunny and Jimmy Hale ran for their own plane.

Mont lifted Natalie almost bodily into her place in the small cabin. The motor revved up and roared. They taxied across the field and then there was a rush into the teeth of the wind. They were off for Denver, Cleveland and New York.

Once more Natalie Wade settled her shoulder against Mont's arm, and happiness flew with them as they swept toward the mountains.

That day seemed like a dream to Natalie, but it ended in nightmare when they refueled at Denver. In terror the girl watched while Mont shifted a cabin hatch and climbed to foot-rests above with his body whipped by the angry slip-stream.

What if the ship should veer suddenly and throw him from his place? But she remembered then that there were auxiliary controls on the cabin roof by which he could handle everything but the lateral rudder.

She saw the fueling ship mount above them. She knew that it must hold steady for the proper contact, that Mont must catch the swinging fuel line and whip it into the tank vent.

She could see little of the operation but she knew presently that it was a success. She saw the other plane swing off to the South and head back to its field. Mont slid back into his seat and closed the hatch.

He grinned at her, and in an instant she was in his arms, clinging to him with hot tears streaming down her cheeks. He kissed her hungrily, but he laughed at her tears.

They flew on then into the darkness. There was nothing to guide them but Mont's instinct and the star-glow of the night sky. There was a beacon now and then, but they seemed so few and far apart.

Natalie fought her terror through the night. It was not possible, it seemed to her, that this boy could circle the monstrous earth below in this frail plane. He would crash. He would die somewhere along that route that had been a thin, red line on the globe in the flight office!

Mont knew the Long Island flying field and the towns that lay about as he knew the back of his hand. Everywhere he was hailed by friendly voices. He turned his ship over to the starting control station while Natalie telephoned the Eastern newspaper connections for which she was to do her story.

She had scribbled a daffy of the flight as they flew East. Now she must find a quiet spot to turn out her lead. So overwrought was she by her fears that she told Mont she didn't believe she could do her work.

He hailed a cab and hurried her off to a tiny hotel where he was known. Presently he sat beside her in a pleasant little room overlooking a quiet street.

"Now, take your time," he said. "Nobody knows where you are. Nobody can bother you till you are ready

DON'TS THAT BALK CRIME

In telling the general public how to ward off the depredations of the robber, the pickpocket and the confidence man, the New York City police department offers these "don'ts":

Don't, when leaving your home, pull down window shades, or leave any notes indicating the time you will return, as sneak thieves will take advantage of such information.

Don't leave your key under the mat or over the door or in the letter box.

Don't neglect to lock your dumb-waiter door securely.

Don't fail to investigate the ringing of your door-bell after you have pushed the button, as many thieves use this means of gaining admittance to apartment houses.

Don't place a padlock outside your door, which indicates your absence from home.

Don't leave your home at night unless one light is left burning. A thief usually will avoid entering a home where there is a light burning.

Don't neglect to install a new lock if your keys have been lost or stolen.

Don't fail to place a chain on the inside of doors; affords a good protection for the women.

Don't place money or other valuables under rugs or behind pictures or in the crockery or other bric-a-brac or in mattresses, as these are the first places a thief will search and examine upon gaining entrance.

Don't become excited when a burglary is attempted; don't light the lights, but quietly telephone the police.

Don't admit persons who represent themselves as agents, gas inspectors, canvassers, etc., into your home or apartment unless they display their credentials. If doubtful, telephone their employer before admitting them, or transact your business with them in the vestibule or hallway.

Don't inform strangers of the absence of your neighbours.

Don't agree to buy or purchase merchandise offered by strangers who give the impression that the merchandise offered is at a great bargain, as often it is found this type of merchandise is faked or stolen property. It is advisable immediately to call the police. If it was of any value, they would keep it themselves or sell it to their friends.

Don't fail to obtain and investigate references of persons engaged as domestics. References should be checked in person, and not over the telephone, as in many instances the telephone number given by the prospective employee is a plant.

Don't trust persons with whom you come in contact because they are prosperous looking, smooth talking or with polished manners; remember, up-to-date thieves do not look like thugs.

Don't hang clothing or furs on the line to be aired, and then go out and expect to find them upon your return.

Don't, when shopping, lay your handbag on counters while examining merchandise. This is an opportunity thieves are always looking for.

Don't fall asleep in a subway, elevated or surface car. This gives pickpockets a good chance to steal your valuables.

Don't be pulling your watch out and giving the time of day to anybody who asks for it. That's a good opportunity for a thief to grab it and run.

Don't allow any person to place a newspaper close to your face, in a public conveyance or elsewhere; such a person is after your watch or other valuables, or trying to obstruct your view of a pickpocket in the act of committing a larceny.

Don't leave notes in letter boxes, doors or milk bottles, with messages telling what time you will return home.

Don't forget to notify your newspapers or milkman not to leave newspapers or milk when you expect to be away, as there is no better indication of your absence than a couple of newspapers or bottles of milk outside your door.

Don't look for a police officer patrolling his post, if a crime has been committed or if you have seen anything suspicious; telephone police headquarters at once, and give all the information you can.

MCQUESTEN DECLARES PRESS MOST POTENT SAFETY FORCE

The press of Ontario is the most important single factor in the war being waged against highway deaths and accidents, according to an opinion expressed this week by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways for the province.

"Although conclusive statistics have not yet been completed," said Mr. McQuesten, "there can be no question that the 'fear' campaign which the highways department has conducted during the past several months has had a definite effect on the reduction of the horrible carnage and needless waste which has been stalking our highways."

"It is quite evident," he declared, "that whatever success this campaign has achieved is due in great measure to the whole-hearted co-operation which has been extended to the Department of Highways by editors in every Ontario Community, and I wish through the medium of the press to extend to them this department's warmest gratitude for the public-spirited way in which they have used their news and editorial columns to save human lives and prevent misery and destruction."

Comments have been pouring into his office every day, the minister said, both from motorists and pedestrians concerning the effectiveness of the department's campaign. The most significant, he maintained, came from the scores of travelling salesmen and truck drivers.

"These men," said Mr. McQuesten, "are driving on the highways every hour of the day and each day of the week. They, perhaps more than any other groups, are more quick to observe changes in the driving habits of the motorists of the province, and they have been almost unanimous in commenting on the general improvement in highway motoring. They report less cutting in, less passing on hills and curves, and a noticeable reduction in all the bad, careless and thoughtless habits which result in death and destruction on the highway."

But there is still much work to be done, pointed out the minister. People are still being slaughtered on the roads of the province and automobiles are still piling themselves up in twisted heaps of wreckage. The war against thoughtlessness, recklessness and stupidity on the highways must be carried on until people can travel in complete safety and pleasure.

To this end, he called for the unceasing aid of Ontario editors and every pedestrian and motorist in the province.

"The Department of Highways," stated Mr. McQuesten, "is doing everything it can to design and construct highways which will be as accident-proof as engineering science can make them, but this can be of little effect unless the human beings who travel the highways take upon themselves the responsibility of controlling the ever-present 'human factor' in accident prevention. Engineers can mold concrete and steel to the ends of safety, but no force more potent than the press has been found which can mold human minds into paths of life-saving thoughtfulness."

TOURIST TRADE IN CANADA APPROACHES 1929 HIGH MARK

That visitors are very much impressed with the wonderful territory Canada offers for tourist travel is indicated by the fact that during the past season tourists spent approximately $300,000,000 in Canada for goods and services, indicating an increase of fifteen per cent. over last year, according to C. K. Howard, Manager, Tourist and Convention Bureau of the Canadian National Railways. This figure nearly approaches the high mark of 1929 when tourists spent $309,000,000 in the Dominion.

"While this tourist trade is encouraging, it but reveals the immense potentialities yet to be developed along this line in Canada and should make every citizen interested in supporting the work that is being done by Federal and Provincial Governments, civic organizations, transportation companies, tourist bureaus, etc.," stated Mr. Howard.

Indicative of the work that is being done by provincial governments for attracting tourists, it is pointed out that continuous highway improvement is being made in Ontario, while Quebec has a splendid highway encircling the Gaspé Peninsula and plans are under way to improve highways in other areas. Nova Scotia will have all main highways hard-surfaced by next year and New Brunswick is doing good work in this direction, while Prince Edward Island is also improving the roads.

The increase in tourist traffic during the past season indicates a greater spending capacity on the part of the visitors, and Mr. Howard points out that every phase of industry is affected by this influx of tourists, transportation companies, hotels, restaurants, manufacturers, retail stores, agriculture and many others benefiting from our tourist trade. "The tourist dollar is spread over a larger proportion of our population than any other dollar and it is essential that we maintain or improve our position in this highly competitive industry by accentuating our appeal to our friends in other countries who not only desire, but must be encouraged, to visit us."

"There is still a great deal to be accomplished in making every citizen of Canada tourist-conscious so that they will support in every way possible the work of those charged with the responsibility of the developing, soliciting and directing of visitors to the many pleasurable areas, Canada has to offer," concluded Mr. Howard.

THE HOME IS MOST DANGEROUS PLACE TO LIVE

The most dangerous place in the world to live is in your own home, for more accidents occur in the home than anywhere else, Dr. Hubert O. Swartout writes in "Life and Health."

"Home is no haven of safety," Dr. Swartout begins. "Nearly a hundred people a day lose their lives in accidents in their own homes," he states, and adds that much of the loss and suffering represented by these injuries is easily preventable.

There are two types of danger from electric wires and appliances in the home — shocks and fires. A wiring system is not likely to cause accidents or trouble when it has been installed under proper supervision and in accordance with modern safety ordinances," Dr. Swartout declares. "The most frequent and most severe electric shocks in homes happen in bathtubs, near electric washers, or in damp basements with concrete floors. No matter where the bathroom lights are located, the switch should be placed too far away from the tub for a person to touch bathtub and switch at the same time." This rule should also apply to sinks, washbowls, laundry tubs and water faucets. Defective or soot-choked chimneys are a menace, the writer holds. Open fireplaces that use wood or coal for fuel need careful screening. Gas pipe connections should be tested for leaks at least twice a year.

Matches should be kept out of children's reach. Hot ashes should be put into metal containers only. Gasoline or other inflammable cleaning fluids should be used only in rooms without fires and with open windows. A pile of greasy rags pushed into some dark corner may start a fire by spontaneous combustion, Dr. Swartout reveals.

Slippery floors cause many accidents in the home; slippery bathtubs are also a menace. At the present time inventors are working on a non-skid bathtub.

Basement stairs should be adequately lighted. Pins, needles, scissors, sharp knives, ice picks, broken glass should be placed out of reach of children — this also applies to poisons and medicines.

CARS WILL GO FARTHER ON SYNTHETIC GAS

Automobiles and airplanes will double their cruising speeds during the next ten years through use of synthetic hydrocarbon gasoline and oils, Dr. Gustav Egloff, director of research for Universal Oil Products Company, told members of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers at the meeting at Chicago.

Motorcars with cruising speeds of 150 miles and hour and airplanes travelling at 400 and 500 miles an hour will be in common use, he predicted. "Nature," he said, "has not given us any really satisfactory fuels and lubricants for use in engines. Superior synthetic substitutes are now being produced by high temperature cracking of crude oil."

Synthetic fuel, with its smoother and more complete combustion, will double combustion efficiency and make necessary new types of engines capable of standing higher pressures and higher temperatures, he stated. Lubricants to meet these coming needs are similarly produced from crude oil by a further hydrogenation process, he reported. The synthetic products will cost slightly more than natural ones, but actually be less expensive because they are more efficient, he stated. He predicted that automobiles will go twice as many miles to the gallon and that airplanes will have increased lifting power.

Engineers and traffic experts will have to develop super highways for use of these faster cars, he stated. "We hope to have transcontinental highways that will permit cars to go from Chicago to Los Angeles or San Francisco in 24 hours."

This, he pointed out, will intensify competition between automobile and railroad transportation and railroads will have to meet these increased speed demands. To do this, he stated, they will probably be forced to re-vamp and rebuild many of their roadbeds. They will need heavier road-curves and use stronger and better materials for their rails.

Discussing use of synthetic products in Europe, Dr. Egloff stated that Germany is paying a high price for trying to sustain herself on her own raw materials. By hydrogenation of coal, Germany is producing products of natural products, he said.

CULVERTS TO BE BUILT TO ALLOW CATTLE TO CROSS ROAD

Accidents to, or from cattle crossing the road will be eliminated on the new scenic highway along the St. Lawrence River between Brockville and Gananoque as a result of the large culverts, or cattle passes, which are being built at intervals along the road. Thirty-two of these passes are being constructed between Gananoque and the entrance to the new international bridge across the St. Lawrence to New York State. One of the largest passes is 220 feet long and has a passage underneath the highway eight feet wide and ten high.

BRITISH COLUMBIA SALMON

The British Columbia salmon is Canada's most important fish, representing one third of the value of the fisheries output of the Dominion. Reaching the highest marketed value level since 1930, British Columbia's salmon fishery, in 1936, accounted for $13,387,000; the total marketed value of the output from all the Dominion fisheries was $39,164,000. By far the biggest part of the Pacific catch of salmon goes into cans, and during 1936 the forty-six canneries in operation turned out more than 1,881,000 cases.

There are five species of British Columbia salmon taken by fishermen. The fish are entirely distinct from the Atlantic salmon, and the popular names are sockeye, coho, pink and chum. They are very similar in food value, although the rich, red colour of the sockeye's flesh and firmness of its tissues give this fish a market advantage and cause it to bring the highest price.

All of these salmon are born in fresh water, but their mature life is spent in the sea. The bulk of the catch is taken along the coast and in the inlets and bays, generally closer than two miles off shore. When the spawning grounds in the rivers are reached, each female salmon, guarded by the male, deposits her eggs to the number of several thousand in a little basin which the fish scrape out in the river bed with snout and fin. When the eggs are fertilized, the fish cover them with gravel. With that the life cycle of the parent fish is ended. Unlike the Atlantic salmon, the Pacific salmon spawns but once and death follows spawning. The child never sees the parent, one generation is dead before the next arrives.

TALL WOMEN LIKELY TO LIVE LONGER, SAYS STATISTICIAN

There's nothing you ladies can do about your height, but those of you who are tall can look forward to a longer life than others of your sex. So said Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician and Third Vice-President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in addressing the annual meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors of America. There is a definite relationship between build and mortality rate among women, he concluded.

AROUND THE WORLD

The world's longest wire communication system, 5,300 miles from Moscow, Russia, to Khabarovsk, near the Manchurian border, will be established shortly by the Soviet Government and will carry telephone and telegraph messages and wire photographs.

RECLAIMING OIL

Used crankcase oil may be reclaimed by filtering it through 16 or more paper towels. A saving of 50 per cent. or more will result and the oil will be as good as new.

The paper towels are placed in a refrigerator funnel (or other flat-bottomed funnel) so that the oil will pass through at least eight of them into the container beneath. To facilitate this, a scrap piece of hardware cloth should be placed on the bottom of the funnel first. The filtered oil may be readily checked for cleanliness by placing a drop on a clean paper towel alongside a drop of new oil.

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERY HELD NOVEMBER MEETING

The November meeting of the Belleville Presbytery was held in Foxboro United Church on Tuesday, November 9th beginning at 9:30 a.m. Rev. W. P. Fletcher, of Odessa, the Chairman, presided throughout the day. About ninety ministers and laymen were in attendance.

Among the items of business passed by the Presbytery were the granting of permission to John St. United Church Property Trustees to sell the Church property; permitting Rev. Morris Wooten, B.A., of Eldorado, to take charge of Fenmore Pastoral charge in the Montreal and Ottawa Conference; agreeing to the appointment of Mr. Oscar C. Wagar to the Flint and Cloyne Pastoral charge, and the reception of Mr. Wesley Mercer as a candidate for the ministry of the United Church of Canada.

The usual Laymen's Hour was conducted under the leadership of the President, Mr. E. L. Fraser, of Trenton. The subject chosen by the Association was Temperance. Mrs. Douglas W. Bows, of Belleville, outlined the reasons why people drank and how the Church could remedy the causes, and Mr. H. D. Williams, of Picton spoke on Temperance Education.

In the afternoon Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, of Toronto, addressed the Presbytery on the subject of Evangelism. He stated that the challenge of today was a recall to religion. That the cry today is Evangelism and this comes in an hour of crisis. That in a time of crisis something creative happens, and this creative power is to be centred around the church and the community.

The reports on Western Relief conveyed the startling fact that 821 cars of vegetables have been sent to Western Canada: 151 cars from British Columbia Conference; 106 from Alberta Conference; 189 from Manitoba; 67 from Maritimes; 35 from Montreal and Ottawa Conference and 268 from Ontario. There were 49 cars from the Bay of Quinte Conference and 7 from the Belleville Presbytery. The total value of these vegetables, etc., is estimated at half a million dollars. It cost the railroads which transported these cars free, the sum of $175,000.

The Evangelism and Social Service Committee report on Temperance was very challenging. It reads as follows: "That we appeal to all our people to practice total abstinence. That heads of families be urged to exercise their hospitality as to exclude alcoholic beverages from their homes. That we urge co-operation with all socially-minded citizens in support of all legislative enactments that will most effectively curtail the operations of the liquor traffic, ever keeping in mind the ultimate objective of the Church — a nation and a world free from the bane of drink." Ministers were urged to present in their pulpits frequently the findings of General Council in relationship to the drink evil.

At the noon hour a real country dinner was served by the ladies of the Foxboro United Church. At 4:30 p.m. Presbytery adjourned. The next meeting will be held in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville on the second Tuesday in February.

RAMSAY MacDONALD DIED ON BOARD SHIP

Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's outstanding labour statesman, who headed three Governments during his long career in public life, died on Tuesday night en route to South America, where he had hoped to recuperate his health. He was 71 years of age. He retired as Prime Minister June 7, 1935 and was succeeded by Stanley Baldwin, now Earl Baldwin of Bowdley. Last May, shortly after the Coronation, Mr. MacDonald and Lord Baldwin retired together from the Cabinet.

FRANKFORD HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

The house occupied by Mrs. Bernard Harrison and owned by Mr. Fred Gallagher, situated on the Belleville road, was completely destroyed by fire early Monday morning. Neighbours noticing the flames gave the alarm but all that could be saved was the dining room furniture. As Mrs. Harrison and daughter Eva were away visiting and there was no fire in the stove they are at a loss to know the cause. The house and contents were partially covered by insurance.

CANADIAN NURSES BARRED FROM UNITED STATES

Immediate steps are being taken by the United States Immigration Department to prevent further entry of job-seeking Canadian nurses into that country. Henceforth Canadian nurses will be admitted on visitors' permits for ordinary visits on cases which require temporary entry into the United States, visitors' permits will no longer be issued for the purpose of enabling Canadian nurses to go into the United States to take positions.

RIVER VALLEY STUDY GROUP

The River Valley Study Group met at the home of Mrs. J. Sager on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 20th, under the capable leadership of the President, Mrs. W. Lindenfield. The meeting opened with hymn "For the Beauty of the Earth", followed by the "Lord's Prayer" in unison. The minutes were read and adopted. The roll call was responded to by naming one thing we were particularly thankful for. Mrs. Alex Bush offered her home for the November meeting. Mrs. Ross Bush will prepare the program. The different secretaries were asked to report. Mrs. Norman Rosebush gave a reading on Temperance. Mrs. Roy Bush reported for the Associate Helpers. Miss Evelyn Bush then took charge of the programme, prepared by Misses Adeline and Evelyn Bush, on Thanksgiving. Hymn "Come ye Faithful people come". Mrs. Alex Bush led the group in responsive reading. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. John Kane, Psalm 103. Mrs. J. Sager and Mrs. Roy Bush conducted the Bible Study. Quiet music was given by Mrs. Clarence Chard. Mrs. Ross Bush gave a reading "The Thankful Heart". Mrs. Roy Bush gave a report on the rally at Foxboro. A contest was staged by Mrs. Don Donohoe. HOLLOWAY RESIDENT HONORED

Last Wednesday evening about twenty-five neighbours and friends gathered at the home of Mr. Wm. Guffin to spend with him a social evening and to bid him farewell before he left for his new home in Trenton.

After an hour or so had passed by in friendly chatting, Mr. Guffin was presented with a smoking stand and pipe; and the following address was read.

Holloway, Ontario,
November 3rd, 1937

Dear Mr. Guffin,—
Having heard you were leaving our community, your friends and neighbours have gathered to spend a social evening with you ere you depart, and to wish you good health and many long years of happiness.

It is indeed with great regret that we say good-bye to we have known you for so many years. During those years you have ever displayed the qualities of a good neighbour—friendliness, honesty, helpfulness and willingness to give and take in the duties of a community. Neighbours make a community; communities make a country and a country makes a nation. Each person then has a responsibility thrust upon them, and it can be truly said that you have done your share in making this world a better place in which to live.

In church you will be missed. Ever present at all its services your life has been an example for the young men here. No task too great in connection with its work did you ever refuse to lead a helping hand.

Just at this time we ask you to accept this smoking stand and pipe, with our best regards for your future happiness and may you have many long years to enjoy it. May the smoke from your pipe carry away with it all the sorrows and leave only happy thoughts of joyous moments spent with your Sidney friends.

Now our thoughts go with you as we sign ourselves —

Your Neighbours

Mr. Guffin, although completely taken by surprise, answered fittingly, thanking them all for the lovely gift. A dainty lunch was then served and after bidding farewell to Mr. Guffin the guests took their departure.

IDA HELENA MCGEE OF TWEED IS BRIDE

St. Clair United Church, Toronto, was the scene of a quiet wedding Friday morning, when Rev. J. E. Todd, officiated at the marriage of Ida Helena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. McGee, Tweed, and Mr. Lorne Hartley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Upshall, London.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore café brown velvet with matching hat and corsage of bronze chrysanthemums. She was attended by Miss Jennie Lowden, wearing mountain berry velvet, matching hat and pink corsage. Mr. A. Doolittle was best man. The reception was held at the home of Mrs. L. J. Moore, where Mrs. McGee and Mrs. Upshall received the bridal party. The bride and bridegroom left for a motor trip to the States, the latter wearing rust and brown frock, brown coat with Persian lamb trim and brown accessories. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Thos. Spry and Messrs J. M. and Archie McGee, of Stirling.

we are very grateful for you and all the rest who kindly sent eatables to this dried-out West.

Your potatoes are lovely and many, many thanks for letting us know where they came from.

I'm a married woman of 24 with two dear little girls of four and two, and a real good husband who tries his best. We are not farming as we have no equipment of our own, and to try to rent farms with horses and machinery.

Thanking you again,

Dear Sir,—

Just a few lines to thank you for the potatoes that we received from you people. They sure are appreciated very much. We live in town and we planted a nice-sized garden in the Spring and did not have a thing. Things certainly are tough here and no changes of any work. There was a total crop failure in this district. I have a large feed barn in this town and no business. I have a wife and two little kiddies — a little girl four years old and a little boy two years old, and the thing I am blessed with is that our family is in the best of health. I am going to thank you once more for the potatoes, and thanks to all the rest of the people in your district for donating to us in the West. I hope you people are all in the best of health. I was born in Baginor, Ont. Well, I must close for this time.

Mr. David Hanna,
Bonarlaw, Ont.

Dear Friend,—

Although we haven't met, I consider you as a friend, for the kindly act that you have done in sending the lovely gifts from Ontario to the people of the West.

I cannot express the gratitude we people of the West owe to you. But we are sincerely thankful for every thing. The things were in very fine condition when we received them. Each one receives a portion of all the things. As the ships were not attached securely enough I don't know for sure what you sent. But everything is appreciated greatly.

My folks came from Ontario in 1906 and often speak of it as "Dear old Ontario". Their homes were at Dromore and Emsdale before going to Toronto.

We hope that the people of Ontario will never have to have the crop failures that we have had.

Thanking you again for your donation and your trouble.

Sincerely,
MARY BRYCE

Following is a copy of comments made by the local press:

From Stirling, Ontario, a splendid carload of fruit and vegetables came to this district last Wednesday. It was an unusually large car—over 61,000 pounds, net weight—and contained a fine assortment of good things to eat. As gardens in the district have been almost non-existent, these gifts from friends in the East are deeply appreciated by all who shared in them.

It was evident from the contents of the car and the way they were packed, as well as from the letters enclosed, that the people of Stirling were prompted by genuine friendliness and sympathy when they responded in so fine a style to our need in this province. Many of the parcels were wrapped and arranged with evident care, and the quality of everything sent was uniformly good.

A number of people asked about conditions here, and requested letters. There were many expressions of sympathy and wishes for better times in the near future. One lady enclosed a stamped return envelope, fearing, as she said, that the one who received the gift might not find it easy to buy a stamp. Another lady, who hadn't a stamp, enclosed ten cents. A boy wrote: "I hope you like turnips as well as I do. I helped pick the turnips and drew them up to the house with an old blind grey horse. I am 13 years old."

Sincere thanks are extended to the members of the Distribution Committee and other helpers, all of whom worked willingly and efficiently in unloading and distributing the contents of the car.

A car of vegetables and fruit arrived in town from Stirling, Ont., last week and the contents were distributed by a committee of the local United Church. This car was loaded by the church people at Stirling, the provisions being donated, and the car was transported free by the railroads. The great majority in both town and district received their quota of potatoes, apples, carrots, turnips, preserved fruit, pumpkins, citrons, etc. A few butternuts and hickory nuts were also in the car. They were as old friends to former residents of Ontario, but new to those born in the West.

HON EARL ROWE IS GIVEN AN ACCLAMATION

Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, was elected to the vacant Dufferin-Simcoe seat in the House of Commons by acclamation on Saturday. No Liberal opponent had been named when nominations closed. Mr. Rowe resigned the Dufferin-Simcoe seat to contest the Centre Simcoe riding in the Ontario general election of Oct. 6, and was unsuccessful. The acclamation was expected, the Conservatives having allowed a Liberal acclamation in the Frontenac-Addington riding, in which a federal house vacancy was caused by the resignation of Colin A. Campbell, now Ontario Minister of Public Works.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE HELD

Service at Cenotaph Well Attended —
Wreaths Are Placed

Remembrance Day was fittingly observed in Stirling on Thursday morning with an impressive service at the Cenotaph in the Memorial Park. All places of business in the village were closed and well over three hundred citizens were present for the service, marking the nineteenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice.

Preceding the service a parade was formed at the High School grounds and proceeded to the Cenotaph. It was headed by the Stirling Citizens' Band and comprised members of the Boy Scout Cubs, veterans, members of the clergy and Reeve Thomas Cranston. Comrade E. Dainard acted as marshal for the occasion.

At the Cenotaph Reeve Thos. Cranston acted as Chairman and the service was opened by singing one verse of the hymn "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." Rev. W. J. Scott, of St. Paul's United Church, read the Scripture lesson and led in prayer. A short and appropriate address was delivered by Rev. J. A. Koffend, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on the subject, "Armistice and Its Meaning."

"In the eleventh month, the eleventh day and the eleventh hour, nineteen years ago, the period known as the World War came to an end. Throughout these nineteen years our Empire has been favoured with peace among her people; a peace made possible by the men and the women who so heroically offered everything that was dear to them, to the Empire's freedom and peace. It is an unfortunate habit among humanity to be the recipient of much for which we seldom, if ever, stop to ask ourselves the question, 'From whence did it all come? What is the price of the freedom we all enjoy this day?' The memories behind this great memorial carry the answers.

Flow upon row of small white crosses reply 'We hold the answer.' Hospital wards with their helpless suffering ones reply 'We carry the answer.' The maimed, the blind, the deaf, the shell-shocked men, all who are deprived of the wholesome freedom of life, they all answer, 'We carry the price of an Empire's freedom and peace.' Therefore, it is only fitting that we pause before this cenotaph for these brief moments, to pay tribute and homage, to the memory of a great and noble sacrifice laid upon the altar of a nation. Not only should we stop to honour our dead heroes, but we should go a step further, because halting is not enough, remembering is not enough. Surely there is something more to this great day in the year's calendar than a pausing for these few minutes, and then passing into the routine of the day with no further thought of the meaning, and the significance that lies behind it all.

"What does this Armistice Day mean to us of the British Empire?"

"1. First of all, Armistice Day relates exclusively to the Mothers and Fathers whose sons did not return from the field of service. These had more than their share of the storm of sorrow which swept through the world in 1914 to 1918. They must carry that burden of sorrow and loss until their dying day.

"2. The second meaning of Armistice Day is assuredly that it speaks of love and devotion, and a consolation for the maimed, the helpless, some who are blind, the deaf, the shell-shocked, the suffering. Let us not forget those men shut away from the world, deprived of their god-given right to enjoy life as we enjoy it.

"3. The third meaning of this Armistice Day is to the youth of the nation. We ought to strive to understand and uphold the thing for which these men died and sacrificed themselves. We ought to make it our business to live in loyalty and toil for the highest ideals.

"4. The final meaning of this great

BIRTHDAY PARTY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Eggleton was the scene of a happy gathering on Friday evening, Nov. 12, when their son, Freddie, entertained a number of his young friends in honour of his eleventh birthday. Following the serving of refreshments, which included a birthday cake, Freddie treated his guests to a theatre party. Those present were David Duffin, Charles Pedley, Munro Scott and Douglas and Bert Bastedo.

COTTAGES RANSACKED

A number of the summer cottages on the north shore of Oak Lake were entered and thoroughly ransacked by some person or persons during the past few days. Early Sunday morning Thos. W. Solmes paid a visit to his cottage and discovered that it had been broken into. Making investigations he found that a number of the neighbouring cottages had also been entered and notified the owners and the police, who are conducting an investigation. Apparently the robbers were looking only for food, as none of the other contents of the cottages were taken. Among the cottages entered were those owned by Messrs T. W. Solmes, W. Wright, W. L. Addison, W. C. West, G. Bailey, A. Hadley, Miss Betty Burch and Messadmes Nina Morton and Nora Wescott, of Stirling, and P. C. McGuire, of Belleville.

ANNUAL SUPPER IS SUCCESSFUL

Annual Event Proves Popular — Drawing For Prizes Made

On Wednesday evening of last week the Bazaar and Chicken Supper in aid of St. James' Church took place in Stirling Community Hall and proved to be a successful event. The attendance was large and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Entering the hall one was struck with the excellent arrangement of the heavily-laden tables and the serving of the tasty and well-prepared meal was carried out with a minimum of confusion. The ladies of St. James' have long held a reputation for their good cooking and judging by the many fine compliments heard following Wednesday's supper, it is further enhanced.

After supper the patrons were invited to visit the many booths which were in operation and did a thriving business for the most of the evening. At ten o'clock the Grand Drawing for the valuable prizes took place and resulted in the following holding the lucky tickets:

First prize, floor lamp, ticket No. 862, won by Susan Gibson, Harold.

Second prize, cushion chair, ticket No. 469, won by Mrs. Jos. O'Neill, Harold.

Third prize, pair woollen blankets, ticket No. 987, Owen J. McAvoy, Holmway.

Fourth prize, mystery prize, ticket No. 560, R. S. McAvoy, Ivanhoe. The dance, which terminated the evening's proceedings, was enjoyed by a large crowd, with music by Charles Allen, Maurice Bell and Frank Butler.

day of Armistice should be a protest to war. The rumblings of today remind us that the price which 17,000,000 men paid for peace does not seem to satisfy some hungry crowd, who are today clamoring for war! The fact that the price for peace was paid at an immeasurably high price should mean something to us. We have no right to trample to the dust the ideal for which these men gave so much."

The assembly stood with bowed heads as two minutes' silence was observed, followed by the placing of wreaths before the Cenotaph by Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. Douglas Patterson and Dr. C. F. Walt.

The sounding of the Last Post, the Benediction, Revellie, and the singing of the National Anthem brought a most impressive service to a close.

WILL HOLD "AT HOME"

Invitations are out for the annual "At Home" of the Stirling Cheesemakers' Association, which will be held in the Community Hall, Stirling, next Wednesday night, November 24th. It is expected there will be a large attendance of those interested in the cheese industry, and their lady friends. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the event are: Messrs C. F. Linn, Frank Palmer, T. S. Scales, and M. S. Rose, President.

ATTEND TORONTO ROYAL

Messrs Art. McDonnell, of Stirling, James Walsh, of Shannonville, and Keith Garbutt, of Belleville, represented Hastings County in the inter-county judging competitions at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto on Tuesday. They were accompanied by Mr. Jos. Wilson, B.S.A., local Agricultural representative, and spent Thursday and Friday of last week at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, where they were given instructions in judging, in preparation for the big competition.

WELL CAVES IN

Progress on the new village well was retarded somewhat when a slight cave-in occurred some time during Friday night last. The excavation work was nearing completion when the cave-in took place, and it will take several days' work to repair the damage. It was fortunate that it occurred while the men were not at work, otherwise there might have been injury suffered by them.

COUPLE HONOURED

Last week the congregation of St. John's Church met in the Parish Hall to honour Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morrow who have recently been married. After a short programme, which included a pianoforte selection by Miss Elsie Kerr and a vocal solo by Mrs. H. P. Ellis, the Rector, Rev. A. S. McConnell, called upon Harry and Mildred and on behalf of the congregation presented them with a Gifford solid walnut book case. Among those who made short addresses were Mr. S. Elliott, father of the bride; Mr. A. Heath, H. P. Ellis and J. B. Belshaw. An interesting feature of the evening was a letter from Mr. J. M. Black, of Deseronto, which gave some new and important information in connection with the firm of architects who designed St. John's Church.

A bountiful luncheon served by the ladies brought a happy evening to a conclusion.

WELFARE CLUB MET TUESDAY

Rev. W. J. Walker, of Belleville Gives Interesting Address

The Stirling Community Welfare Club held its inaugural meeting of the Fall and Winter season on Tuesday night in the local Community Hall, with only a fair attendance. Rev. W. J. Walker, of Belleville, was the guest speaker and delivered a most interesting and instructive address on the subject "The Stars".

President C. N. Baker occupied the chair and the duties of Sergeant-at-Arms were capably looked after by Rev. A. S. McConnell, who made numerous calls on the members for payment of fines imposed for infringements on the rules of the Club. Community singing was led by Murney Hick with Kenneth Morrow at the piano and a number of the old favourites were sung with great gusto.

The ladies of the Stirling Branch of the Women's Institute served the luncheon and the tables were well laden with all the good things to eat.

The guest speaker of the evening was Rev. W. J. Walker, of Belleville, who was introduced by Mr. Fred Malory. Mr. Walker, who is a student of astronomy, and spent several months during the past summer in its study at Queen's University, gave an excellent address on the subject, "The Stars."

In his opening remarks he stated that this was one of the most popular subjects of study. "Considerable is known of the world in which we live and now we are starting to investigate worlds outside this world. The first object to strike our eyes is the moon, which can be seen through the telescope best at the half or three-quarters full position. It is 2100 miles in diameter, or one-quarter the size of the earth, with plains in the south and mountains in the north, with an average height of 20,000 feet. There is no air about the moon and the surface can be likened to asbestos, with the side facing the sun being baked by the sun's rays to a temperature of 238 degrees, and the under side away from the sun being away down below zero. Outside the moon we have a system of planets with Mercury being nearest the sun, and with a surface similar to the moon. Venus, next to Mercury, is 7,700 miles in diameter, or almost the same size as the earth. It is cov-

ST. PAUL'S MEN MEET

Interesting Address Given by Dr. J.
Arnup of Toronto

The first meeting for the Fall and Winter season of St. Paul's United Church Men's Association was held in the basement of the Church on Monday evening at 8.00 p.m., with a splendid attendance of local men, with visitors from West Huntingdon and Rawdon Circuits.

Mr. Thos. W. Solmes acted as chairman in his usual pleasing manner. Mr. Bob Patterson was song leader and led in several of the old-fashioned songs. Mr. G. L. Clute presided at the piano and the men's choir sang a missionary hymn. Rev. W. J. Scott introduced the speaker of the evening and outlined the plans of the organization.

The guest speaker was Rev. Jesse Arnup, D.D., of Toronto, General Secretary of the Foreign Mission Department of the United Church of Canada. He chose as his subject "The Gospel and the Farm." He pointed out that the farming industry is the greatest industry in the world. One billion people live on the farm or in small villages. The most of these live in Asia and Africa.

Because of his experiences in the Mission fields, Dr. Arnup spoke of conditions of the farm in the far East and in Africa. He said that wherever he went in the East, he found universal poverty on the farm. "The average size of a farm in Japan is two and one-half acres; in India three acres; in China, 4 acres. The average farm is owned by an absentee landlord who receives one-half of all that is earned from the farm. The farmer tenant must live on half of the income from a two and one-half acre farm. The average income for a farmer and his family is $150 a year. Half of the people in the East go to bed every night hungry. They always are in fear of famine. In one Chinese City in one month two thousand dead people were picked up off the streets — they had died of starvation.

The speaker pointed out that there is the problem of over-population. In Korea there are 900 people to every square mile. There is the problem of unequal distribution of wealth. There is the problem of poor methods of farming. Their tools for working are terribly inferior and inadequate. There is the fear of evil spirits. They cannot sterilize milk because they are afraid of killing the germs in milk and thus causing the wrath of the evil spirits. There are 14,000 useless cows in India that cannot be killed because a cow is a sacred animal. There is the problem caused by the poor houses in which they live. Many of them live in $5.00 houses, with no windows, no loors, no ventilation.

CHRISTMAS TREE CLUB

A representative meeting of the business men of the village has been called for next Monday night in the Agricultural Rooms at seven-thirty for the purpose of making plans for the annual Christmas Tree and the dispensing of cheer for the youngsters of the town and immediate rural district. For a number of years the business men have sponsored a community Christmas Tree at which each child received a favour and all were treated to a theatre party, and it is expected that they will decide on a similar programme for the year. This is a splendid gesture on the part of the business men and it is greatly appreciated by both the children and their parents. The officers of the organization are hoping for a large turnout of the citizens in order that strong committees may be appointed to carry in the work. Remember the date, Monday night, November 22nd, in the Agricultural Rooms.

A WRONG SYSTEM

Referring to the criticism which has been made of the salaries paid by the Dominion Government to the rural mail carriers the Perth Courier states that this criticism is justified because the method of fixing mail delivery costs, for rural mail carriers at any rate, makes it almost impossible for them to receive fair remuneration. This is because prospective carriers are asked to bid each other down on contracts. For instance, when a contract for carrying mail from the station to a town post office expires, the Department at Ottawa calls for tenders. There is always someone who will submit an extremely low figure to make sure of receiving the contract, with the result that in some cases it seems impossible for anyone to make money out of the job after gasoline and other transportation expenses have been paid. Awarding contracts by tender is, of course, an accepted practice, but in cases where steady employment is to be given to any one person, it would be fairer for the government to evaluate each job, make an appointment and pay a reasonable wage.

AN APPEAL FOR SPORT

Next Monday night, November 22nd, the Stirling Hockey Club is holding a dance in the Community Hall to raise funds for financing a team in the district league this coming winter. As everyone is aware, it takes considerable money to outfit a team with uniforms, pads, etc., as well as to cover the expenses of transportation and other incidentals. There was a time when the gate receipts at the games played in the local arena were sufficient to take care of all expenditures, but during the last few years the attendance has fallen off and the Club Executive find it increasingly hard to make ends meet. It is as a result of this that the Club has decided to hold a series of dances throughout the winter, providing they meet with the support of the citizens of Stirling and district.

Hockey provides good, clean, wholesome sport and is a splendid training ground for the youth of the village and district. A village without a hockey team is a dead place. Besides, plenty of good advertising is given a town that sponsors a team. The members of the local executive are giving of their time and energy without any thought of personal recompense, in an endeavour to keep the village on the sport map, and are appealing for the assistance of the lovers of good clean sport in financing a team. It remains for the fans of the district to do their bit in keeping sport alive in the community.

The only one of the "Old Gang" whose public life was criticized, so far as we know, was George Henry. He was a splendid Minister of Highways, but a washout as Premier.

Although the new 1938 license plates have been on sale for some weeks, it still looks as if a good many of us will have to lay away our pennies and get the markers as a Christmas present for ourselves again this year.

The present fall has been featured by a heavy rainfall and the past week this district had perhaps the greatest precipitation of the year. As a result the fall grains are getting a splendid start, and unless the coming winter is too severe, prospects look good for a splendid crop. The farmers' wells will also benefit from the abundance of rain. The marshes and low woodlots are flooded and when the freeze-up comes, farmers should experience little trouble in getting their supply of wood cut in readiness for being hauled to the home lot.

According to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics divorces are becoming more common in Canada. Last year there were 1526 divorces granted, an increase of 150 over 1935 and 420 in 1934. Just how far we have travelled in the direction of divorce is indicated by the fact that before the Great War the highest number of divorces in any one year was 60. After considering such an increase in the number of divorces granted, it is quite apparent that changing the granting of divorces from a committee of the members of the Senate to a judge has contributed to the increase in applications.

Motorists in Stirling ought not to feel angry if the Village Constable lays information against those who ignore the law regarding stop signs. Over a year ago the Department of Highways had a stop sign erected on Mill St., advising all traffic to come to a stop before proceeding onto North St., which is a part of Highway No. 33, and there still are a great many motorists who fail to observe it. The man who breaks the law may escape an accident for a time, but sooner or later he will cause injury either to himself or others. It pays to obey the rules.

A proposal for a national system of unemployment insurance to be initiated at the next session of parliament has been proposed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King to the Premiers of the various provinces. It is understood that the system is on a contributory basis and a number of the premiers have expressed their willingness to have the British North America Act amended to empower the Federal government to enact the necessary legislation. While full particulars of the proposed legislation are not known, it is to be hoped that provision will be made whereby those who are willing and anxious to work will not have to pay for the upkeep of those who believe that someone owes them a living.

Yes, there are only five weeks left to plan for your Christmas shopping. Time does slip by quickly. It does not seem possible that the time is at hand for the people to look about for the annual shopping event. Yet it is a fact. People are now planning their Christmas presents. This means that the merchant who is awake is presenting the pleasing merchandise to the customers. It means that the people are expecting to hear from the merchants. What are the merchants of Stirling doing to increase their business over a year ago? This is one of the most important questions of the day. The big chain stores and departmental stores are working on the plan and it is up to the local merchants to find some new method and medium by which business can be increased. Every local merchant should be alive to the opportunity.

While the municipal election pot is boiling in several of the neighbouring municipalities where the elections are held early in December, nothing is heard in Stirling as to what is liable to take place. None of the members of the present Council has made his intentions known as yet and no new aspirants for office have appeared. Although it is still several weeks before the date of nomination it is time to think the matter over and decide definitely in your own mind whether or not you are going to take a more active part in the management of the town's business, or whether or not you are going to stand for office in any capacity. For the past few years the citizens of the village have been showing a decided apathy to municipal matters, which is far from a satisfactory state of affairs. Persons who take no part in nomination proceedings or election have little excuse to grumble if after it is all over things are not done to their liking.

CHEERFUL GIVER

(Hanover Post)
We know of a church, influenced by the right idea that a list showing the contribution of each member should not be circulated among all the members, which decided not to issue such a statement at the end of the year, but the term was only half completed and the offerings had fallen so alarmingly, that it was decided to cancel the resolution and again issue a list of contributions. Secure in the knowledge that nobody would know how much they gave to the church, many members had straightway reduced their givings, but, when it was announced that this secrecy would no longer obtain, they brought their contribution up to a respectable total, and the church was saved a deficit.

BANG WENT $100!

(St. Mary's Journal-Argus)
One of our linotypes, those ingenious contraptions which are the heart of the modern newspaper plant, developed the colic — chills in the breadbasket, as it were. The automatically heated metal pot, which spews molten lead, refused to spew. Genial Foreman Grose, scratched his depleted locks in diagnosis, he called an electrician, he pulled the metal cover off the metal pot, spreading asbestos cement about the composing room, he cursed a little, prescribed the usual medicine — but the Lino still had "tummy" trouble. Finally an expert was called, the usual operation followed, and when at last, after two days, the Lino went back to its work of setting news for The Journal-Argus, the doctor's bills came rolling in — the price a neat $100, plus the loss of two days' production.

IT'S A QUESTION

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)
What's a man to do? A chap comes into his office with a letter stating that owing to some kind of an accident the bearer of the letter is handicapped and unable to work. There is a list of townspeople who have been touched by the letter and the appearance of the man. Of course, the man in his office doesn't wish to appear a piker so he puts down his name and the beggar thanks him for the donation he has received and away he goes. Some time later the office man discovers that the object of the generosity is over in the beverage room having a glass or two of beer. So what's a man to do? In our opinion the only thing to do is to clamp down on all such donating unless the person who applies for help is from the home town or community and is well enough known.

HOW TO END WAR

(Alliston Herald)
Oriental peoples hold life cheaply. They thrill to the thought of getting killed for their country. And, if they suffer any military defeat they prefer a quick death to the shame of living on and having their countrymen scorn them. Because he blamed himself for permitting the Japanese to break through the Chinese lines at Chapel, General Chu Yao-hua committed suicide. He was commander of a portion of the Chinese front. He could not bear the thought of carrying the burden of that defeat the rest of his years. Japanese generals often kill themselves. They do not even have to lose a battle to suffer what they think is sufficient disgrace to put an end to their lives. They may even make a wrong movement in manoeuvres, and especially if it is before the Emperor, they kill themselves as a sort of financial atonement. With life held so cheaply, it becomes harder to end the hostilities. For when both sides take a peculiar satisfaction in dying in battle, it is hard to impress on them that war is evil.

MAYOR HALL HAS TO PAY

A $210 judgment has been given in favour of the Province of Ontario in its action against Mayor Alex Hall, of Oshawa. Judge S. L. Smoke of Peterborough, heard the case in chambers at Whitby last Friday, with Solicitor A. O. Kline of the Attorney-General's Department, Toronto, as Special Crown prosecutor. The action, which was launched several months ago at Premier Hepburn's direction, and details of which were aired on various occasions by the Prime Minister during the course of the general election campaign, was to recover certain fees which Mayor Hall, during his administration of the office of Crown Attorney for Ontario County several years ago had allegedly neglected to turn in to the Crown.

Recognition

A certain famous film star visited the Highlands and stopped for refreshment at a farmhouse. She was given some milk in a little bowl and while she was drinking it a pig trotted up to her.
"See," she explained, delighted, "even the little pig he recognizes me."

"It's no' you he recognizes," said the farm-wife, "it's his wee bowlie."

EAGLES DO LITTLE HARM

The eagle is a bird of prey but bird lovers believe it does more good than harm. It is particularly fond of dead fish and keeps streams and water-courses clean, observes a writer in the Washington Post. The birds were formerly so numerous their depredations were serious. They carried off chickens, pigs, lambs and even dogs, so farmers and hunters started gunning for them. Their numbers are so reduced they do little or no harm. Favorite trick of the bold eagle is to rob a fish hawk of his catch. The crafty eagle plummets on the hawk with a blood-curdling scream. Startled, the hawk drops his catch and the eagle grabs it before it reaches the ground.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Only a few staple vegetables and winter apples featured the farm produce exhibit on the Belleville Market on Saturday, with prices generally remaining firm. Bushel lots of carrots, turnips and parsnips were offered at from fifty to sixty cents with winter cabbages selling from five cents upwards.

Macintosh Reds and Tolman Sweet apples again held the fruit spotlight, selling at $2.00 per hamper for ring-packed fruit with ground apples offered at from $1.00 upwards. Hickory and butternuts increasing in quantity since the recent heavy frosts were offered at twenty-five cents per quart and fifteen cents per basket respectively.

Egg Prices Firm

"A" selects eggs held steady at the all-week quotations of forty-five cents with "mediums" quoted at thirty-seven cents and forty cents.

Pullet eggs were offered from thirty-two cents per dozen to as high as thirty-seven cents. Farmers' butter marked no change in prices, selling generally at sixty-five cents for two-pound rolls, although some was available at thirty cents per pound.

Chickens were fairly plentiful with some good quality birds offered at from seventy-five cents up to $1.25. A few ducks were offered at prices ranging from one dollar to $1.25.

Honey quoted at ten cents per pound in various quantities sold to a fairly brisk market with the comb offered at fifteen cents each.

Home cooking booths did a brisk business with lady shoppers availing themselves of the fine edibles, pastry, etc., offered at attractive prices.

Lake herring featured the small fish display selling at four for twenty-five cents. Mudcats at two pounds for twenty-five cents did a fairly brisk trade.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Wire Basket for Eggs

One of the requirements for membership in the newly organized Ontario Poultryfarm Egg Producers is that the eggs be gathered and cooled in wire baskets. There's a reason. The keeping quality of the egg is greatly improved by rapid cooling. In a test it was found that eggs gathered in wooden pails had a temperature in five hours of 82 degrees and in ten hours of 65 degrees. Eggs gathered at the same time in wire baskets had a five-hour temperature of 67½ degrees and a 10-hour temperature of 58½ degrees.

Wire baskets for egg collection are now in almost universal use on commercial egg plants in the New York and Boston areas. Wire baskets are now manufactured and sold by poultry supply firms. A very satisfactory basket can be made with sides of light lumber and a bottom of wire netting with half-inch mesh. Screw a spool under the bottom corners so that the air can always circulate up through the eggs.

Dipping Sheep

Ticks and other external parasites of sheep are serious enough at any time and cause more direct loss than is generally supposed, but during the period when the sheep are in winter quarters it is even more important to rid them of all sources of irritation. It is especially desirable that the flock be clean before and during lambing, otherwise the infestation is sure to be passed along to the lambs which will thus receive a very serious setback at the most important period of their lives.

Properly dipped in the autumn, on some warm day when the fleeces will dry out quickly, the whole flock will remain clean throughout the winter, unless, of course, other undipped animals are brought to the farm. With the very convenient powder dips, sheep are put through the minimum of bother and at a cost of only a few cents per head. The only thing necessary is to make sure of good dip, diluted to the proper strength, and that every animal is passed through the solution slowly and thoroughly saturated.

International Exposition

Canadian farmers from several provinces of the Dominion have many entries in the 38th International Live Stock Exposition and the 19th International Grain and Hay Show which will be held at Chicago from November 27 to December 4, 1937, inclusive. Ever since the inauguration of these two shows Canadians have taken a conspicuous part, each year winning a fair share of the blue ribbons. In 1935 exhibitors from the Dominion won 16 grand championships, 76 first prizes and 277 other awards. Since the International Grain and Hay Show has been held at Chicago, Canadians have won the championship prize for wheat no less than 14 times and 22 times since the International competition was introduced in 1911 at the New York Land Show. The 1936 winner was Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Peace River, Alberta, who also won the championship in 1930, 1931, and 1932. Every winner from Canada of this coveted award has scored with a variety of wheat developed by the Cereal Division, Experimental Farms Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

The joint international shows held annually at Chicago are among the leaders in agricultural shows. This year it is expected the live stock entries will total about 15,000 and the grain and hay entries will be between 6,000 and 6,000, principally from the United States and Canada, though there will be some from 13 other countries.

Short Courses

A three months' short course in Agriculture and Home Economics for farm boys and girls, ranging in ages from 16 to 30, has been announced for nine counties by R. S. Duncan, director of agricultural representatives, Ontario Department of Agriculture. There is no fee for those taking the course, which commences Nov. 23rd, and ends Feb. 25th with Christmas vacation from Dec. 18th to Jan. 3rd.

Orange Pekoe Blend "SALADA" TEA

Inclusive.

In addition to the above course, seven one month's courses have been arranged starting Nov. 23rd. More of these courses will be announced later.

Three months' courses are being held in Walkerton in Bruce County; Milton in Halton; Grimsby, Lincoln; Alsea Craig, Middlesex; Bolton, Peel; Stratford, Perth; Norwich, Oxford; Roseville, Waterloo; Lynden, Wentworth.

Courses of one month's duration are being held in St. Andrews, Glengarry; Read, Hastings; Alice, Renfrew; Hillsdale, North Simcoe; Creemore, South Simcoe; Wareham, Grey; Alfred, Prescott and Russell.

Municipalities in which these courses are being held will provide halls for instruction, while the Ontario Department of Agriculture will provide two resident instructors in agriculture. They will be O.A.C. graduates who are practical farmers, and will be assisted by the agricultural representative of the county, and government specialists who will give special lectures.

The Home Economics course will be under the direction of the Women's Institute Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, and will have one resident instructor. She will be assisted by special W.I. speakers from time to time.

It is expected that at least 1,000 boys and girls will receive instructions this winter at these courses.

Guelph Winter Fair Entries Pouring In

Present indications point to a record entry list for the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair and Fat Stock Show, states L. E. O'Neill and other officials were highly delighted with prospects for a successful show and more than pleased with the number of exhibitors showing at Guelph for the first time. The fair opens on Tuesday, Nov. 30, and concludes Dec. 2nd. There will be an exceptionally fine light horse show each night of the fair in the judging arena.

The steer market class is always a feature at Guelph. There are five classes with eight prizes in each class ranging from $25 to $10. An auction sale of cattle will be held Thursday morning, Dec. 2nd, with buyers present from all over Ontario. This sale has in the past netted exhibitors handsome returns.

The Guelph fair has always been considered a farmers' show and rightly so. A trip to Guelph can be considered as a pre-Christmas gift to yourself and family, Mr. Farmer. Educational features will include demonstration by Prof. G. Ruhnke and his Chemistry staff of the Ontario Agricultural College. Every farmer should see this demonstration and make arrangements for a soil test on his own farm in order that he may farm more intelligently and profitably in the years to come. There will also be a market potato exhibit by the Hillsburg growers that will be well worth seeing.

Just remember this. Six big shows in one; $20,000 in prizes for cattle, horses, sheep, swine, seeds and poultry. Remember the dates, Nov. 30, Dec. 1st and 2nd.

DISLOCATED ELBOW LED TO NEURITIS

Could Not Straighten Her Arm

Four months ago this woman dislocated her left elbow. Although the elbow was properly set, she developed neuritis and could not straighten her arm. She was ordered to take Kruschen — with the happy result described in this letter:—

"I had an accident four months ago, and my elbow was seriously dislocated. Fortunately, it was set right there and then, but afterwards I could not straighten the arm to its full extent. It was X-rayed, and the surgeon told me I was inclined to be rheumatic. I was ordered to take Kruschen Salts — one teaspoonful in a glass of hot water on waking. Now I am getting along famously. The pain in my elbow is better, and, daily, I am able to extend the arm more easily."

—(Mrs.) P.
Rheumatic conditions are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

Start the school year right

A good start usually means a good finish. Each lesson hangs on the lesson that has gone before and any neglect piles up the work as the year progresses.

Get your children's eyes in shape for the tasks ahead. They may need glasses. If they do, they should start wearing them before the first day of school. If they already wear glasses they should have an examination to make sure that their eyes have not changed during the summer.

SECOND CAR ARRIVES IN DROUGHT AREA

A second carload of supplies sent from this district recently arrived at its destination and the following letter has been received by Rev. J. E. Beckel, who was in charge of the shipping from Stirling station:

Spy Hill, Sask.,
Nov. 9, 1937

Dear Sir,—

A carload of fruit and vegetables arrived in Spy Hill the night of October 26th, and was unloaded on the 27th and 28th. The local committee who superintend the distribution of the good things to all parts of the municipality of Spy Hill have asked me to write you as Secretary of the Central Hastings Ministerial Association to express thanks on behalf of the 200 families who benefited.

Will you please therefore do your best to convey our appreciation to those folks in Stirling, Roslin, Tweed and possibly elsewhere, who so kindly donated the fruit and vegetables, etc., which reached us in good condition. It must have taken a lot of time and effort to load the car to the brim and the many gifts were a Godsend to many families here.

Last Spring there seemed a promise of a bumper crop and good gardens. Everything grew so well at first, but then later there was the shortage of rain, accompanied by hot dry winds and the gardens and crops suffered. For several years now crops and gardens have been far from normal, but this year seemed to be worse than ever, because of the potato crop failure. However, the need is now not so great, thanks to the big hearts down East.

In the Bavelaw School district of Spy Hill municipality, the school children wrote individual letters and these have been sent to some of the addresses which were found in the car. Other parents have also promised to write those whose names were found in the goods they received. We hope these individual letters will reach some of our Eastern friends, but in case they do not, perhaps you would be kind enough to send word to the local newspaper how grateful we are for the kindness shown. Perhaps some day we will be able to reciprocate in some way.

Thanking you all once again,

Yours sincerely,
FLORENCE H. T. BARKER,
(Mrs. George Barker)

The following letter was received by Mrs. Allan Bailey, Stirling:
Riverhurst, Sask.,
October 25th, 1937

Dear Mrs. Bailey,—

That you are a very fine person I know, by the beautiful note enclosed with your generous gifts and which it is my grateful privilege to answer. Calling us your "friends" and thinking of our comfort during the winter makes your gifts double valuable. When I think of the immense carload of food you people donated, and all the work involved (perhaps you have done it year after year) my heart does indeed go out to you in deepest gratitude and we thank you most sincerely.

The mere function of living has never been quite so difficult in all the drought years as this one, and at times one's mental state becomes rather desperate.

But what a lift you have given us all! We haven't of course had potatoes or other vegetables for months, except the meagre quarter's worth we managed to buy once in a while, and being of my own sex, you will realize at least partially, how harassing it is getting meals from practically nothing.

You might like to know just how much our portion of the carload was. For two, we received 100 lbs. of potatoes, 14 lbs. of apples; 5 lbs. of carrots, some beets and turnips, a cabbage, 2 citrons, a pumpkin, bottle of extract and a jar of fruit. The fruit is raspberries which I am saving for a special treat when my mother comes to see us. They look luscious and rich, and as if they weren't canned with an eye to the minimum of sugar.

I hope they are yours dear lady, and when we eat them I shall send out on the ether, a thought of blessing to you.

I keep thinking and thinking of the admonition Jesus gave His followers: "I was an hungred and ye gave me meat."

You are indeed living His great gospel of love and I know you will not be found wanting.

Thank you again, good and noble people!

Yours very gratefully,
Mrs. Wilbert W. Hudson

NINTH INSTALMENT

Monty Wallace has just arrived in California, having broken the East-West cross country airplane record. Natalie Wade, mistaken by him for a newspaper reporter, writes the exclusive account of Monty's arrival, and succeeds in securing a trial job with a paper in exchange for the story. Natalie becomes attached to Monty.

Although she discovers Monty's love for her is not sincere, Natalie admits that she loves him. She is assigned by her paper to report Monty's activities for publication. Jimmy Hale, the newspaper's photographer, becomes Natalie's co-worker.

Natalie interviews Jabe Marion, a wealthy airplane builder, who decides to build a record-breaking round the world plane for Monty. Marion's daughter, Sunny, exquisitely beautiful, is attracted to Monty. She invites Natalie to dine with her, when they meet the aviator unexpectedly.

Natalie discovers that Sunny is jealous of her friendship with Monty, and that she is trying to prevent them from being alone. After driving to a mountain resort with Sunny and Jimmy, Monty again declares his love for Natalie.

Sunny attempts to drive Natalie from Monty's attention by climbing a high wall. She almost loses her balance, and is pulled back by Monty. Jimmy later asks Natalie to consider his love for her if she refuses Monty. Natalie induces Monty to set out with her in an airplane search for two missing aviators. At dusk Monty lands the plane in the open country, where he and Natalie must spend the night. Resuming the search in the morning, they finally locate the fliers. Natalie wires the story to her paper. That night at dinner, Marion announces a non-stop flight, "round the world, with Monty piloting the new plane 'Sunny Marion'." Monty's plan is to have ten refuelling stations along the route, where pilots are to go aloft to refuel his plane. Monty flies with Natalie to New York, where he will begin the flight eastward. They are followed by Jimmy and Sunny.

Two more days and Mont would be roaring over the ocean on the most impossible flight in history. Something gripped at her heart. Something told her she would never see him again. She stood up and moved to the window of the room. Children were playing at the curb. The world was going on without a thought of impending tragedy.

She tidied her hair and renewed the light make-up she wore. But panic was upon her. She had to see Monty again, quickly. His room, she knew, was at the end of the short hall. She slipped along the worn carpet and tapped gently at the door.

There was no response. Someone was coming up the twisted stairs. She turned the knob of the door and slipped inside.

Mont was asleep. He had thrown off coat and shoes and tie.

For a long time she stood there listening to his heavy breathing. Then very quickly she moved forward and sank to the floor beside him. She laid her cheek against the sleeve of his shirt.

She would stay there a little while guarding him with her love. And now her fear fell from her. It was as though his nearness and her adoration for him had driven it out. Her throbbing heart grew calm. She knew content again.

And so she fell asleep beside him and did not wake till early afternoon. "Is this nice?" he asked, seeing that she was awake.

She sprang up quickly, but he caught her hand and drew her down beside him.

"I'm in a hell of a fix," he said, her hand to his lips.

She could not speak.

"I'm supposed," he chuckled, "to be a devil with the women. I've been that way deliberately so that I would never want to marry anybody. Now I've got myself in a spot where you come in here and I wake up and you are just as safe as though I didn't love you. What's the answer?"

"Maybe you really do love me," she said faintly. "You've only wanted me before."

"Well, it's a new one on me. . . . and I love you all right. But there isn't going to be any marrying in our business."

He spoke a little angrily, she thought, as though he fought against something.

He whipped a glance at the watch on his arm. "We'd better be getting back to the field. They'll be looking for us."

She went back to her own room then, but her heart was singing as though in triumph. It seemed queer about that when he had just told her they were not to be married. She wondered about it a little but there was no explanation — unless it was that her heart knew better than her mind that he loved her as she had to be loved.

He came for her in a few minutes and they rushed away to the field.

Jimmy was there and Sunny Marion presently, a frowning Sunny who attached herself at once to Monty. Jimmy tried to get the girl away once or twice but she would not go with him and the four went together for dinner at a larger hotel in the neighbourhood.

Natalie wrote another story in her quiet room that night when Jimmy had taken her to the small hotel and then she sat waiting for Monty's footsteps outside her door.

They did not come and she got into becoming negligee, hoping to rest until he should appear. Once, twice, she waked having dreamed that he came up the stairs, but each time she saw that the door of his room stood blackly open and knew that he had not come back.

It was so until morning and, when Jimmy telephoned, she went out to breakfast with him, a little sick at heart. At the field, she waited and watched for Monty, but it was mid-morning before he appeared.

He was haggard and pale. Natalie hurried to him with quick alarm, fearing that he might not be ready the next day for the long grind of the flight.

But he was intent on his work and it was not till Sunny Marion arrived, her make-up heavy and her smile oddly triumphant that Natalie knew the truth of that night.

She took him away from the Marion girl then. Directly and deliberately she made him go with her, and she drove with him straight to the small hotel.

She got him into the place and commanded him to sleep.

"Don't you realize," she cried, "that your life may depend upon it? You're in no shape to fly. You're all broken up about something. You've got to forget everything but the flight." "All right," he told her. "But got out of here. I'll be all right."

She knew then that something more than a night out was behind those tense white lips of his. It was something, she thought, connected with her — something that made him brusque with her. But she couldn't make out what it might be.

She saw to it that he was not disturbed that afternoon and night. When he appeared the morning of the flight, there was still a line of tension about his mouth but his eyes were clear and he could grin.

On the way to the field after breakfast, he was silent. She thought he might be worrying about the flight and tried now to bolster his confidence. But he turned to her impatiently.

"Nat," he said grimly, "I may not be coming back from this thing, and if I don't I want you to know something. I swore I wouldn't ever love a girl enough to want to marry her. Marriage is not fool risks like me that have to be taking crazy risks. I made marriage virtually impossible for me and then you came along. If I could have got you, it would have been all right. But I couldn't and now I'm mad about you. I went out last night trying to forget you and now it's worse than ever. I'm going to make this flight or die trying and I'm going to be wanting you every inch of the way. But I don't want you to be where I can see you on the take-off."

"All right, Monty. I'll keep out of sight." Triumph sang in her heart as she said the words. "Everything is all right if only I know you love me. Even if we never marry, we will have the most important thing. Now stop worrying, especially about that."

She drove with him to the plane and then she slipped away into the small early morning crowd. It was little more than dawn but these people had come out to see the start.

As she passed toward the flight office, she saw a man in shirt sleeves pushing his way toward the plane.

Inside, she asked the first question everybody was asking.

"What is the weather report?" "It's bad," the answer came. "They are going to hold everything till tomorrow."

Natalie strolled back toward the plane. She wondered what it was best to do. Had she better see him again, be with him that day? Or would it be better to keep away from him?

When she came near, she saw that Sunny Marion was talking with him. She seemed to be her old, brilliant self. The pout was gone from her face. That little smile of triumph seemed to ride there.

Monty turned to the shirt-sleeved man at his side. He took the paper he held, glanced at it, then tore it half across.

Leaning down quickly he kissed the blond girl and sprang into the cabin of the plane. He revived up the motor, found that it had been warmed, that it answered to the throttle.

Then, suddenly, the ship was roaring across the field. Grease monkeys scattered. Someone rushed out of the field office crying, "Stop him! Stop him!" but the plane was rising now. . . . It was up and speeding for the sea.

Natalie drew back alone. A sobbing moan broke from her lips. The weather was wrong. He had not waited.

And this was the man she loved, the man who loved her, rushing into unknown terror and death on a mad flight around the world.

She looked around for someone and knew at once that it was Jimmy she sought in that small crowd. He was nowhere. Through tear-wet lashes she could not see him, at any rate.

And when she did see, she stood stock still.

For Jimmy Hale was leading beautiful blond Sunny from the field. And Jabe Marion came behind with the field officers.

Natalie fled then. She raced for a taxicab and hurried herself into it. "Quick!" she cried, and gave the address of her hotel.

For the newspaper woman in her had come to her rescue. The flash would go out from the field office. She must have her story ready for the wire in half an hour. And as she rode through the morning streets she was planning the lead of that story.

"Defying the elements," she found her lips saying, "tossing aside contemptuously the adverse weather reports that would have held up the flight from Mineola field today for Mineola field — around the world — non-stop."

She hardly knew when she reached the hotel. She stopped for nothing when she faced her typewriter in that quiet room.

She thrust paper and carbons into the machine and banged at the keys.

Her story must go. Her heart might break. Her lover might crash to a thousand deaths on sea or land from the vast height at which he flew, but these bits of paper must be lashed by the keys that her fingers drove. They must be whipped out one by one till the telegraph boy rushed away with them, till the pencils slashed, till the linotypes crashed, till the presses grumbled and roared, till the whole world knew that Monty Wallace was on his way.

The story ended at last. "To be continued," she wrote for a last paragraph. "To be continued is the story Monty Wallace writes in clouds and sea today. To be continued is the epic of the Twentieth Century's fourth decade as one tousled-headed youth rides high to new fame or to death."

She did not break when the story ended. She did not stop until the last page had been thrust into the hands of the waiting boy and hurried on its way.

There were two pilots on the plane going home.

Natalie could have screamed when she saw them, for they reminded her again that Monty Wallace was alone as he fought his way across the Atlantic.

It was all she could do to bring herself to enter the roomy trimotor that afternoon when she knew that it would still be hours before any possible report could come from the lone flier. She wanted to cling to the window of some telegraph office, or better still, to sit at the elbow of one of the radio operators in the world-flight chain.

DESERONTO MAN IS CHARGED WITH FRAUD

James Dawson, Deseronto, was arrested by Provincial Police Friday night on charges of attempting to defraud. The accused appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., and the case was enlarged at the request of Charles A. Payne, K.C., counsel for the accused man, bail being arranged.

According to Provincial Police authorities, Mr. Dawson was arrested upon an information issued by the Fire Marshal's Department, following investigations pursuant to a fire at Mr. Dawson's premises some weeks ago. Three charges of attempting to obtain money from insurance companies by false pretenses, contrary to section 405 of the Criminal Code were preferred against Mr. Dawson, while two similar charges have been issued against Minnie Ethel Dawson, wife of the man now in custody. The information against Mrs. Dawson has not been exercised, summonses are to be issued in these matters, it was stated. Constable W. H. McBrien apprehended Dawson at his home and placed him under arrest at the request of the Fire Marshal's Department. It is said by police that the accused man misrepresented proofs of losses and claims for compensation resulting from the destruction of a building by fire.

MOTORIST BURNED TO DEATH

When their automobile crashed into a tree and burst into flames, a man, believed to be Burdett Williams, 44, of Deseronto, was burned to death, and his companion, Harley Cole, 23, was seriously burned on Monday. The crash occurred at the intersection of two roads two miles south of Picton. Just what happened to cause the car to leave the road suddenly and run into the tree was not clear, but the police believed the driver had failed to notice the right-angle turn in time to avert the smash-up. The car burst into flames, the police learned, as soon as it struck the tree. Cole managed to crawl from the burning wreckage and reached safety, but was unable to assist the other man. The dead man's body was burned beyond recognition.

FAITH IN THE WEST

(Davidson Leader)

Every Westerner with contacts in Eastern Canada and everyone who reads what is written in the East remembers the advice of the day-before-yesterday — that the Western farmer needed only to diversify his crops and raise cattle and hogs to solve all his problems. Usually this advice came from men who had deserted Ontario farms and gone to the cities to make their fortunes. Their opinions were based on memories of the old swimming hole which always boasted eight feet of water on the shady side of the high pasture.

Less has been heard of this talk in recent years, since the news began to filter back East that conditions are different. But even more distasteful to the Westerner, who has faith in this country, is the pessimistic theory now prevailing that the best thing for all concerned is for the folks to take their implements to another region.

With all this in the back of our minds, it is comforting to read in a financial paper a statement from the general manager of the Massey-Harris Company (Mr. J. S. Duncan) which should set a few Easterners right about Western farming. Mr. Duncan says that the troubles in the Western drought areas, serious as these are in 1937, are due 98 per cent to lack of moisture and only 2 per cent to faulty farming methods. (Incidentally, if only 2 per cent of Ontario farmers were faulty in some or all of their methods there would be fewer abandoned farms in that fortunate province.) Mr. Duncan then goes on to point out that there is a definite cycle in rainfall and that, with only four inches in 1937, the trend upward should be evident soon. It is well to have these things brought to the attention of the Easterner by someone who should be heeded by his readers. The Massey-Harris Company has been doing business in the West for a long time and its statement through its general manager will help in getting the East to understand the West.

Support of the Duncan statement comes from the Searle Grain Company which in its September 15th bulletin, gives figures to show that the Western lands are not, as some Easterners aver, suffering from "loss of fibre and depletion of soil fertility," which has been brought about as our critics assert, "by the extravagant and poor farming practices of the wheat growers of the West." This bulletin shows that areas which have been producing wheat for sixty years are still producing good wheat and a good yield per acre. The average longtime yield has been 16.4 bushels. But in the four years from 1901 to 1904, with only choice lands under cultivation, the yield was 21 bushels. In the years 1925 to 1929, the yield was 20.1 bushels. This does not show any decline in fertility. Further:

"Crop district No. 1 in south western Manitoba, centering around Deloraine and Waskada, reveals an interesting picture. Here is an area definitely in the bad western drought zone, and several times in the past 50 years there has been talk of abandoning the whole district.

In 1926 it only averaged 4.3 bushels to the acre. In 1934 only 1.1 bushels, in 1931 only 1.7 bushels, in 1921 only 5.7 bushels and in 1917 only 9.2 bushels. This district has suffered severely from soil blowing at different times yet this present year at least normal growths have been averaged with odd fields running as high as 35 bushels to the acre."

From the same source one learns that the Manitoba farm from which was shipped the first wheat ever exported from the West, the same fields are growing wheat with only a few summer fallows in a period of 61 years. One of the owners says that with proper rainfall and good growing conditions such fields produce now as much as they ever did.

Understanding of a few facts such as these by the East — and by the occasional defeatist one finds here in the West — should clear the air of a great deal of futile advice.

THE ACCIDENT

How did it happen? Well, they met head on Rounding a curve. Going too fast, I guess;
A quarter of an hour, more or less,
Was hardly worth a broken neck.
He's gone.

The road too narrow? No, the road was wide;
The other driver gave him half the road
And something extra — for the wheel marks showed
He swung his car well over to the side.

Drunk? Oh, I wouldn't say that he was drunk;
He had been drinking — yes, it's very sad.
A fine young man — the only son they had.
The other? Crippled. Both cars are junk.

De mortuis nil nisi bonum, eh,
Why hurt his people's feelings, when he's dead?

And who is to blame? God knows!
The Government?
The Trade? The boy? His parents?
You and I?
We're in the business! People are content
To let it flourish. Yes, we voted "dry".

B. C. TO TEST DRIVING ABILITY OF EVERY MOTORIST

The British Columbia Government will seek authority from the Legislature to test the driving ability of every motorist in British Columbia, Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer announced recently. The Attorney-General said the Government will present a bill at the current Legislature session empowering it to examine the Coast Province's 150,000 motorists. Persons taking the tests, designed to show whether they are capable of driving and understand traffic rules, will be charged $1 each.

Mr. Wismer estimated it would take about two years to test all drivers in special "robot" machines set up at Government examination stations. After that, only persons applying for licenses would have to submit to the tests. At first, testing stations would be established only at Victoria and Vancouver, where the majority of automobiles are registered.

WARKWORTH MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Skidding across the C.P.R. tracks at the Cemetery Crossing, an automobile driven by R. B. Nelson, R.R. 4, Warkworth, narrowly escaped being struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway express train at noon on Monday. After skidding sideways across the tracks the vehicle careened towards the north side of the highway, where it collided with a west bound automobile, driven by Fred Parr, of Windsor. No persons sustained injuries, but both cars were considerably damaged.

Mr. Nelson, of Warkworth, was following a motor car that was transporting his daughter to the Belleville General Hospital for an emergency operation for appendicitis. As Mr. Nelson's car approached the C.P.R. crossing from the west, the railway wig-wag at that point commenced to operate. Mr. Nelson suddenly applied the brakes of his car about 50 feet from the crossing. The vehicle turned sideways and skidded in that position over the tracks, where it struck a west-bound car driven by Mr. Parr. A brief few seconds later the noon C.P.R. express train roared over the crossing.

THAT'S WHAT I CALL A FRIEND

One whose grip is a little tighter,
One whose smile is a little brighter,
One whose deeds are a little whiter,
That's what I call a friend.

One who'll lend as quick as he'll borrow,
One who's the same today as tomorrow,
One who will share your joy — and sorrow,
That's what I call a friend.

One whose thoughts are a little cleaner,
One whose mind is a little keener,
One who avoids those things that are meaner,
That's what I call a friend.

One, when you're gone who'll miss you sadly,
One who'll welcome you back again gladly,
One who, though angered, will not speak madly,
That's what I call a friend.

One who is always willing to aid you,
One whose advice has always paid you,
One who defended when others flayed you,
That's what I call a friend.

One who has been fine when life seemed rotten,
One whose ideals you have not forgotten,
One who has given you more than he's gotten,
That's what I call a friend!

DOCTOR OFFERS RULES FOR AVOIDING COLDS

With the annual high point in the number of common colds occurring regularly in the late fall season, Dr. Robert A. Fraser, Chief Medical Director of the New York Life Insurance Company, offers ten rules that will help men, women and children avoid this wide-spread malady. They are:

1. Get plenty of sleep, fresh air, and sunshine.
2. Eat all the nourishing food you need, but avoid overeating.
3. Dress sensibly and with regard to the climate.
4. If you get wet, change to dry clothing as soon as possible.
5. Breathe through your nose, not your mouth.
6. "Cleanliness is next to godliness." Bathe daily.
7. Avoid constipation.
8. Get outdoor exercise every day. Long walks are excellent.
9. Avoid sudden changes of temperature.
10. Keep away from people who have colds.

"It goes without saying," Dr. Fraser adds, that those with colds must use handkerchiefs when sneezing, coughing or expectorating to avoid affecting others.

"Overeating lowers resistance, making the individual more susceptible to colds. If you have difficulty in breathing properly see your doctor promptly; your tonsils, adenoids, sinuses or teeth may need attention. Do not go from a hot room out into the cold without protection and never cool off by sitting in a draft or directly in front of an electric fan. Finally, if there is an epidemic of colds in your vicinity, avoid large, crowded meetings; in the home, quarantine cold sufferers, particularly if there are children or old people around. The infection of children and aged people is the cause of excess mortality in these groups."

Colds Caused by Infection

"For instance, most observers today regard the cold as caused by infection from a filterable virus, even though the actual organism has not, as yet, been discovered. Others studying the question, however, believe that the chilling of the body lowers the surface temperature of the mucous membranes, the pharynx, resulting in lowered resistance of those membranes permitting infection by bacteria normally present. A third group states that a disturbance of the regulation of the heat of the body is a causative factor.

Nevertheless, it has not been proven that changes in humidity, air temperature or barometric pressure have any great effect on the average individual, and it is a well known fact that groups of individuals may remain free from colds if isolated from their fellow human beings, but are attacked when contact is resumed."

Beware of Panaceas

"Regardless of the claims that are made for various 'cure alls,' there is at present no real specific for the common cold," Dr. Fraser declared. "During the past few years serum treatment and vaccines have been used to great extent, and while these treatments do aid some people and confer short time immunity on some individuals, as a general rule they are not effective.

"Irradiation with ultraviolet rays has some value, but it is also doubtful that it benefits in the majority of cases. The use of cod liver oil in various forms is advised by some physicians, and in children this remedy does seem to have some effect."

What To Do

The best thing to do, Dr. Fraser feels, is to go to bed just as soon as you feel a cold coming on and isolate yourself from the rest of the family as much as possible. Rest is more important than medicine. Take a hot bath and then get into bed with plenty of covers. Drink freely of water and fruit juices. A mild laxative is advisable and the diet should be light and simple during the acute stage. Don't prescribe medicine for yourself. See your doctor and let him do it. He knows far more about it than you or your friends.

"In the case of children, by all means consult the family physician promptly. Many diseases of childhood are ushered in with symptoms resembling those of the common cold. Sniffling or running of the nose, complaint of sore throat, slight fever, these are symptoms which many parents attempt to treat as a cold, when it is a fact that the doctor might note them as the early indications of a serious, infectious disease.

"But above all," Dr. Fraser said, "let me emphasize again the necessity of rest in bed and seclusion from the rest of the family until the cold has disappeared."

SUCCESS OF BROADCASTS RESPONSIBILITY OF 250 PEOPLE

With the return to the air of the second series of "Canada 1937" broadcasts Imperial Tobacco brings to a coast to coast Canadian audience 45 minutes of varied radio entertainment designed to please listeners of every taste. Every Friday evening at 10 p.m. E.S.T., "Canada 1937" looks Montreal with the current news commentators with world renowned commentators; with the Roving Radio Reporter on a trip across Canada; with New York's Great White Way for latest film news. The music portion of the broadcast originates in the Canadian Metropolis, also the mixing-point with complete control over the entire program.

Broadcast in the Dominion over a nation-wide chain of 37 stations with weekly contacts with points as far removed as world news dictate it will readily be seen that this ambitious program involves a maze of network facilities, telephone and telegraph and allied radio facilities.

A dozen or more organizations co-ordinate their efforts in this weekly program.

The complete success of "Canada 1937" is the immediate and individual responsibility of some 250 people. In radio nearly every individual is a key-man. Lapses on the part of technicians, station operators, or errors at the originating or control points will ruin the program no matter how careful the organization.

At Montreal, where a major part of the program originates, 73 persons are engaged, comprising musicians, singers, music arrangers, technicians, telegraph and telephone control men, producer-writer and announcer.

Elsewhere in Canada approximately 163 people are required mainly in technical capacities. The New York pick-up and control point requires the services of about 8 men, while London and other European links raise the personnel total to some 250.

FOOTBALLERS WITH APPETITES

In a week the St. Mary's College football team of Oakland, Cal., consumes more than 420 quarts of milk, 500 pounds of beef, 300 pounds of lamb chops, 150 legs of lamb, 75 pounds of ham, 50 pounds of miscellaneous other meats and 60 dozen eggs.

FISHERMEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE AT DESERONTO

Jack and Allard Thompson, fish buyers of Bath, near Kingston, escaped with minor burns on Friday when an explosion followed a backfire in the engine of their fish boat. Jack was blown out of the boat, unconscious, but came to when he landed in the icy water. Allard just had time to toss a life preserver to his brother before the flames forced him to jump from the boat. Stafford Claud, who happened to be in the vicinity, saw their plight, found a rowboat at Detlor's boathouse and went to their rescue. The bazing boat drifted slowly toward some bouthouses at the shore edge, but grounded on a submerged pier, where it burned to the water line. Jack Thompson stated he lost $350 which had been in his coat pocket at the time of the explosion.

ROSES BLOOM IN PORT HOPE

Braving the first snowflurries of winter, roses were blooming in Port Hope last week. A. W. Fisher, well-known resident of the town, on Friday displayed three roses in full bloom and six buds just ready to burst open which he had that day picked in his own garden.

CAMPBELLFORD MAN GETS BEAR

Elmer Hawkins returned from a deer hunting expedition with a party of Campbellford hunters on Friday morning with a large black bear. The animal weighed two hundred and fifty pounds and was placed on display at a local service station where it attracted much attention during the afternoon. Mr. Hawkins, who left for the north last Monday, brought down the bear about 20 miles north of Mar-mora.

HEPBURN AND ROWE MAKE HARMONY COMPLETE

The members of the Women's Association of Riverview United Church, Dundalk, are convinced that Hon. Earl Rowe and Hon. M. F. Hepburn are both pretty good fellows. Wishing to complete paying for a piano and being short of funds, the association wrote to the two political Leaders, explaining its plight. Both responded with contributions to the cause, the piano is paid for, and the ladies are saying: "Thank you, Earl and Mitch."

MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Two motor accidents in which motor cars were involved, occurred in the village during the past week. On Friday at noon, a Ford car, owned and driven by Mr. Thos. Montgomery Sr., mounted the sidewalk on the eastern side of North Street, at the Bank of Montreal, and struck a hydrant, breaking it off close to the sidewalk. The car suffered considerable damage to its front end but the driver was uninjured. On Monday, a Buick sedan, belonging to Alex McCrory, local garageman, slid from its parking space on the south side of the garage and crossing Mill Street, crashed into the fence surrounding the Bank of Montreal property and knocked a section of it down. The car was undamaged.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE MEETING

A meeting of the business men of Stirling, and all others interested will be held in the Agricultural Rooms on Monday night next, November 22nd, for the purpose of discussing and making plans for the holding of the annual Community Christmas Tree. It is particularly urgent that all business men be present as some very important matters relative to added attractions for this annual event are to be discussed. Remember the date, Monday next, Nov. 22nd, at 8 p.m.

STIRLING BOWLER NAMED PRESIDENT

Honour was brought to District No. 15 of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association in general and to the Stirling Lawn Bowling Club in particular by the election of Dr. E. A. Carleton, of town, to the office of president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association at its convention held recently in Toronto. This is the second time since the formation of the Association that this honour has come to the eastern section of the province. Other officers elected were: vice-president, H. J. Sims, K.C., of Kitchener; Secretary, A. A. Lanford, London; Immediate Past President, Prof. N. C. Hart, of Western University, London.

Dr. Carleton's climb to the top in bowling circles has been rapid. Although he has always taken an active part in the activities of the local club, of which he is a past president, it was not until four years ago that he was appointed president of the District Association. Last year he was elected to the office of vice-president of the provincial association, and this year to the highest office in the organization. The new president has all the necessary qualifications for the office and those who know him are already predicting that under his leadership the coming year will be one of the best in the history of the provincial Association.

pointing out what the Church is doing about it. The missionaries of the Church are teaching people to do things differently. In many lands the Church has agricultural institutes like the Currie Institute in Africa. In Hozan there is an experimental farm under the direction of the Church. In West China one of the missionaries spends his time in improving fruits and vegetables, and teaching the people how to farm. The speaker pointed out in closing that what is good for men is for the glory of God. Missions are more than just preaching.

At the close of the meeting the thanks of the men was extended to Dr. Arnp and the meeting closed with the Benediction.

CHANGES LOCATION

After seven years' occupancy of the Stapley Block, R. A. Patterson, gent's furnisher, has found it necessary to seek larger quarters to look after his expanding trade, and on Thursday last moved his stock to the store formerly occupied by G. H. Luery & Son. The building, which is owned by the Orange Lodge, has been rewired and redecorated and makes an ideal location for such a store. The official opening took place on Saturday and "Bob" is pleased to meet all his old and new customers at his new place of business.

WON SCHOLARSHIP

Word has been received by Mr. J. L. Good, principal of the Stirling High School, that Ralph Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell, of Foxboro, is the winner of the first Carter Scholarship ($100.00) for Hastings County. This scholarship is awarded to the pupil with the highest aggregate marks on ten papers in the Upper School work, including English, Geometry and Algebra. Ralph, who was one of the most brilliant scholars to graduate from the Stirling High School, secured eleven first class honours and two second class honours on this year's exams. The News-Argus joins with his many friends in extending him congratulations.

YEARS OF SERVICE ARE REWARDED

Sixty-eight years of faithful service to Oddfellowship were rewarded on Wednesday evening of last week when the officers and members of Stirling Lodge No. 239, I.O.O.F. presented Bro. Jas. W. Saries and Bro. F. T. Ward each with a pen and pencil set in appreciation for their services to the lodge. Bro. Saries, who is a past Noble Grand, has served as treasurer of the Stirling lodge for the past twenty-five years and Bro. Ward, who is also a past grand, has filled the office of Financial Secretary for forty-three years without a break. The presentation address was given by Bro. H. E. Hullin, D.D.G.M. of Madoc District, and the presentations were made by Bros. W. H. Patterson and J. B. Thompson. Although taken completely by surprise, Bros. Saries and Ward made appropriate replies, both making reference to the pleasure that was theirs in fulfilling their respective offices.

SIX ARE ARRESTED IN COBOURG THEFTS

Police arrested six Cobourg residents during the week-end in a drive to stop coal thefts at the Canadian National Railways yards. Chief of Police W. J. Carey, Night Constable Gaven Reid and Constable R. Morden of the C.N.R. police laid in wait Saturday night and caught the six in the act of stealing coal.

REMEMBRANCE DAY SERVICE FOR RAWDON TOWNSHIP

The Rawdon Township Municipal Hall, at Harold, was filled on the morning of Remembrance Day when interested citizens gathered together to recall the brave deeds of the soldiers of the Great War, and pray for peace.

The service was in charge of Rev. Canon Swayne, of Bonarlaw, with Mrs. Swayne as accompanist. Hymns such as "Faith of our Fathers", "Nearer my God to Thee", were sung.

Rev. Jas. E. Beckel, of the Rawdon Circuit, read the Scriptures and offered prayer. Rev. A. W. Harding, of Springbrook, gave the address. Mr. Harding paid a fitting tribute to those who gave their all in the days of the Great War, but emphasized especially the need in these days of Peace. He pointed out that our soldiers fought a war to end war, and today it is our duty to work out the principles of peace.

At the close of the service in the Hall the assembled group gathered about the Cenotaph. Two wreaths were placed on the monument — the government wreath by Mrs. C. M. Sine, of Sine, and the township wreath by Mr. Cecil Austin, of Springbrook. Canon Swayne closed the service at the Cenotaph with prayer.

ST. PAUL'S W.M.S.

The November meeting was held in the Church parlors with twenty-seven in attendance. The President, Mrs. Munro, occupied the chair and Mrs. Macklin acted as Secretary. Meeting opened with hymn and prayer. Minutes were read and approved and all the different secretaries gave their reports. Several matters of business were dealt with. Mrs. Scott gave a paper on the highlights of the Missionary Monthly, which was enjoyed. Mrs. G. H. Luery then took charge of the program. Her topic was based on "Peace". Mrs. Walter Martin took the Several selections were read, led by Mrs. Luery. A quartette was given by Mrs. Good, Mrs. Wescott, Mrs. Paterson and Mrs. G. Mason, and was well received. Mrs. Luery then thanked all who helped to make the programme a success. After the singing of a hymn the meeting was closed with prayer.

The year on Mars is twice as long as ours, and when the planet is passing through the summer season the polar cap becomes smaller, similar to the earth. In closing, the speaker asked "Is it possible that this earth is the only planet that is inhabited by human beings in the millions of milky ways? If this earth is so important in our solar system, then there must be millions of others which are inhabited," said the speaker.

Dr. C. F. Walker expressed the thanks and appreciation of the club to Rev. Walker for this fine address.

The remainder of the meeting was of a business nature with Messrs H. R. Tompkins, Geo. Bailey, H. C. Martin, John Bateman and Rev. A. S. Plans Made for Community Christmas Tree on December 18th

At a meeting of the business men and other interested citizens of Stirling, held in the Agricultural Rooms on Tuesday night, it was decided to again have a Community Christmas Tree this year. President Thos. W. Solmes occupied the chair and C. N. Baker filled the role of Secretary-Treasurer.

A financial statement, as presented by the Secretary-Treasurer, showed the Club to be in a strong financial position with the receipts of last year amounting to $155.23. After payment of all expenditures, there is a substantial balance on hand.

Those present at the meeting were Messrs Thos. W. Solmes, C. N. Baker, J. L. Good, C. Macklin, C. A. Wells, N. E. Eggleston, C. A. Waymark, R. A. Patterson, H. P. Ellis, A. E. Strickland, F. Sprentall, H. R. Tompkins, Fred Houchin and P. W. Long.

President Solmes outlined the origin of the Community Christmas Tree in Stirling, which had grown from an idea which originated from the local Hydro-Electric Commission. Some criticism had been voiced that many children receiving a treat from the Community Tree did not need it, and it was really a waste of money to give it to them. He was afraid that any discrimination in the handing out of the bags would not portray the true Christmas spirit and stated he thought all the children appreciated the gift.

Mr. R. A. Patterson expressed himself as very much in favour of the Annual Christmas Tree and gave it as his opinion that it was a fine piece of advertising for the business men and the village as a whole.

H. P. Ellis drew the attention of the meeting to the necessity of crowding the theatre beyond its seating capacity in order to take care of the large crowd and suggested that a show be held in the morning for the Village children to overcome this. It was pointed out by several present that many of the older boys and girls were crowding the theatre when the original idea of the free show was for the children of the public schools and the younger students of the high school. As no definite decision in the matter was reached at the meeting it was left in the hands of the parade committee to do what they could about it.

The following officers were elected:
President — H. R. Tompkins.
Secretary-Treasurer — C. N. Baker.
Executive Com. — Chairman of each Committee.

School Committee — Jos. Wilson, C. A. Wells, J. L. Good (with power to add to their number).

Parade Committee — Jos. Wilson, W. K. Etherington, C. A. Wells and J. L. Good (with power to add to their number).

Advertising Committee — Thos. W. Solmes and Jas. Lagrow.
Purchasing Committee — C. Macklin, W. Wright, N. E. Eggleston, Harry Francis.

Committee to wait upon Council — P. W. Long and H. P. Ellis.

Another matter discussed was whether or not membership tokens would be procured this year. Some of the members were in favour of having tokens, while others thought that the money used for them might better be expended in something for the children. The matter was referred to the advertising committee.

Secretary C. N. Baker was authorized to make the necessary arrangements with Santa Claus so that he could arrange his itinerary to be in Stirling on Saturday, Dec. 18th, the date chosen for the event. The Secretary was also authorized to write the various firms in regard to getting donations.

A parade will be held of the children of Stirling and surrounding district after which Santa Claus will give each of the children a treat, and it is expected that the Village Council will authorize a free show at the local theatre.

In order to finance the Christmas Tree a canvas will be made of the business men of the village, but donations will be gladly received from any resident of the village or surrounding district.

DISTRICT CHEESEMAKERS ATTEND SOCIAL MEETING

PRIZES AWARDED TO WINNERS IN DIFFERENT CLASSES — GATHERING ENJOYS ADDRESSES BY VARIOUS SPEAKERS — PROGRAM CLOSES WITH DANCE

The spirit of good fellowship was abroad last (Wednesday) night and the old adage "There is always a good time when good folks get together" was never more truly exemplified than at the annual "At Home" of the Stirling District Cheesemakers, which was held in the Stirling Community Hall. While this was the tenth time for the Cheesemakers to play hosts to their friends it is doubtful if ever a more enjoyable evening has been held by them. From the time that president M. S. Rose called the gathering to order until the "Home Sweet Home" waltz, there was not a dull moment on the programme and the thanks of the five hundred or more in attendance are due the capable committee which had charge of the programme.

In opening the programme President Rose extended a warm welcome to everyone and stated it was the wish of the Association that the producers and the cheesemakers, together with their wives and friends should fully enjoy themselves. To awaken the gathering to the true spirit of the evening, "Bob" Patterson was called upon to lead in singing "The More we are together," with Chas. Allen presiding at the piano.

In the absence of Reeve Thos. Cranston, Mr. G. H. Luery, Village Clerk, was called upon to extend the official welcome to the cheesemakers. He outlined how important the industry was to the country and was glad to see a better price being paid for this commodity.

Mr. E. J. Pyear was the first speaker of the evening and in his opening remarks stated he was proud to be classed among the agriculturists of the country. The cheese industry was one of the most important in the Dominion. It was the backbone of the country and the main source of revenue for thousands of farmers. He was glad that such good prices had been received throughout the year. Turning to the marketing of this commodity, he said the United Kingdom provided the best market for this product, but we must produce the type of cheese they wanted. Canada had a strong competitor for the British market in New Zealand, which was making slight inroads each year, while this country was slipping. He had listened to an address by Dairy Commissioner Singleton this week, in which he had pointed out the method being used by the sister Dominion to promote sales. The United Kingdom has been divided into six different districts, with a salesman in charge of each and two ladies were canvassing the stores in each district offering to decorate their windows with New Zealand Cheese and otherwise promote its sale. That they were making progress could be plainly seen in the reduction of the spread between New Zealand and Canadian cheese from 2½¢ to 1½¢ stated Mr. Pyear.

We, in Canada, have failed in this respect. Great pressure was being brought to bear on the Government to institute an advertising policy for the Canadian Cheese and the new Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, Hon. P. M. Dewar, was planning a new marketing system for which the support of the cheese patrons was asked.

Pointing out that there had been an increase of some 14,000 in the number of second grade cheese manufactured in Ontario in the past year, the speaker stated it was a serious question and the blame could not all be laid on the cheesemakers. We, as farmers, had a great deal to do with this state of affairs. It had been estimated that 20 per cent of the second grade cheese was due to the use of faulty cans or milk pails by the producers. It was essentially necessary that the patrons gave their fullest cooperation to the cheesemakers.

In closing, Mr. Pyear issued a warning note to his listeners, declaring that a policy of paying for milk on the grade basis, the same as cream, was being seriously considered by officials of the Department of Agriculture as a means of improving the quality of the cheese.

Mr. Arthur Duncan entertained the large gathering with a short humorous monologue and the recitation of a number of limericks, and received a hearty applause for his efforts.

The Hick Sisters followed with an exhibition of tap dancing, accompanied by Chas. Allen on the piano.

The election of a representative of East Hastings to the Older Boys' Parliament will take place in the Sunday School room of St. Paul's United Church on Saturday, November 27th, with the poll being open from 2 to 7 p.m. Ralph Richardson, of St. Paul's Sunday School, and Roy Juby, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School are the candidates with Mr. Fred Elgie, the district returning officer.

HEAR LECTURE ABOUT AFRICA

Rev. W. R. Tristram Delivers Very Interesting Address to Y. P. U.

St. Paul's Young People's Union met on Monday evening in the Church parlours with a large attendance. Miss Mary Hullin, President, presided over the meeting, which opened with a sacred song service. Miss Grace Pitman, A.T.C.M., presided at the piano during the program. Responsive Scripture Lesson, was the first Psalm, followed with prayer by Rev. W. J. Scott. The guest speaker of the evening was Rev. W. R. Tristram of West Huntingdon United Church, who delivered an interesting illustrated lecture on Africa. Rev. W. R. Tristram, who worked among the natives of this interesting land as a mahogany trader, presented excellent pictures, showing the beauty of Africa, and also described very minutely the obstacles encountered in the laying of railroad and road-building; pictures showing the use of elephants for heavy work in the clearing of the jungle land; also the natives climbing the high coconut trees, and its process throughout until it is shipped at the stations. Although intensely interested at the time in the trading activities carried on in Africa, the speaker could speak nothing but praise for the excellent progress made in educational methods by all the missionaries of the Christian churches. He also exhibited a mahogany walking stick, the handle of which was made from the tusk of an elephant. This was a cherished gift made to him by native friends on one of his inland journeys. This lecture was of particular interest to the large number of students present. The lantern was well operated by Douglas Scott, which added interest. At the conclusion of the address a very hearty vote of thanks and appreciation was expressed in a fitting manner on behalf of all present by Rev. W. J. Scott and Mr. Donald Williams. The meeting was brought to a close with the usual Benediction.

HUNTERS RETURN

Messrs Thos. Selmes, J. S. Mor-ton and W. C. West, who were deer hunting at Catchacoma Lake, north of Peterboro, returned to town last Saturday, bringing their full quota of deer. Messrs Walter Wright, John Villoteau, Chas. Vance and Rev. A. S. McConnell have also returned, bringing with them four deer.

NEWLYWEDS HONORED

On Friday evening, Nov. 19th, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lansing opened their spacious home in their usual gracious manner to neighbours and people of the Oak Hills and River Valley, giving them an opportunity to extend their best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lawrence, who were recently married. A good and sociable evening was enjoyed by all present with a more or less impromptu program put on by a number of those present. This program was divided into four groups with a chairman over each group, namely, humorous, serious, patriotic and matrimonial. Mr. Alex Park, Mr. Ross Holland and Mrs. C. Ghard very capably carried out their duties as leaders, calling for readings, speeches, solos, stories and community singing suitable for each group. It was well impressed upon the bride and groom that these were four sides of life affecting them. Much merriment was created when Mr. John Kane and Mrs. C. Ghard very capably demonstrated a mock proposal while "Juanita" was being sung. After this Mrs. Lansing read an address to the bride and groom and they were presented with a chair and buffet mirror by Messrs Harry Heusman and Harold Dettler, on behalf of the community. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence voiced their thanks in a very fitting manner. More speeches, community singing, and refreshments completed the evening's activities and all departed feeling they had well spent the evening.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE

Hundreds of school children and those who are yet too young to attend seats of learning, in Stirling and the surrounding community, will welcome the announcement that Santa Claus will be in Stirling again this Christmas to officiate at the Community Christmas Tree.

At a largely attended meeting of the business men and other interested persons on Monday night, it was definitely decided to have this annual event on Saturday, December eighth, one week before Christmas. Plans were made and a number of committees were appointed to look after the necessary preparations. The Community Christmas Tree is a project of the Community Christmas Tree Club, comprising the merchants and other interested citizens, and in reality is a gesture of good will to the citizens of the surrounding district. It, therefore, is entitled to the support of each and every citizen of the village.

While a canvass has been made of the business men each year by the committee in charge of this part of the work, private individuals were also given a chance to help the cause along. Many of them did so and this year the committee will follow the same practice. In order to do this without entailing a house to house canvass, a Community Christmas Tree Fund will be established. Anyone who is desirous of making a contribution to the fund may leave the same with Mr. Thos. W. Solmes or Mr. Jas. Lagrow. While the business men of the Village are in the habit of contributing one dollar each to this fund, no stipulation is made as to the amount of the contribution, and anyone wishing to help out may do so with assurance that it will be the contributors will be published, but no mention made of the amount given. It is the wish of those in charge of the collection that you make your donation as soon as possible in order that all arrangements may be completed for the purchase and preparation of the treat for the children.

In making your donation it is well to remember that the Christmas Tree Club does not confine its activities simply to treating the children. For several years past, working in conjunction with the Boy Scouts and the Community Welfare Club, it has distributed baskets of Christmas cheer to needy families in the vicinity. Last year over twenty large baskets were filled and delivered on Christmas eve. This is a fine work and we commend it to our readers.

Last year's appeal was given a generous response by the citizens of Stirling and the surrounding district and the officials of the Club are hopeful that their appeal for funds this year will be met with an even greater degree of support.

The various committees of the Club have already started their work and if the citizens will do their part, Saturday, December 18th, should be one of the happiest days in the lives of the children of the district.

RATING FOR TAXATION PECULIAR

If we could see ourselves as others see us probably we would be different, says the Cobourg Sentinel-Star. It all depends, of course, on how much it is going to cost, or how much we are going to gain or lose. A municipal engineer from Britain has taken a look at our taxation methods and declares them "very peculiar." Is he right or wrong? Our methods of valuation of property for taxation purposes, he thinks, puts a premium on bareness. For instance: two houses are erected side by side on the same size lot and on the same street, each with identically the same accommodation and facilities. One will bring as much rent as the other. But one man wants something a little out of the ordinary in the way of appearance, and adds a little beauty to his structure. When the assessor comes around he recognizes that the second house costs more and in duty bound, he puts a higher value on the property for taxation purposes.

The citizen who gave extra work to his fellowmen and added something of beauty to the city has to pay extra taxes every year, but he does not reap any more rent, although he may have a steady renter.

"From time to time, as the occasion arises, we have citizens come to us

They don't do it that way in England. The method they use is by getting particulars of the renting values and deducting an allowance for repairs. This figure is the net rateable value on which all rates are collected. It sounds reasonable and does not put a premium on bareness, but rather is an incentive for owners to pay more attention to outward appearances.

Some day public opinion is going to be stirred to the point where definite action will have to be taken in the matter or more equitable taxation, and rateable values based on returns of investment rather than on actual cost.

CREDIT FOR EVERYBODY

Considerable concern is expressed over the increasing use of credit by such a large proportion of the people of Canada and the United States. Men are mortgaging their futures, the critics say, by buying so many things on the instalment plan. That, in the minds of old-school economists, is all wrong. What if everybody who has pledged part of his income should lose his job? How could he keep up his payments?

One answer is that if everybody lost their jobs at the same time it wouldn't make any difference, for the whole country would be broke. But the serious answer to the critics of the system of buying goods on deferred payments is that it has been in operation for so many years, and has so much experience behind it, that there are figures as exact as actuarial tables from which it can be predicted just how many out of a given number of instalment buyers will fail to meet their payments.

In the automobile trade the experience is that the loss on instalment purchase accounts is less than half of one per cent — about 50 cents on every $100 note. About the same proportion holds good in other lines commonly sold on instalments.

From time immemorial, houses have been bought and sold on instalment payments. Probably two-thirds of all furniture sold in the past 100 years has been moved on the same basis. Why not, then, buy other necessary or useful goods in the same way? Most people find it easier to pay off an obligation than to "save up" for a cash transaction.

CURRENT COMMENT

While certain sections have had heavy snow storms, Stirling, so far, has escaped anything outside of a drop in temperature to indicate that winter will soon be here. Some of the weather sages are claiming that we are in for a severe winter, while others prophesy we are to have a green Christmas and an open winter. However, Stirling residents would be well advised to have the coal bin filled up, the woodshed full, and the banking put around the back kitchen just in case the weather man may give us an old-time winter.

The hunting season is over and from reports emanating from different sections of the province it was a most successful one, with the deer being plentiful. These days of rapid transportation and improved roads in the outlying sections of the province are responsible for a big increase in the number of hunters and the prophecy is being freely made that unless the Department of Game and Fisheries takes steps to conserve the deer, it will not be long before they will be very scarce. If this be true, the department will probably decide on a closed season in certain sections to give them a chance to increase.

With the drop in temperature causing the village pond and the upper portion of the creek to freeze over, the boys and girls of the village are getting anxious for skating. Reports are heard of some of the more venturesome boys trying out the ice, although the weather has not been severe enough to make it safe. This is a dangerous practice and while some of the older boys might go through the ice and escape with only a slight ducking, some little fellow following in their footsteps might find a watery grave. Parents and teachers should frequently remind the children of the dangers of thin ice and perhaps save the community a drowning mishap.

The announcement of the abolition of departmental examinations in the lower forms of the High School has been announced and there is little doubt but that both the pupils and the teachers will welcome the change. Under the new system the pupils will be judged on their year's work, which after all is the only fair means. This will benefit most those students who maintain a high standing in their class throughout the year, and then, for some unknown reason, fall down when examination time comes around. On the other hand it will make it impossible for students to neglect their studies throughout the year and then "plug" for the annual tests. In both cases the new system is an improvement over the old and the Department of Education is to be commended for the change.

and say "Don't Put this or That in the Paper." We have never made the practice of publishing anything which might cast a slur or cause injury to anyone, but when small things occur, which might be termed as news, there is no reason in the world why they should not be published. In many such cases, the same person who asks us to withhold certain information, are the first ones to say "there is nothing in the paper."

LET US HOPE IT IS RIGHT

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)
The attendance at church suppers throughout this district would indicate if anything would that there is more money in the country at the present time and the folks mean to enjoy themselves after going through the retrenching years of 1929-36. Let us hope as we enter the better era that we are not building up again for another depression. The recent one should be the last for some time.

ALBERTA YOUTH NEW WHEAT KING

In the stiffest wheat competition at the Royal Winter Fair for many years 17-year-old James Sebastian, of Wembley, Alberta, won the Canadian grand championship for wheat. His win was with unregistered grain, and it was the first time unregistered wheat has topped registered in several years.

The boy's win headed a long list of prizes for Alberta in grain, and judges declared, they believed if he showed at Chicago this year he would stand an excellent chance of winning the North American wheat championship.

Herman Trelle, also of Wembley, who now holds the North American championship, and who won the grand championship at the Royal the last two years, also showed in the competition here this year and was beaten by Sebastian, but he showed Marquis wheat in place of the Reward with which he has taken the championships the last two years. He selected Marquis to show, judges said, in honour of Sir Charles Saunders, creator of this variety, who died this year Sebastian showed Reward.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION FROM THE WEST

Riverhurst, Sask.,
November 2, 1937
Ernest Saries,
Harold, Ont.

Dear Sir,—
We desire to thank the people of your church and community for the great kindness and consideration shown in sending the fruit and vegetables to our district. I am writing personally and also on behalf of the Riverhurst Women's Association, of which I am the Secretary-Treasurer.

The local committee worked hard in conjunction with our minister, Rev. C. H. Morrison, in distributing the gifts. Over seven hundred people were supplied. Perhaps you would like to know how it was allotted. I think heads were counted and one family of five received the following: 2 bags of potatoes, 12 lbs. apples, 7 lbs. carrots, 8 turnips, 2 citron, quart of maple syrup and bottle of Swiss chard off our garden lots you can readily understand that it was like a feast for a famine. We did grow a few potatoes — one to a hill — but we got nothing off the seed we planted in the field. We rented the land, bought the seed, paid for them to be ploughed in and the cattle ate the tops off them. One can hardly blame them as anything green couldn't be missed and there was no grass, only thistle.

We have last week received seven pounds per head of cabbage out of the Government car, and we understand that apples, cheese and fish are yet to come.

Please convey to the people of your district our deepest gratitude for their kindness.

Yours very sincerely,
MRS. FRED T. HILL

PRINCE EDWARD FARMERS PAID A MILLION

A million dollars is being paid to farmers in Prince Edward County by the various factories in the county for produce grown during the past season. This is an annual event, but this year the payment to the farmers is much larger and represents the largest pack of tomatoes ever processed in Prince Edward County. According to E. A. Pearce, district manager for Canadian Canners, more than one million cases of tomatoes were canned in the county, and besides this more than 250,000 bushels of tomatoes were shipped to other parts of the province where the crop was not so heavy as here. This gave farmers an opportunity to dispose of practically all their crop.

A large quantity of tomato juice was put up here and many thousands of cases of corn, peas, pumpkins, peaches, and berries were also canned.

Farmers found it difficult to secure sufficient help to harvest the crop as well as available help was taken by the canning factories, who paid out many thousands of dollars weekly in wages to both men and women.

Payments began on Thursday and will continue over a period of two weeks.

PENSIONED OFF A FIT MAN

Rigours of Police Life Did not Harm Him

At 50 years of age he was presumed to be beyond the arduous demands of police duties. But was he? Read what he says now — five years after he was pensioned: —

"I am a man of 55 years. It is now five years since I was pensioned off from the — Police. I went through thick and thin, day and night in all weathers, while I was on the force, and am today as fit as any man still serving on the Force. People often ask me 'How do you keep so young?' and my answer is 'Kruschen Salts.' I have used Kruschen now for the last 13 years, and I will certainly use these Salts for the rest of my days." — W. J.

The numerous salts in Kruschen provide just that gentle daily aid your internal organs require to enable them to perform their work properly. These vital salts keep your liver and kidneys in top-notch efficiency, so that they help to free your system of poisonous waste matter. The result is a feeling of youthful health and vigour — "that Kruschen feeling!"

Mr. John L. Bailey has received two letters thanking him for honey which folks in Saskatchewan received. The first letter was from Mrs. J. T. McEachen, Roverhurst, who writes as follows: "To give you an idea of how the car was distributed, I will tell you what we, a family of five, received: 250 lbs. potatoes; 35 lbs. apples, 40 lbs. turnips, 1 pumpkin 1 citron, 6 lbs. beets, 4 lbs. carrots and a five-pound ball of honey. It certainly is a great help and it is wonderful to think of the way the other provinces have responded to our need. This area did not even grow enough wheat for chicken feed. The farmers all tried to put up what Russian Thistle they could, but of course it is very poor feed and dare not be fed alone. It is going to be very difficult for everyone as all the stock except a very few milk cows have been shipped out. In order to get relief the farmers were forced by the government to sell off all stock but a specified number they were allowed to keep. I am afraid this will make a shortage of milk and butter before spring. There were three cases of scurvy in the province this fall due to lack of vegetables, etc. My children each had one apple this fall which a friend brought to them for a treat, so they are thoroughly enjoying the ones we received from the car. My husband is a mechanic but has been unemployed a lot of the time the last four or five years. We have three children, Helen 16, Glen 14 and Lona 11. The children are interested in Ontario as my husband's sister and family have recently moved to Peterboro.

In the second letter received from Mrs. R. S. Gallagher, Gilroy, Sask., she says: "My husband and his father farm a section of land between them. The four of us live together and we have had very poor crops for the past seven years. There has been very little moisture here and the ground at the present time is as dry as powder. My husband and his parents were originally from Mansfield, Ontario, and have been in the West for the past seven years. For my part

WETTER THAN WATER

One of the most difficult problems facing the manufacturer of textiles is to make the fibres thoroughly wet. Soapy water has always been used until now, although it frequently has failed to break down the oily film on some fibres — notably that of cotton. But a new synthetic alcohol — tergitol — will probably replace soap, as it has the power, when added to water, of working right through all oily films and wetting the fibres much more effectively.

Up in the clouds

by Beulah Earle

TENTH INSTALMENT

Monty Wallace has just arrived in California, having broken the East-West cross country airplane record. Natalie Wade, mistaken by him for a newspaper reporter, writes the exclusive account of Monty's arrival, and succeeds in securing a trial job with a paper in exchange for the story. Natalie becomes attached to Monty.

Although she discovers Monty's love for her is not sincere, Natalie admits that she loves him. She is assigned by her paper to report Monty's activities for publication. Jimmy Hale, the newspaper's photographer, becomes Natalie's co-worker.

Natalie interviews Jabe Marion, a wealthy airplane builder, who decides to build a record-breaking round the world plane for Monty. Marion's daughter, Sunny, exquisitely beautiful, is attracted to Monty. She invites Natalie to dine with her, when they meet the aviator unexpectedly.

Natalie discovers that Sunny is jealous of her friendship with Monty, and that she is trying to prevent them from being alone. After driving to a mountain resort with Sunny and Jimmy, Monty again declares his love for Natalie.

Sunny attempts to drive Natalie from Monty's attention by climbing a high wall. She almost loses her balance, and is pulled back by Monty. Jimmy later asks Natalie to consider his love for her if she refuses Monty. Natalie induces Monty to set out with her in an airplane search for two missing aviators. At dusk Monty lands the plane in the open country, where he and Natalie must spend the night. Resuming the search in the morning, they finally locate the fliers. Natalie wires the story to her paper. That night at dinner, Marion announces a non-stop flight, round the world, with Monty piloting the new plane "Sunny Marion." Monty's plan is to have ten refuelling stations along the route, where pilots are to go aloft to refuel his plane. Monty flies with Natalie to New York, where he will begin the flight eastward. They are followed by Jimmy and Sunny.

They would be talking, these men, of casual things over their short-wave sets while the man she loved went to his doom, for all they knew, over the Atlantic.

When a storm struck their ship over the Alleghenies as they headed for the southern route of flight, her last hope of Monty's safety fled. That storm would overtake him in mid-Atlantic. It would hurl him down into the angry ocean.

Her imagination pictured him going to destruction and she wished that she might go with him.

But Jabe Marion laughed at her fears when she said something of the sort.

"Mont knows what he's doing," he declared. "It's a daring thing, but he is using that storm to cut his flying time on the first leg. It means a tail wind for him most of the way."

Their own ship mounted higher and higher to escape the fury of the wind. Both pilots stuck to the forward cabin. Now and then she was sure they were anxious about the fate of their own plane.

But at last she knew that the danger was past. Moonlight shone on a rolling sea of clouds beneath at last and when they made their early morning stop even these clouds had disappeared.

It was still early to have word from Mont. But it seemed to her significant that he had nowhere circled a vessel or shown the great white MAC on his under wing surface to any person anywhere.

The night had been madness and now the day flight over the desert stretched before her like a terrifying sentence of imprisonment.

Jimmy had paid her little heed. He had hung over Sunny Marion throughout the night and even now was clinging to her arm as they moved about the hangar grounds after breakfast. Jabe Marion had been kindly but there had been little understanding in him. He wondered apparently that a mere newspaper writer could be so much concerned at the outcome of the flight.

Father and daughter now moved together toward the trimotor and Jimmy Hale stood for an instant at Natalie's side.

"Keep a stiff upper lip, kid," he said huskily. "Plenty worse fliers than him have made it easy across the Atlantic."

She thanked him for the courage that word gave her and climbed with him into the cabin of their ship.

Another stretch of dreary hours, another and another and at last they were dropping down on the home port. Natalie wanted to leap and race to the flight office for word of Mont. But she managed to sit still till the plane grounded. Then she walked with the others to the company hangar.

A couple of young men from the office came out to meet them.

"Any word?" she cried out when she could not keep silent any longer. She faltered when they shook their heads.

But when they came closer and said quietly that Mont was overdue at the first control station, she gave a little cry and slumped to the ground. Blackness engulfed her and she knew no more till they brought her to in the small office.

Her eyes, opening, lighted first on Jimmy Hale's white face.

Sunny stood beside him and her face showed genuine alarm. But that glance of triumph was still there, it seemed, as Natalie struggled to sit up.

"Gosh, kid, you gave us a scare," cried Jimmy. "Don't take it so hard. You know Mont Wallace. He isn't licked yet."

"I know," Natalie said softly, "but it frightens me to think of him alone out there."

Mack Hanlon burst into the place then. He seemed as much concerned as Jimmy. "What's the matter, Nat? They told me you passed out."

"Just scared, I guess," she told him. "And tired. Let me get at a typewriter and I'll give you a yarn."

"Forget it," Mack bade her. "Take a day off till you get into shape."

But Natalie insisted on writing what she could, and as she wrote her courage came back. For she found herself writing the story of the millions who waited for word of the flier. And the story was one of prayer and confidence.

"If the lift of human hearts can keep his plane aloft," she wrote, "then Mont Wallace is safe."

It seemed as she wrote that this must be true, that Mont could not fail and she finished with new strength, to wait for the delayed news from him.

Jimmy had gone on to the office.

Bunny and Jabe Marion had gone home to rest, leaving behind instructions that the first word should be relayed to them. But Natalie could not rest. She could not leave the side of the little radio operator who huddled over his short-wave set.

It was dark outside the small office when at last the operator stiffened suddenly to intense listening.

"Great scott, what a flight!" the operator shrieked, rattling his key like mad. "Moscow? The second control. Boy, oh boy!"

Natalie was on her feet, shrieking. She grabbed the office telephone then and yelled the news to Mack Hanlon who had taken the late watch, while the little operator poured details into her ears.

"He passed up the first control. Broke all records across the Atlantic. Had gas enough left for Moscow. Went straight through riding the tail-wind."

Mack was yelling in turn at the other end of the line. Someone was using another line to notify Jabe Marion and Sunny.

"Refuelling O.K. at Moscow," Natalie shrieked on. "He's off for No. 5 taking the northern route. That's Siberia. They can't stop him now."

She banged out another story for the early extras and then raced for home and bed.

Jimmy got her on the line just before she turned in and his enthusiasm nearly matched her own.

After that she slept. The flight for her was as good as over. She wanted to be ready to write the story of his success.

It was late when she waked, but she did not lose heart when she found that Mont was again unreported. That day she wrote another story and even when nothing had been heard of him that night, she went home in serene confidence that success was his.

Morning, however, sent her into panic again. She had left word that she was to be called when the report came but there had been no call. The telephone told her that nothing more had been heard. She knew that he carried gasoline enough to cover two legs of the flight at once if he chose. But now he should have been ready for the flight to Nome and he could not make that without refueling.

Another day passed and another and then it was certain that he was down somewhere. No possible hope could be held out. He was down somewhere in Siberia as Jimmy Mattern had been.

Mattern had come through after tremendous hardships. Natalie knew that if Mont still lived he faced the same difficulties. Somewhere in the awful wilderness of Russia's old prison colony he was dead or fighting for his life.

The girl went under then. She could not hold up longer. She could not battle through her daily story of the search for him.

Mack Hanlon saw it and told her she must take a rest.

"You've been working on your nerves," he told her. "You've got to quit for a while. Your job will be here when you want it. The old man told me this morning. But you've got to get yourself in shape. It's no good trying to go on."

But idleness was almost as bad, it seemed, as work. For days she stayed in bed but it seemed that she could not rest. When exhaustion finally claimed her, she would go into a dim consciousness that passed for sleep, but she would wake as tired as before, as little able to think or to fight.

Jimmy Hale called up now and then and told her he would let her know the instant anything was heard but he would not come to see her.

"I can't do it, Nat," he said, "while Mont is missing. If he's all right, I'll be up, and if they find him dead, I'll stick with you till the end of time. But I can't come up now, kid. Don't ask me."

At last she understood what was the matter with Jimmy. He was putting up his own fight. He had denied his love for her and had fought his battle, but he knew he would have it all to do over again if he saw her. And besides, there was some strange honor in him that would not let him come to her while there was a chance that Mont would be back.

Perhaps it was not quite that either. It was too much like waiting for Mont's death and all that he might hope it meant to him.

With Mont alive, Jimmy could come back knowing there was no hope for him. With Mont dead, he might come back with hope. But not to know was too much for Jimmy Hale.

Her heart went out to the boy. And then one day when she was sitting on the ocean shore trying to get back her strength to meet the dread news she was sure would one day come, she saw that Jimmy walked with Sunny Marion along the rocks above.

The girl seemed to be a shadow of herself. Natalie sat up. For the first time it occurred to her that Sunny might be as hard hit as she. Surely the tragedy of uncertainty ought to have brought them together before

INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE TO OPEN NEXT AUGUST

In discussing the ceremonies and celebration which will mark the opening of Thousand Islands Bridge next August, The Thousand Islands Sun, of Alexandria Bay, says it will probably be the biggest affair ever to have been held in the 1000 Islands region.

The President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has given tentative promise to be present; and the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Tweedsmuir, has also given his word that he will be present. The Governor of New York State, Herbert Lehman, and the Premier of Ontario, Hon. Mitchell Hepburn, will also be present to dedicate this testimonial to the peace and harmony existing between the United States and Canada for the last hundred years.

It will be exactly a hundred years the last of August next year, when Bill Johnston, self-styled admiral of the 1000 Islands led his band of patriots in the sinking of the Sir Robert Peel very near the site of the erection of the American span of this "good will" bridge, and thereby came near causing another war to break out between the United States and Canada. So the dedication ceremonies next August will mark a hundred years of peace and goodwill along the whole length of the Canadian border.

Because of the historical significance of the occasion the governments of the United States and Canada are co-operating fully in making the bridge opening an outstanding affair.

CHORLEY PARK IS TO BE CLOSED

Dr. Herbert A. Bruce's successor as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario will not reside in the million dollar Chorley Park residence that has been the home of Lieutenant-Governors since 1915. Premier Hepburn reiterated on Friday.

While he declined to discuss reports Dr. Bruce had sent his resignation to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and that his successor might be Duncan Marshall, former Alberta and Ontario Minister of Agriculture, the Premier was definite on one point.

"We will not continue to maintain that palatial mansion out of public funds," he said. The Chorley Park House, which cost approximately $1,000,000 to build and furnish, has been maintained at an annual cost of about $25,000. Premier Hepburn said the matter of Dr. Bruce's resignation and of appointment of his successor rested with the Dominion Government.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Prices generally remained at a steady level although a slight change was noted in potato quotations on the Belleville market on Saturday. Vegetables and dairy produce maintained a firm tone, with eggs showing no change over quotations of a week ago. Winter apples also remained steady with several varieties being offered and selling briskly in the earlier hours.

Farm and dairy produce in the inside market proved to be one of the most plentiful displays in many weeks. Eggs were exceptionally abundant with "A" specks selling generally at forty-five cents per dozen although some were offered at a few cents less.

"Mediums" were quoted at forty cents while pullets eggs sold briskly at thirty-five and thirty-seven cents per dozen with some quoted at thirty-two cents. Farmers butter noted no change with the majority of vendors disposing of their stock at sixty-five cents for two-pound rolls.

Honey was offered at ten cents per pound in varying quantities with "combs" selling at fifteen cents. Lady shoppers thronged around homecoming booths and availed themselves of the many fine articles offered for sale.

Chickens did not lack numerically with some fine birds changing hands at prices ranging from sixty cents to as high as $1.50. Ducks were in evidence in fairly large quantities and were offered at from one dollar to $1.50.

On the vegetable market the only noticeable change, marked in prices was a slight decrease in potato quotations. Ninety pound bags dropped five cents to eighty-five cents per bag. No bushel lots were offered.

Staple winter vegetables were plentiful with carrots at from 50 to 75 cents; parsnips from 75 to one dollar; beets at 75 cents; turnips at sixty cents and onions at $1.50 rounding out a fine bushel-lot display. Cabbage and cauliflowers were quoted at from five cents upwards. Spinach in hamper lots was offered at sixty-five cents. Celery hearts nice and crisp, were two for twenty-five cents and brussels sprouts at the same price were also offered.

Second place in the Canadian contest went to a pen of White Leghorns, owned by Hall, which laid 2,182 eggs and had a total of 2,486.3 points. A pen of White Leghorns, owned by the experimental farm, Ottawa, was third with 2,644 eggs and 2,449.5 points.

A pen of Barred Rocks owned by R. L. Roth and Sons, of New Hamburg, Ont., took second place in the Ontario contest, laying 2,223 eggs and having 2,473.2 points. Third place went to a pen of White Leghorns owned by W. J. Chouinard, of Trenton, Ont., which laid 2,293 eggs and had 2,439.4 points.

Both contests, held at the Ottawa experimental farm, were the best ever held. It was the first time Rhode Island Reds took the Canadian championship. In the Canadian contest, 141 birds qualified for registration while in Ontario, 170 qualified.

Guelph Winter Fair

Officials of the Guelph Winter Fair are smiling broadly these days as a check on entries for this oldest of all winter fairs in Ontario shows the heaviest entry list in the past ten years. This is true in all classes. In fact, Livestock Superintendent, Wm. Watson, and his assistant, Dick Graham, are wondering just where they will place all the cattle and horse entries which are away above those of last year.

There are over 200 heavy horse entries and 145 light horses, with 217 cattle listed — the heaviest in several years. Swine entries total 161 in all classes, while the sheep show totals 364 animals. Seed exhibits are on a part with other years with 330 entries.

Secretary L. E. O'Neill states there will be the best Clyde show in fifteen years. There are thirteen entries in aged Clyde stallions, eight three-year-olds, eleven two-year-olds and thirteen yearlings. The mare classes are equally well filled with 21 yearling fillies also entered. It is of interest to note that J. E. Falconer, well-known Clyde breeder, formerly of Western Canada and now resident of Lambton County, is exhibiting at the Guelph show for the first time.

The evening horse show promises again to be up to a very high standard with many prominent stables represented, including horses from Toronto, London, St. Catharines, Simcoe and Galt. It is a feature that is becoming increasingly prominent and draws horse lovers from all over the Province.

Don't forget that there are cheap rates on all railways. So make up your mind to attend, Mr. Farmer, and bring your family too.

Ridgetown Farm School

Hon. P. M. Dewar, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, has announced that special facilities will be provided for the training of farmers' sons for farm work at the Ridgetown Experimental Farm. The course for young men of 16 years and over, who intend to take up farming as a vocation, will provide them with the practical training they will need under conditions that exist on the modern farm. It is recognized that farming problems are becoming more difficult; soil deficiencies are cropping up in sections hitherto believed to be ideal for crops and will gradually become a problem in all parts of the province; plant diseases and insects are exacting large tolls annually; animal diseases are inseparably linked up with crop and soil problems; marketing is much more complex and difficult than formerly and the introduction of power upon the farms through the gas engine and electricity has opened up a field absolutely unknown to the farmer of former days.

The ability to be a good workman is no longer the great deciding factor in agriculture but the proper combination of hand and head has been forced upon the practical farmer and he must adapt himself to the conditions and changes if he wishes to be reasonably successful.

The agricultural school, at Ridgetown, will offer a course planned to meet the requirements of the practical farmer; science will be emphasized only as it is required; mechanics field crops and animal problems will be given a proper share of the time. During 16 weeks for two winter seasons, a student will have sufficient time and opportunity to gather considerable knowledge of farm practice and theory combined.

Sheep-Raising Opportunity

Prospective sheep raisers in eastern Ontario will have an excellent opportunity this fall to get into the sheep business with a small cash outlay. Thousands of farms in Eastern Canada at this season of the year have ample roughage in the form of pasture, stubble fields and m hayfields to feed a sizable flock of breeding ewes. With the advent of the electrified strand wire fence, the fencing problem for sheep is likely to be simplified as to cost and type of fence. While the quality of hay on many farms this year may not be as good as in other years, for fattening livestock, it will, however, be good enough for breeding ewes.

Most sheep ranchers in Western Canada have from 100 to 500 dry ewes ranging in age from yearlings to five-year-olds. These ewes are available for sale because they missed at breeding time, due to adverse weather conditions, or because of the loss of lambs at lambing. All flocks of dry ewes should be sorted for bad udders and broken mouths.

The advantage of shipping dry ewes to Eastern Canada is that they can be bred early, in fact almost at any time now; whereas range ewes that have raised lambs could not be bred for two months after the lambs were weaned, and a long train journey would cause additional interference with the possibilities of successful breeding until late in November or early December.

In addition, it is claimed that this new "thread", called brocafil, is much stronger than catgut, and can be made into lengths of as much as a mile, as compared with two or three yards maximum for catgut. Brocafil has already proved a great success in Holland, where it has been used for even the most dangerous gastric operations.

WANTED — A HOBBY

A university professor warns idling citizens to "get a hobby or die." This professor contends that the easy chair is becoming, more and more, a factor in one's daily life and insists that "no great civilization has developed leisure and lived."

The trend, what with 30-hour weeks, 40-hour weeks, five-day weeks, and so on, seems to be toward more leisure, without a doubt. But leisure itself does not necessarily bring the downfall of civilization — it is rather the use to which leisure is put. When vice and corruption of various kinds occupy spare time, civilizations necessarily fall, as history has shown. But if leisure is turned toward cultural pursuits, civilizations expand and grow through the increase of leisure.

Perhaps the professor had something like this in mind when he urged that everyone acquire a hobby. Certainly it should not be hard to discover profitable ways and means of spending the new leisure time, ways that will expand Canadian civilization rather than permit it to slip into mental and physical degeneration.

COUNTY ROAD WORK TO END THIS MONTH

Work on the roads of the county will terminate at the end of the month, Road Superintendent Simeon Fox stated recently. While resolutions have been passed authorizing the purchase of additional snow fence for use in the northern parts of the county, and there will be sufficient for the needs, Mr. Fox said. "We have had an exceptionally good year, and as yet have not utilized the total amount of the estimate passed in the spring." — Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer.

WORLD'S AUTO SPEED RECORD SHATTERED

In two screaming bursts of speed, Captain George E. T. Eyston of England, broke the world land speed mark for the measured mile on Friday, riling his racing monster "Thunderbolt" over the distance at an average speed of 311.42 miles an hour.

The 40-year-old, grey haired Englishman, travelling faster than man ever before travelled in an automobile, easily cracked the record of 301.1292 miles September, 1935, by his compatriot, an hour set on the Salt Lake Flats in Sir Malcolm Campbell.

"Thunderbolt," its two mighty, twelve-cylinder motors clicking a perfect mechanical symphony, also broke the world record for the kilometre by doing the distance at an average of 312.20 miles per hour. Sir Malcolm's record, set at Daytona Beach, Fla., in 1935, was 276.16.

Eyston made the first run over the thirteen-mile straightaway cautiously, conserving his speed burst for the return trip.

On the north run, "Thunderbolt" did the mile in 11.79 seconds, or 305.34 miles an hour. On the return trip the giant silver, streamlined juggernaut shot through the distance in 11.33 seconds at a 317.74 mile-an-hour clip.

Through the north kilometre run, Eyston sped at 305.53 m.p.h., doing the distance in 7.32 seconds. With the throttle wide open on the return jaunt "Thunderbolt" flashed across the kilometre in 7.01 seconds, 319.11 m.p.h.

WALKING SPEED SET FOR NEW B. C. BRIDGE

British Columbia has a new $4,000,000 front door. To the accompaniment of bands, bagpipes and the screeching whistles of tugboats in the Fraser River, Premier Pattullo recently cut with an acetylene torch a chain across the 7,500 foot Pattullo bridge, opening the new approach to the province's urban centres.

Total length, inclusive of the overland approaches, is 7,800 feet, providing a 46-foot road with lanes for four rows of traffic and sidewalk. The shipping channel is 438 feet wide with a clearance of 150 feet.

Pedestrians using the bridge must be walking at least two miles an hour — faster if possible.

The British Columbia Government announced penalties for infractions of special traffic regulations on the bridge, which include a maximum fine of $300 for persons walking across the bridge at less than two miles an hour. Motor vehicles travelling at less than 10 miles an hour are also subject to the $300 fine. In both cases the object is to avoid traffic delays.

A $50 fine will be imposed on persons with tollable vehicles who refuse to pay at the toll gate.

APPOINTED LIEUT. GOVERNOR OF ONTARIO

Albert Matthews, member of a Toronto brokerage firm bearing his name and brother of Hon. R. C. Matthews, Minister of National Revenue in the Bennett Government, on Tuesday was named Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. He succeeds Hon. Dr. H. A. Bruce, who announced his resignation recently. The appointment will be effective No. 30. There was no comment from Prime Minister King on the announcement of Premier Hepburn of Ontario that his Government would no longer maintain Chorney Park, official residence of Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. Matthews is Chairman of the Board of Governors of McMaster University, President of the Toronto League of Nations Society, and was chairman of the Canadian Delegation to the 1927 League of Nations economic conference in Geneva.

Born in Lindsay, May 17, 1873, Mr. Matthews is married to Margaret Maude Whiteside, of Lindsay. They have three children, Paul, Albert and Mrs. C. P. Fell. W. E. Matthews, Ottawa, former Chairman of the Federal District Commission is a brother.

Mr. Matthews, who is 64, will be the first holder of the office since 1914 who has not moved into palatial Government House in Rosedale's Chorney Park. The $1,000,000 home of Lieutenant-Governors will be closed. Mr. Matthews made a brief statement a few minutes after his appointment was announced Tuesday night at Ottawa. He refused to discuss the question of where he would live during his term of office. "I deeply appreciate the honour conferred upon me by the Government," he said. "So far as it lies within my power, I shall endeavor fully to discharge the responsibilities and obligations of this high office."

TRENTON FLIER KILLED

Flight Lieut. L. F. J. Taylor, 28, a Royal Canadian Air Force officer, on exchange duty at the air base at Trenton, from New Zealand, was drowned shortly before 10 o'clock Saturday morning when the land training ship he was flying somersaulted into the Bay of Quinte, a short distance off the seaplane hangar of the air base. Taylor was flying solo at the time.

Wing Commander A. E. Godfrey, in a brief statement issued shortly after the accident, declared Taylor misjudged his height above the "glassy" surface of the water. A wing tip hit the water, throwing the plane over on its back, the statement said. The plane sank immediately. Taylor's body was recovered some time later by means of a dredge.

Flight Lieut. Taylor's death marks the fifth fatal accident to R.C.A.F. officers since last August 4, when 23-year-old flying officer J. L. Henning drowned when a Vidette flying ship dove into the water. Three others, Pilot Officer R. Doucet, Flight Sergeant E. F. O'Connor and Flight Lieut. J. A. MacInnis, were killed when two planes collided in mid-air on October 18, a month ago.

DISTRICT CHEESEMAKERS ATTEND SOCIAL EVENING

Mr. E. V. Ilsey, manager of the Bank of Commerce, of Belleville, was the next speaker, and stated that while he was directly connected with the banking business, he was greatly interested in the cheese industry, which had been labelled as the million dollar industry of this district. Five million dollars would not be an extravagant estimate of the amount of money set at work by this industry through the various business channels, claimed Mr. Ilsey.

Referring to the unsettled condition in world affairs today, Mr. Ilsey stated the solution laid in the restoration of freedom in international trade. Unless we are able to sell our produce in the markets of the world and in return were willing to buy articles made in the different countries of the world, we would have no export market. What would happen if we had no market for the cheese industry? Britain is showing the way to the other nations, opening her markets to the world, while Germany and France are closed to our product. United States, under their present administration, allows the entry of our cheese. Trade channels will have to be opened to restore prosperity.

During the past year the make of cheese was up twelve per cent, which was a great achievement, continued the speaker. However, there had been a decrease in the percentage of first grade cheese manufactured from 95.42 to 92.88, which was not a good feature. The best Canadian Cheese going to England went from the Belleville and Brockville district, with Belleville leading the way. If the drop in the first grade cheese has been due to an easing down on the part of the producers it has meant a weakening of the chain. Fifteen per cent. of all cheese going into Britain in 1936 was from Canada, but in 1937 this had been increased to nineteen per cent, which was making good progress.

In closing, Mr. Ilsey stated the banks were just as anxious today as ever to assist the cheese producer, so long as he was reliable as kept his word.

Chas. F. Linn, instructor of Stirling District, stated that while the percentage of first grade cheese was not as high this year, it would be better next year. He thought the cheesemakers and instructors had been a little careless in the quality of milk taken in to produce cheese. If the cheesemakers were a little more critical when taking in the milk, it would make a big difference.

Prizes for makers having highest score on their cheese for 1937 were announced by Mr. Linn as follows:

WELLMAN'S W. I.

The Wellmans Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Matthews on Thursday, last week, with a large attendance. The President, Mrs. Matthews, opened the meeting with singing "The Institute Ode" and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. Minutes of last regular meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Lindsay Pollock, and approved. Roll call "The most neighbourly thing that ever happened to me." It was decided to hold a Christmas exchange of presents. It was also decided to apply for Government grant. The secretary read a letter asking for aid to the six hundred victims of Infantile Paralysis, and it was agreed to send three dollars. Mrs. E. Todd gave a reading "The Ideal Hostess." Topic "Four Square Institute" by Mrs. Carl Clancy. Mrs. Burk Stephens, a member of Seymour East Institute gave a very interesting demonstration of rug-making and had several very nice wool rugs on exhibition. The hostess served delicious home-made candy. After a vote of thanks to Mrs. Stephens and to Mrs. Matthews, the meeting was closed with the National Anthem.
